NOTE HOLDERS NAME KEMPER, DEMOCRAT AID

Say as Receiver He 'Sold Them Out.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—A petition filed today in Federal court seeks permission for Representative George H. Tinkham of Massachusetts and his two sisters to intervene as plaintiffs in the suit filed in the Supreme court on Jan. 7, 1929, against William T. Kemper, banker, and Democratic national chairman of Missouri.

Mr. Kemper is charged with having profited by more than $6,000,000 when he was serving as the receiver of the bankrupt Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad. This profit, it is alleged, was at the expense of the security holders of the bankrupt company and was in connection with its sale to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé.

It is alleged that Mr. Kemper withheld knowledge of the road and of its generally improved financial condition from holders of two year 6 per cent gold notes, the road's only security issue, which were defaulted in April, 1916, and that these were brought through agents at from 10 to 25 cents on the dollar. Then it is charged Kemper sold these securities with the control of the road to the Santa Fé.

Tinkham Owned $10,000 Notes.

The plea for intervention is based by Mr. Tinkham on the fact that he and his sisters were the joint owners of $10,000 worth of the gold notes which were sold for $1,166.67. It is alleged that $24,000 worth of the notes, owned by Dr. James C. Ayer, one of the original plaintiffs, were sold for $6,000. The other plaintiffs are Harold D. Corey, Rosalind Wood, Cornelius A. Wood, William M. Wood Jr., Junius Beebe, Charles F. Ayer, Frederick and Katharine Ayer, and Louis Ayer Holloway, all of Boston, and Beatrice Ayer Patton of Brookline, Mass. All of these persons, it is alleged, were holders of notes which have found their way into the possession of Mr. Kemper and his associates through purchase by their brokers and attorneys.

The "Orient system," which was organized in 1900, planned a railroad from Kansas City to the west coast of Mexico. By 1912 about $30,000,000 was spent on construction and the line then was only partly completed. A receivership became necessary and Mr. Kemper was appointed a member of the bondholders' reorganization committee, which was headed by Lord Monson of England. The stockholders were wiped out.

Failure Due to War.

Two years later the road was authorized to sell $5,640,200 of the gold notes, the money to be used to complete the line. Forty per cent of the notes were in English hands and retirement of them failed because of the inability of the English holders to send money here. This failure was due to the war. Mr. Kemper was named receiver for 725 miles of trackage in the United States and a year later he was named co-receiver of 200 miles of the line in Mexico.

Until 1924, the complaint says, the road was unprofitable, but then came higher freight rates, the discovery of oil along the line in Texas and Oklahoma, and several trunk lines were negotiating for purchase of the "Orient system." These facts, it is alleged, Mr. Kemper kept from the stockholders and in information and belief it is charged that while receiver from 1924 to 1926 inclusive there were large expenditures for improvements, maintenance, and operation. These expenses, it is said, would have been properly charged to the capital account, but instead were assigned to the operating costs.

In 1924, the complaint asserts the road was sold for $3,000,000 in foreclosure proceedings to Clifford Histed of Kansas City, a member of the noteholders' committee and attorney for Mr. Kemper. Mr. Histed is alleged to have said during a court action that he was acting only for himself in the purchase, but later declared that has acting as the representative of the entire group of noteholders.

10 to 25 Cents on Dollar.

Then the complaint says: "On information and belief" that about this time and later Mr. Kemper and others in order to buy, for less than their face value, the gold notes offered from

THUNDER STORM CIMAXES DAY OF SPRING WEATHER

A thunder shower, more appropriate to April than February, occurred early this morning. The first rain drops, accompanied by a rumbling crescendo in the heavens fell thick and spattered bubbles on the pavements, but the rain soon abated to a quiet patter that may have lulled back to sleep those whom the thunder awakened.

Early last evening a dense fog rolled upon the city from the lake, due to a 9 degree drop in the temperature between 5 and 6 p. m. A sudden shift of wind from the south to the east caused the temperature change, according to the weather bureau.

Illinois Central trains slowed down and motorists moved along the outer drive at half pace as the almost impenetrable fog swept in. Headlights glowed faintly and red tail lights were invisible in the saturated atmosphere.

A maximum temperature of 63 degrees was attained at 5 p. m., just before the sudden drop to 54 degrees. As the east wind subsided last night the thermometer began gradually climbing again.

80 AT ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Today's 80 degrees of temperature set a new record for Feb. 24, but failed, by four degrees, to reach the top figures for the month, which was set Feb. 1, 1911. The mark, however, was the second hottest here since the weather bureau tabulations were started in 1873. The month's low mark is 18 degrees below zero, set Feb. 13, 1905.

Gerty to Tell Congressmen of Dry Misery

Armed with a devastating statistical analysis of the increase in crime, poverty, and insanity in Illinois and Cook county and Chicago, Dr. Francis J. Gerty, superintendent of the psychopathic hospital, will leave for Washington today to appear before the house judiciary committee in the hearing on prohibition. Dr. Gerty will represent President Cermak of the county board in the attack on the 18th amendment.

The following table of comparisons between 1918 and 1929 on crime and poverty and other prohibition factors indicates in outline some of the information which Dr. Gerty will present to the congressmen:

	1918.	1929.	Dry ers
Drunken autopsis [city]	225	990	339%
Disorderly [city].....	44,949	85,997	91%
Bridewell prisoners	10,134	17,556	76%
County jail.....	9,672	13,041	34%
Joliet	1,823	3,945	143%
Pontiac	992	1,941	116%
Chester	271	309	14%
Alcoholic deaths [c'ty]	86	208	142%
Psychopathic patients...	3,950	5,380	88%
County hospital.....	29,525	46,750	58%
County aid to poor.....	6,777	12,909	90%
Insanity Petitions.....	3,177	4,351	37%
Elgin insane.....	2,100	3,214	53%
Oak Forest inmates.....	3,279	3,679	12%
Kankakee patients.....	3,289	3,831	17%
Indictments in county..	2,891	4,425	53%

Dr. Gerty explained that the only reason that the increase is not greater in many of the institutions is because they are now overcrowded. If it were possible to house all persons seeking admittance or ordered confined, there would be a considerable increase in the percentage in the poorhouse and hospital inmates, he said.

RUM KILLS AND BLINDS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—One 16 year old youth is dead, two other high school boys are recovering from poisoning, and one girl partially recovered today from blindness and poisoning caused by drinking poisoned liquor in parties over the week-end.

Police are seeking the bootlegger whose product brought death to Donald Ashworth, 16, and partial paralysis to his companion, Charlie Post and Paul Phelps, on a week-end pleasure ride to the desert. An inquest will be held Wednesday.

With Post and Phelps receiving hospital treatment, three others of the party, Lyle Said, 17; Evelyn Cameron, 15, and Annabel Miller, 15, all high school students, are being held at juvenile hall pending search for the bootlegger. The girls were not made sick. They told police that they tried to dissuade the boys from drinking the liquor which killed Ashworth. The party drove up to Highland Park police station late last night with Ashworth dead and Post and Phelps in convulsions.

Girl Virtually Blinded.

Maria Beste, 17, of Norwalk, a suburb, is recovering in a hospital ward of juvenile hall from another Saturday night dance and drinking party in which the potion was poisoned liquor. L. T. Eubanks, 19, her companion, is in the county jail under arrest on two charges. The girl was found, dazed and virtually blind, early Sunday morning by householders, who summoned a physician.

Alcoholism Killed Banker.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Coroner Schuyler C. Kelly announced today that acute alcoholism caused the death of Robert Sproule, 65, banker and oil operator of Bay City, Mich., who was found dead last Saturday in his hotel room here. Ernest Mundkowski, county chemist, had analyzed the contents of Sproule's stomach. Mr. Sproule, with a nephew, arrived here last Friday from Los Angeles.

11 DEAD, 113 INJURED, IS TOLL OF WRECK; TRIPLE INQUIRY OPENS

A full list of the eleven dead and 113 injured in the wreck of the Chicago bound North Shore electric train at Kenosha on Sunday night will be found on page 2. Three inquiries to fix blame for the wreck were started yesterday. Physicians at the two Kenosha hospitals, where the injured are being care for, said last night that more deaths probably will result from the disaster.

2 MEN SHOT BY U. S. DRY RAIDER; BOTH MAY DIE

Tulsa, Okla., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Two men were shot and wounded critically by a federal prohibition enforcement agent during a liquor raid on a residence near here tonight. Physicians held little hope for the recovery of George Lewis. Lawrence Morgan, his companion, suffered a bullet wound over his heart.

W. F. Wolverton, federal prohibition agent, said he shot in self-defense. Wolverton, with M. E. Craig, and Henry B. Jones, agents, who accompanied him, were taken into custody tonight by the United States marshal.

Wolverton said the raid was made upon an affidavit alleging the sale of liquor at the residence, and that after entering the house a woman occupant broke a jug of whisky, reached for an automatic pistol, and gave it to Lewis, who pointed the weapon at Wolverton. The gun did not discharge and Wolverton opened fire.

Author Jim Tully's Wife Sues Him for Divorce

Las Vegas, Nev., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Tully today filed suit for divorce from James A. Tully, "hobo author" of Hollywood, charging extreme cruelty.

Gang Leader Fires Back in Hospital Duel

Frank McErlane, notorious as Chicago's toughest beer gangster and thug, was wounded three times last night as he lay on a cot in a flower banked room of the German Deaconess hospital and fought a gun battle with two of his enemies. He fired as he lay on his back with his right leg, encased in a plaster cast, stretched in the air by weights and pulleys.

The two gangsters who attacked him fled under his fire and escaped in an automobile after wounding him once in the chest, once in the left groin, and once in the left wrist. Apparently neither of his assailants was wounded.

Blame Beer Gang Rivalry.

The motive for the shooting, the police were certain, was the rivalry of south side beer gangs, McErlane being allied with the Spike O'Donnell mob, but the identity of his assailants remained unknown to the police. McErlane insisted he did not know them, and, as is the fashion with gangsters, declared he wouldn't tell if he did know.

McErlane had been in the hospital since Jan. 28 suffering from a fracture of the right leg, caused by a revolver bullet just above the knee. When he entered the hospital he gave his name as Charles Miller, 36 years old, and said he had shot himself accidentally at his home at 8316 Ingleside avenue, when he dropped his revolver while cleaning it.

Policemen William A. Glennon and Joseph O'Malley of the stockyards district, in which McErlane centers his activities, took his statement and when his wife corroborated his story, they accepted it at its face value, reporting him to the police station as Charles Miller and making no further investigation. Commissioner Russell, after the shooting, started an investigation into police handling of the "Miller" incident.

Two Gunmen Enter Room.

Last night about 10:30 o'clock, while his private nurse, Miss Helen Vermaas, 5931 South Sangamon street, was absent from the room, the two gunmen entered.

McErlane was in a room on the second floor at the end of the corridor, overlooking 54th place. Apparently, the gunmen entered through a side door on 54th place, slipped quietly up the stairs, and walked in.

McErlane glanced toward the door as his visitors opened it and then whipped out an automatic pistol from under his pillow and began firing. He fired at least five shots at the pair as they stood in the doorway, two of the bullets splintering the panel of the door and three crashing through a window. It was not known how many shots his assailants fired in return, but there were at least three which hit their target.

In the cross fire one bullet shattered the globe of a street lamp in front of the residence of James W. Breen, first assistant corporation counsel, who lives directly opposite the hospital at 947 West 54th place. Other bullets spattered on Breen's front porch.

Gunmen Make Escape.

The fusillade echoed through the hospital corridors, but before officials could reach the room, which is somewhat isolated from the others on the same floor, the gunners had disappeared, apparently leaving the same way in which they had entered. Mrs. Isabel Reddy, 924 West 54th place, directly across the street from the side entrance, said she saw a black sedan pull away from the curb and swing around the corner south into Morgan street immediately after she heard the shots.

Policemen from the Stockyards station under Lieut. Garrett Coan, who went to the hospital said they failed to recognize McErlane as the notorious gangster and it was not until

Joseph Fallon, an ex-convict, who yesterday morning killed Policeman John F. Ryan of the Hudson avenue station in a rooming house at 1539 Clybourn avenue, was captured last night in a flat at 2419 Harrison street and died at 9:30 p. m. in the Bridewell hospital from five wounds inflicted by the man he shot.

Fallon shot Policeman Ryan when the latter attempted to arrest him on several robbery charges.

Fallon twice had been an object of court clemency or he would have been in prison yesterday. His record was disclosed during the six hours the police were raiding a half dozen places he had frequented.

Haffa Puts Police on Trail.

McErlane was identified as the gunman who shot Fallon by Titus Haffa, former Ald. Titus Haffa of the Forty-third ward notified the Hudson avenue station yesterday morning that Fallon, who had forefeited bonds on the latest robbery charge to be put against him, could be found in the home of Frank McGovern at 1593 Clybourn avenue.

The station flivver squad hurried there and searched the premises without finding Fallon. Ryan, who was 28 year old, married and the father of two children, has been a policeman 4½ years. He resided at 2447 West Chicago avenue. He was left behind to wait for Fallon.

Ryan was the only policeman present when Fallon knocked on the door. Mrs. Mary McGovern, her daughter, Marjorie, 14 years old, and another daughter, Mrs. Bernadine Nabar, 1909 Osgood street, were there with him. Ryan opened the door and showed Fallon his badge. Fallon fired immediately, two bullets hitting Ryan in the abdomen. Ryan had his pistol ready, but obeyed the regular police practice of permitting the criminal to have the first shot.

Fires as He Is Dying.

But even while dying Ryan was doing his duty and he put five bullets into Fallon.

Mrs. Nabar, who is only 16 years old and has been married two years, ran out to the corner to call a Checker cab. She brought the cab, driven by Tony Patti, 1945 North Winchester avenue, to the residence and meanwhile Mrs. McGovern was helping Fallon to the street.

Fallon, Mrs. McGovern, Mrs. Nabar, and the chauffeur were quickly out of sight in the cab and two minutes later Capt. Thomas Condon was at the side of the dying policeman, who was unable to tell what had happened. Ryan died on the way to St. Joseph's hospital.

Persons who had heard the shooting and saw the escape of Fallon and the two women gave Capt. Condon the number of the cab, 5151. At the cab company's offices it was learned this car was owned by Sam Agnello, 716 Gardner avenue, who employed Patti as a chauffeur. From him Capt. Condon learned Patti's address.

Start Pursuit of Killer.

Lieut. John L. Sullivan, head of a detective bureau supervising squad; Sergt. Sidney Sullivan, head of another squad, and Policeman James Sullivan, in temporary command of the homicide squad, learned from Haffa and from others of places Fallon would be likely to go if wounded and the bloody trail he had left made it certain he was shot at least once.

Sergt. George Schupolsky and his squad went to Patti's home and were ordered by Lieut. Sullivan to wait there till Patti was found.

Then at 5:30 o'clock Patti drove his cab to his own home and was starting to wash the blood from it when Schupolsky seized him. He told the sergeant he had driven Fallon and the two women to Clybourn and Webster avenues where they transferred to another cab. Schupolsky didn't wait, but brought him immediately to the Hudson avenue station where Capt. Condon questioned him.

Patti admitted he lied to the sergeant and started a rambling story of driving the three persons to Oak Park, saying he did so because Fallon threatened him with death. But finally Patti said:

"Then I took him to Harrison and Western avenue."

"What number?" Condon demanded.

"I don't know, but I will take you to the place, because he's still there," the chauffeur replied.

Start Raid on House.

In ten seconds the police station was emptied of all but the station crew. Four cars of police started on a swift trip on slippery streets and through heavy traffic. Arrived at the house Patti pointed out from the alley, Capt. Condon ordered half his force to go to the front. He, with Lieut. Sullivan and Sergt. Sullivan, ran up the rear steps, with several of the shotgun carriers behind.

Condon burst through the door with a mighty lunge and shouted "Police officer" to the two women he could see in the room beyond the kitchen.

Condon and the two Sullivans sprinted into the front room, shouting, "Where is he?" and there was Fallon lying on his back on the bed. They had their pistols against his head in a second and were searching for Fallon's pistol.

"Where's your gun?" they demanded.

"It's in a drawer in the bureau," Fallon said, pointing to the bureau. "I'm dying," he added.

Find Women in Flat.

Patti was brought in and he identified Fallon as the man he had driven away from the building at 1598 Clybourn avenue. He identified Mrs. McGovern and Mrs. Nabar as the women who accompanied Fallon. Assistant State's Attorney Ditchburne said last night that charges of accessory to murder would be placed against the two women.

Fallon, before he died, admitted to Capt. Condon that he had shot Ryan. His version of the shooting was about the same as the stories of the two women, Condon said—that he fired at Ryan first.

No men were in the house and the electric light bills were found to be in the name of Michael Brady. But a bit of questioning of people of the neighborhood gave the police the name of Charles Rafters, alias One-Eyed Rafters, alias Charles Moran, as the occupant of the flat. Rafters has a record as a burglar and a robber and like Fallon he obtained a felony waiver when charged with burglary in 1921 and was let off with a light sentence of one year in the house of correction. Another time he was fined but $5 for carrying a gun.

REDS' COUNSEL FINED BY JUDGE FOR CONTEMPT

Chicago radical agitators were rebuffed yesterday when Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen imposed a $100 fine on Attorney Albert Goldman, who was waiting in the court to demand jury trials for 11 communists arrested last Friday in the unemployment demonstration at the city hall. Goldman was held in contempt of court.

The judge was hearing a case when Attorney Goldman whispered unsolicited advice into the ear of the defendant. Court was suspended while the judge sought the advice of the Chicago Bar association concerning the lawyer's conduct.

Attorney Eugene McCaffery offered to apologise on behalf of Goldman.

"I don't think this is a case for leniency and I cannot accept your apology," said Judge Immenhausen. He warned the Russian sympathisers that they could not run his courtroom.

Attorney McCaffrey then asked for a stay of execution so that Goldman might ask for an appeal. Judge Immenhausen said he was not willing to retract the fine and walked from the bench.

Goldman allowed himself to be locked up rather than pay the fine.

While radicals were in court, a group of young women with red scarfs about their shoulders congregated in front of the court and police building and passed out pamphlets announcing another unemployment demonstration scheduled for March 6.

PUT EXPERT TAX REFUND UP TO ALDERMEN TODAY

The council judiciary committee will be given an opportunity this morning to determine whether the city is to proceed with efforts to collect $648,444 from the federal government for the city treasury. The money was paid to the government as income taxes by four real estate experts, defendants in THE TRIBUNE expert fee suit.

The case will be presented to the committee by Attorney Jay A. Schiller, who was retained by virtue of a council ordinance to seek the refund of the $648,444. Schiller filed a brief with the federal income tax bureau and was about to proceed with oral arguments when he was hastily recalled by Corporation Counsel Ettleson. Since then nothing has been done.

Ettelson objected to a quotation in Schiller's brief from the findings of the Circuit court in Chicago that Mayor Thompson was guilty with the experts in conspiring to defraud the city of more than $2,000,000. Schiller has sent a letter to the committee stating that the quotation is pertinent to the successful prosecution of the case.

OPEN 3 INQUIRIES ON 11 DEATHS IN KENOSHA WRECK

Tragic Stories Are Told of Train Disaster.

Three investigations were started yesterday into the wreck on Sunday night of a North Shore electric passenger train at Kenosha, in which eleven persons were killed and 113 others injured. Six of those injured were still in a serious condition last night at St. Catherine's hospital in Kenosha, and several of these are not expected to live.

As soon as the eleven bodies had been removed from the wreckage of the five steel coaches, which were piled up in a ditch beside the railroad tracks at Washington road after a collision with an automobile and a freight train, Coroner A. B. Schmitz of Kenosha county opened an inquest into the eleven deaths.

Await Motorman's Story.

The coroner swore in a jury of six men and then continued the hearing indefinitely in the hope that William B. Hall, motorman of the passenger train who was one of the six injured seriously, might recover and tell his story of the crash to the jury.

A second investigation on behalf of the state was started by the Wisconsin state railroad commission and members of the legislative interim commission on traffic. The third inquiry to fix the blame for the disaster was started by the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railway.

Investigators were unanimous in placing most of the blame for the freak collision between the passenger and freight trains and an automobile upon Norman E. Shinners, 21 years old, of Milwaukee, driver of the automobile, who was killed with his companion.

Lack of Gates Blamed.

Shinners apparently tried to beat the north bound freight train to the Washington road grade crossing in Kenosha, not noticing the passenger train approaching from the other direction. But Morris Barnett, district attorney of Kenosha county, pointed out that if crossing gates had been installed at the crossing the accident could not have occurred. The crossing is guarded by a wig-wag lighted signal and striped fences approaching the railroad.

An immediate result of the accident was the demand by the Kenosha Advancement association for gates at the Washington road crossing and at other unguarded grade crossings of the railroad in the city. William E. O'Brien, city manager, said the association has been working for several days drawing up petitions to the city council, asking that the railroad be required to install gates.

Official Version of Disaster.

After a day of questioning witnesses and inspecting the scene of the wreck, the coroner and his investigators chronicled the disaster as follows:

Shinners, accompanied by Frank Tomczak of Kenosha, was driving west in Washington road. His view to the south was open and he saw the north bound 16 car electric freight train approaching. The wig-wag light was operating. One automobile had already pulled up to let the freight train go by.

To the north, trees obscured the view until one was near the tracks. Shinners, therefore, probably did not see the south bound 5 car electric passenger train speeding over 50 miles an hour towards the crossing. He probably calculated, the investigators said, that he could beat the slower moving freight train with a margin of safety.

Beats One Train; Hit by Other.

Shinners did beat the freight train. But the passenger train struck the automobile with a terrific impact and hurled it sidewise. The small coupe was caught between the two trains and crunched to a mass of metal.

The passenger train rocked violently, then left the rails, plowing against the cars of the freight train and derailing thirteen of the latter cars. Then the passenger cars struck off into the eight foot ditch at a tangent. The first coach leaped half its length in the air, turned completely around, and settled with its nose toward the northwest.

The other four coaches were whipped off the tracks and into the ditch, folding up alongside the leading coach.

The entire disaster, from the collision with Shinners' automobile to the settling in the ditch of the passenger coaches, was a matter of seconds. To the passengers it was a slight shock [the impact with the automobile], followed by a ripping and splintering as the coaches tore into the freight cars, then a heaving and spinning, and the final deafening crash, followed by darkness.

Thrilling stories were told. There was Lee Paxton, 7614 Essex avenue, who was returning from Milwaukee with Miss Elizabeth Shema of the same address. Miss Shema, whom Paxton said he was to marry in the spring, was killed. Paxton received a slight nose injury. He found his sweetheart buried in the mud of the ditch with only a foot protruding.

An incident which might have occurred in a movie thriller was observed at the Kenosha hospital. Louise Powers, a nurse, was tending the stream of injured which poured into the receiving room. She washed away the blood and dirt from the face of an unconscious man to find that he was her brother, Albert, of Kenosha. Near him was his wife, Nettie.

William Rice, Kenosha city fireman, chopped his way through the wreckage of one of the coaches. He heard a woman's screams, looked down, and saw the face of his sister, Anna, a resident of Kenosha. He lifted her from the wreckage and took her to the hospital, where it was said she will recover.

A statement issued by the North Shore line declared that neither motorman could have prevented the accident and that it was "another case of a reckless driver disregarding plainly marked railroad crossing and signals and attempting to beat trains across crossings."

Ex-Police Lieutenant to Go on Trial Today

Former Police Lieutenant John W. Loftus of the auto detail will go on trial today in United States District court on charges of stealing automobiles and transporting them in interstate commerce. Loftus and ten other alleged members of an auto theft ring, were indicted under the Dyer act several months ago. Forty prominent Detroit residents, including John S. Haggerty, secretary of state, have been subpoenaed as witnesses.

Returns

For investment purposes consider real estate. The annual return in real estate is much higher than in stocks, averaging 20 per cent without any losses. Stocks offer only one chance in a hundred for financial independence. Real estate investment makes independence almost a certainty. Land is the basis of all wealth.

10 to 25 cents on a dollar had failed to advise noteholders of the betterment of the road's condition.

It is alleged in the complaint that under a new plan of reorganization the gold notes later were exchanged on the basis of one $1,000 note for 6 1-5 shares of new stock, and that on May 19, 1928, Mr. Kemper appeared before the interstate commerce commission, represented himself as the owner of more than sixty per cent of the stock and received permission to sell his holdings to the Santa Fé. The complaint asserts that he received a total of $8,423,090 for his 20,439 shares of stock. The entire issue, it is set forth, was 35,000 shares, the price being $414.50 a share. It was said that the English security holders sold direct to the Santa Fé.

Buys $850,000 in Claims.

Other allegations are that in 1917 Mr. Kemper, through the agency of a Peter W. Goebel. bought the claims of three construction companies against the railroad, and that as receiver he obtained court approval of the purchase of these claims by the railroad for $850,000. They were bought from the contractors, it is alleged, for $350,503.

Other charges contained in the complaint are that Mr. Kemper, through an agent, bought a $335,593.86 claim from the Carnegie Steel corporation against the road for $115,000 and later sold it to the railroad for $250,000. It is alleged that these two transactions netted Mr. Kemper a profit of $683,000.

Mr. Tinkham's two sisters who joined him in the petition for intervention are Rebecca W. Cramer of Charlotte, N. C., and Madeline T. Miller of Chicago.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—William T. Kemper, former receiver for the Orient railroad, said tonight that the suit filed in the east would give him an opportunity to bring into the open "the backwash of gossip, second guessing and innuendo," he said, concerning his administration of the Orient road.

"If I have erred in any way in the years I gave to the Orient, I am ready to pay any acts of commission or omission," he said. "If, on the other hand, this suit is largely a 'nuisance suit,' which is my opinion, I want its conclusion plainly read by all who have interested themselves."

salesmen of the beneficial interest shares in the taxpayers' trust. One question reads:

"What risk does the taxpayer incur?"

The answer is: "He incurs no risk. The managing committee will purchase no securities which have not been approved by competent counsel and which are practically a first lien on upwards of $10,000,000,000 worth of property. Taxpayers are not asked for a contribution. They are asked to invest in a perfectly good security, to do their duty as citizens and help their city in its distress.

"Will the managing committee [of the trust] supervise the expenditure of the funds?"

Can't Usurp the Power.

"The committee realizes that the people have elected public officials to administer the offices for which they have been chosen and that it is impossible for the committee to usurp the functions of these officials. However, the committee proposes to purchase from these officials only such securities as may be absolutely necessary to carry on the activities of government on the most economical basis. A condition precedent to the purchase will be the furnishing to the committee by the municipal authorities of a budget which the committee will carefully scrutinize from time to time in order that the committee may know that the money contributed by the taxpayers is being used to carry on the essential functions of the government and that it is not being recklessly expended."

"FOR THE HONOR OF CHICAGO . . ."

THIS is Chicago's hour of need. In dire distress, she appeals, for the first time in her history, to loyal citizens and business interests. Through the Citizens Tax Certificate Committee, she asks them to buy $74,000,000 worth of attractive interest-bearing Certificates for Shares of Beneficial Interest in Cook County Taxpayers' Warrant Trust—to lift Chicago from a desperate situation of insolvency.

This entreaty should meet with prompt and willing response. Civic pride and loyalty should actuate every true Chicagoan to rally speedily to his city's support. The whole world is watching us. Already only too prone to criticize our city, people everywhere are waiting to see what we will do in the present emergency. Let us show them that we have supreme faith in Chicago!

Fundamentally, our city is financially sound. Our per capita bonded debt is not nearly as great as that of New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Baltimore, or Pittsburgh. The tax warrants, a direct lien on collectible taxes, are not only a safe credit risk, but an attractive interest-bearing investment, redeemable, at the very latest, in a year and a half.

Business men will recognize the advisability of purchasing immediately and in generous amounts. The commercial pulse of the city will be quick to reflect the beneficial effects of paying back-salary to 43,936 public employees.

Hartman's join with the Citizens Tax Certificate Committee in a special appeal to Chicago business interests, urging them to buy these Certificates for Shares of Beneficial Interest. Let us say with all due modesty that in the first hours of the drive we ourselves pledged $100,000, and we urge every business institution to subscribe liberally. Subscriptions will be taken by any bank.

A united interest and loyalty will soon restore the good credit of our city. Let's put Chicago's credit back where it belongs!

BROKER GIVES POISON TO SON, KILLS HIMSELF

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Phillip Frisbie Lewis, 37, broker and amateur artist, killed himself by drinking poison here last night after he was said by police to have administered a similar dose to his 3 year old son, Phillips Jr.

Phillips Jr. was taken to a hospital where his condition was pronounced critical.

The elder Lewis, according to the version given police by the widow, Mrs. Beatrice Lewis, reprimanded her over a trivial matter and a heated quarrel ensued. During the argument, police were told, Lewis went to another room, taking their young son.

A few minutes later, Mrs. Lewis said, the boy screamed and she ran to the room to find Lewis writhing on the floor, a bottle beside him. The child then collapsed. When an ambulance arrived, Lewis was dead and the son unconscious.

SUES SCHIRESON FOR $15,000 FOR SCARRED NOSE

Dr. Henry J. Schireson, plastic surgeon, who faces revocation of his license as a result of the recommendation of the medical board of the state department of education and registration, yesterday was sued for $15,000 damages by Charles O. Erickson, 29 years old, 7024 Yale avenue. Erickson's nose is scarred and misshapen, the result, he charges of efforts of Schireson to straighten it three years ago.

Erickson brought a suit for $100,000 against the doctor on Dec. 20, 1928. It was the third suit against Schireson. Miss Billie Walker, an actress sued for $50,000 for an identical operation, and Miss Sadye Holland, whose legs had to be amputated after Schireson persuaded her to undergo an operation to correct bowlegs, brought suits earlier. Miss Holland won a $40,000 settlement and appeared against Schireson in the recent trial.

Erickson caused the plastic surgeon's arrest on charge of mayhem early last year. Schireson was released when Municipal Judge Daniel P. Trude held that the prosecution had failed to prove malice and intent. Erickson allowed the first suit to drop and filed the new action through Attorney Stuart B. Krohn.

Doctor Pays Estranged Wife and Escapes Jail

Dr. Joseph Bryl, 4018 North Leclaire avenue, narrowly escaped a jail sentence when he was brought before Superior Judge Gentzel yesterday for failure to pay temporary alimony arrears of $154. His estranged wife, Mrs. Jeannette Bryl is suing for divorce, alleging that her husband forced her to scrub floors. When the doctor said that he was unable to pay, the judge ordered him taken into custody. A few minutes after he was taken from the courtroom, Dr. Bryl gave his wife $100. He was ordered to pay the balance and meet future payments of $50 a month.

To Dedicate Dam

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Ex-President Calvin Coolidge has decided to accept an invitation, relayed to him here by President Hoover., to go to San Carlos, Ariz., and dedicate Coolidge dam on the Gila river on Tuesday, March 4.

The Coolidges will start eastward on Monday, after two weeks in southern California.

Four officers guarded the Coolidges in their hotel suite here as a result of a letter warning the ex-president of an attempt to be made on his life. The letter was received by Mrs. Coolidge at breakfast this morning.

Guards accompanied the Coolidge train tonight.

Ninety-two leading industrial plants of the Chicago region lost a total of 15,544 working days because of accidents among their 83,000 employés during the six months ending on Dec. 31, 1929.

This was revealed yesterday in figures submitted in the accident prevention contest conducted by the Chicago Safety council. A total of 1,197 accidents occurred during a working aggregate of 102,530,713 man-hours.

The winner of the contest was the printing plant of the Western Electric company. Employés of the plant will be presented a plaque at the eighth annual Midwest Safety conference on March 18.

Evanston to Vote on Sunday Movies April 1

The city council of Evanston last night by a vote of 12 to 1 ordered the question of permitting Sunday movies in the suburb placed on the ballot for the municipal election on April 1. The action was taken after petitions, signed by 10,405 persons, had been filed, asking for the referendum.

ROCKEFELLER SR. SAID TO RESUME OIL DICTATION

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The New York Herald-Tribune tomorrow will publish a report that John D. Rockefeller Sr., who has remained in the background for many years, has again taken the initiative in dictating oil policies.

It was Mr. Rockefeller, now in his 91st year, who directed Standard interests to order a cut in the price of Texas and Mid Continent crude oil without notice to competitors, the newspaper has learned from a trustworthy authority.

The same authority said the hand of the elder Rockefeller was evident in the proposed consolidation and regrouping of Standard and former Standard units, as illustrated by the acquisition of Anglo-American Oil company, Ltd., by Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the proposed merger of Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company.

Comrade Late, 11 Jurors Acquit Pair of Theft

The inaccessability of the criminal court building at 26th street and California avenue resulted yesterday in the trial of a case with eleven jurors, instead of twelve. The jurors acquitted Alexander Murray and Berger Force of the theft of some turkeys in Evanston. Arthur A. Bobbich, 1022 North Oakley avenue, the missing juror, appeared just as Judge E. F. Frankhauser was completing his instructions to the jury. He explained the delays in transporation had caused him to be late.

WOMAN ACCUSED IN FAKE HOLDUP MAY EVADE TRIAL

Mrs. Price Expected to Turn State's Evidence.

Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of Edwin Price, wealthy woodenware manufacturer, may escape trial for a conspiracy to stage a fake robbery by turning state's evidence against two of the men indicted in the alleged plot. This appeared likely yesterday when Mrs. Price was granted a separate trial before Judge Henry B. Miller in the Criminal court at the request of the state's attorney's office.

Maurice A. Barnett, a jeweler's salesman, and Max Krakow, a wholesale jeweler, were left to face the jury alone. Attorneys Harold Levy and Edwin I. Rothbart, for the defense, objected to the apparent granting of immunity for Mrs. Price and insisted that she be placed on trial with their clients. The judge, however, denied their plea.

Woman in Court.

Attorney Leonard C. Reid of the law firm of Litsinger, Healy and Reid, which is headed by Edward R. Litsinger, Deneen political chieftain, appeared in court yeserday to represent Mrs. Price. He left the courtroom with her after the separate trial was granted. She was not required to make a plea to the indictment.

The prosecution contends that Mrs. Price became desperate because of gambling losses, and did not want her wealthy husband to learn of them, and that after she had obtained a loan from Barnett the robbery plot was formulated to get insurance money.

Robber Pair Confess Plot.

Mrs. Price was robbed on Feb. 25, 1929 of an $18,000 fur coat and $2,500 in jewels. The insurance was paid. Later Ben Levine and Joseph Baum confessed the robbery, telling of the alleged plot, and Mrs. Price was arrested in her rooms at the Seneca hotel.

Four jurors were selected at the court session yesterday.

Tries to Coax Small Girls Into Auto, Is Fined $200

Allen B. Caldwell, 354 13th street, Milwaukee, arrested Saturday night by Evanston police as he was attempting to induce two little girls to enter his automobile, was fined $200 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct by Justice of the Peace James G. Barber in the Evanston court yesterday.

UPHOLD 60 DAY SENTENCE FOR TIPSY DRIVER

Real Estate Dealer Loses Appeal.

The Appellate court yesterday upheld the sixty day sentence and $100 fine imposed last June 26 on Joseph Kyle, 4246 Sheridan road, wealthy real estate broker, convicted of driving while intoxicated. Kyle has ten days in which to ask for a rehearing. He was sentenced by Municipal Judge Samuel H. Trude after being convicted in a jury trial.

In waging his fight Kyle may lose credit for the 25 days he already has served under the sentence.

Kyle was arrested the morning of Memorial day after his car struck a milk wagon, injuring the driver, Michael Heber, 3960 Normandy avenue, in front of 5046 Irving Park boulevard.

In 1923 Kyle killed C. C. Hudson, 80 years old, of Harvey, on Wabash avenue. Witnesses testified that he was going at a 60 mile an hour pace. He was sentenced to serve from one to fourteen years on a charge of manslaughter, but won acquital at a second trial.

Five deaths raised the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 125. The victims:

Robert Kirkwood, 21 years old, 220 West 104th street. Died in the Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, of injuries received when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by an Indiana Outer Belt freight train at 39th street and Indiana avenue, Riverdale, Sunday.

Joseph Nalepa, 45 years old, 4847 Elizabeth street. His body, with the skull fractured and neck broken, was found early yesterday in a ditch at 147th and Clyde avenues, Calumet City, where he had apparently been hurled by a hit and run motorist.

Mrs. Lena Sutorious, 57 years old, 2328 North Keeler avenue. Died of injuries received on Jan. 26 in an auto collision at Ogden avenue and Madison street.

Raymond Cross, 40 years old, 6312 Dorchester avenue, a carpenter. Instantly killed when his automobile collided with a truck at 63d street and Dorchester avenue.

Nicholas Auer, 34 years old, 1625 North Wells street. Died at the Ravenswood hospital of injuries received last Saturday when he was thrown to the pavement in front of 4734 North Ashland avenue when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a parked car.

Mrs. Virginia Whiteside, a bride of four months, was killed and her husband, Howard Whiteside, a druggist of Sycamore, Ill., was seriously injured when their automobile crashed head on into a truck near Geneva, Ill.

Press dispatches last night reported the death in an auto collision at Bridgeport, Conn., of Henry Stewart Hadsell of Chicago, who recently graduated from Princeton.

FIND MURDERED WOMAN AS MATE KILLS HIMSELF

Niles, Mich., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Bones of the legs, right arm and skull of the body of Mrs. Rosella Plovie, 42, murdered by her husband Nov. 23 at their modest home here, were found late today in the furnace by officers, who a few hours earlier had discovered the torso with the left arm attached in the backyard under a foot of dirt.

Her husband, Phillip Plovie, 52, a contractor, committed suicide Sunday afternoon by shooting himself through the right temple with a revolver in the basement of the home while a deputy sheriff and a state detective waited nearby to accuse him of the murder of his wife.

Bones Are Broken Up.

In the charred remains in the still hot ashes also was found the head of a hammer, which it is believed he used to break up the bones. Sunday was the second time that Plovie was to be questioned concerning the disappearance of his wife. Officers had questioned him last Thursday and it is believed that he then had the body hidden in the basement and only a few days ago placed a part of it in the furnace and the torso in the backyard.

It is believed that Plovie murdered his wife with a bullet from the same revolver he used to kill himself. Finding his wife's glasses and clothing in the house first led to the belief that Plovie had slain her.

Deputy Sheriff C. S. Overcash and State Detective Lyle Hutson of Lansing, called on Plovie Sunday afternoon as he was about to sit down to dinner at the home of his wife's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baker, whose home is one block north of the Plovie residence. The officers told Plovie they wished to talk with him at his home and he excused himself saying that he wanted to eat first and then he would accompany them to his home.

Plovie Becomes Nervous.

Plovie ate little food, however. When he started to leave the table his sister-in-law, observing that he was nervous, handed him a detective magazine, the cover of which depicted a man thrusting a dagger into a woman's bosom. As she did so she said, "Now, Phillip, don't be worried about those officers questioning you. You have nothing to fear if you are innocent."

While the two policemen were outside talking to Baker, Plovie left by a rear door and went to the basement of his home. After testing a revolver by shooting a bullet into a piece of sheet metal, he shot himself in the right temple. Overcash and Hutson in the meantime had gone to the Plovie home, where they waited in their car, believing that he would come outside. After 45 minutes the officers went to the front door, which was locked. Then they broke in and found Plovie's body slumped down in a corner of the furnace room.

Dig Holes in Basement.

A thorough investigation of the premises was started. After large holes had been dug in the basement, workmen this morning started turning over dirt in the back yard where a shred of blood stained dark brown hair was found in an ash heap. Sheriff Fred G. Bryant's shovel touched some soft earth and the men soon uncovered the torso which still was dressed in a night garment and wrapped in a gunnysack. The left arm still was intact, the legs, right arm, and head were missing. These later were found in the furnace.

Plovie was much smaller than his wife, she weighed about 190 pounds and was three inches taller than her husband. They frequently quarreled and friends and relatives tell of a violent quarrel they had only a few days before her mysterious disappearance. They jointly had signed a note of $275 for her brother and it had come due and Mr. Baker was unable to meet it. This caused harsh words between Plovie and his wife as also did their wish to spend Thanksgiving day at different places and his failure to sell a house which his wife wanted sold.

It is estimated that the Plovies were worth about $40,000. They jointly held deeds on all their property and also had joint bank accounts.

When questioned concerning the whereabouts of his wife, Plovie told conflicting stories of her leaving the house the night of Nov. 23.

Mrs. Plovie had been married twice and divorced before she wed Plovie, and he had been married once and divorced.

OVERCOME BY AUTO FUMES; SAVED.

Overcome by carbon monoxide gas yesterday while repairing his car, Chester Sherkey, 27, a rug weaver of 4010 Kenmore avenue, was found unconscious by his wife, who called inhalator squad 4. He was revived.

SECRECY PRECAUTIONS HINT NEW INQUIRY ON LIQUOR IN INDIANA

Secrecy surrounding the calling of a northern Indiana federal grand jury at South Bend yesterday led to a revival of recent rumors that new steps are to be made to blot out the wetness in Lake county and surrounding territory. Special efforts were made by Federal Judge Slick to insure against leaking of information from the grand jury, and newspaper reporters were not even allowed on the sixth floor of the federal building where the jury is hearing evidence.

So zealous were court attaches in attempting to carry out the judge's orders that the press was barred from hearing the charge of the court read to the jury. It was afterwards released, however, and found to contain nothing of an unusual nature. The only clew to the purpose behind calling a new jury was the presence of half a dozen prohibition agents in and about the office of United States Attorney Oliver Loomis, and the fact that Ethan Allen Miles, general counsel of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, conferred at length with Deputy Prohibition Administrator Howard A. Long.

STATE DEPICTS KUNZ AS GRAFTER IN TRIAL OPENING

Congressman and Son Accused of Conspiracy.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Chester Sussla, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Gus Gurdia and Jack Calabrese, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Congressman Stanley H. Kunz of the Eighth district heard himself portrayed yesterday before a jury in Judge Harry Fisher's Criminal court as a man who had taken $400 in graft from a candidate for a policeman's job. The accusation was made by Assistant State's Attorney George S. Lavin. The Democratic congressman and his son, Stanley Jr., are on trial on charges of conspiracy to graft in order to evade the civil service laws.

The veteran northwest side politician stared at the ceiling, seemingly bored by the proceedings, as Prosecutor Lavin sketched for the jury the evidence to be unfolded today by Roman Trochowski, the police candidate, and his brothers. The congressman stroked his chin whiskers frequently. His son was more attentive.

Jury Chosen Speedily.

The jury to hear the case was picked quickly after Judge Fisher instructed the veniremen to forget politics and try the case on its merits. The jury was selected by 4 p. m. and Prosecutor Lavin made his opening statement and the technical proof of the state was introduced by time for adjournment.

The name of Edward Denemark, one of the civil service commissioners, was frequently mentioned by Prosecutor Lavin. He said, however, that Denemark would take the witness stand for the state and deny the statements made by Kunz to the Trochowski brothers that Denemark was the "fix" in the case and had obtained the $400.

Prosecutor Lavin told the jury that the plot to evade the civil service laws by graft payment originated in February, 1929, when Walter Trochowski, a plumber, was sent to do some work in the basement of the Kunz home at 1916 Potomac avenue. Walter mentioned that his brother Roman had taken the police examination.

Accuses Kunz and Son.

"Young Stanley Kunz told him that it would cost money to get his brother on the department and that he would have to see the proper parties," said the prosecutor. "Walter Trochowski told him he would be willing to spend some money and asked for suggestions as to who to see. Stanley Jr. brought his father down to the basement and the latter said he would see Commissioner Denemark and find out how much it would cost."

The price of $400 was fixed and Walter Trochowski borrowed the money from a bank and paid the sum in a cashier's check to Kunz, the prosecutor said. Neither the money nor the job was forthcoming, he continued, and Trochowski threatened to go to the prosecutor's office. After he did so Congressman Kunz paid back the money and obtained a receipt which purported to show that the money was paid on a loan, Lavin charged.

AUTOMOBILE DEATHS 31,000 IN U. S. IN 1929, SHOWING AN INCREASE

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Motor vehicles took the lives of approximately 31,000 persons in this country last year, an increase of 11.05 per cent over the fatality toll of 27,968 in 1928, according to figures reported to the Travelers' Insurance company by thirty-seven states and the District of Columbia.

The population of the territory included in the reports is in excess of 95,000,000.

All but eleven of the states reported increases, ranging from .2 per cent to more than 49 per cent, while in Kentucky the fatality toll was the same last year as in 1928. The smallest percentage increase was in Connecticut, while the 49.38 per cent gain in New Hampshire was the greatest. The only state other than Connecticut to show an increase of less than one per cent was Virginia.

HUGE STILL AND BOOZE SEIZED; OWNERS ESCAPE

A large still and approximately 15,000 gallons of alcohol were seized by dry agents under Deputy Administrator C. Edson Smith in a raid on a building at 814 South Michigan avenue last night. The operators evidently escaped as the raiders entered the building, agents said, for the still was operating at full capacity.

The still occupied nearly the entire three story building, with a 17 foot cooling column extending through two floors. Several tanks of alcohol, the largest holding more than 10,000 gallons, were found. The still had a capacity of 2,000 gallons.

In another raid at 114th and Front streets agents seized a 500 gallon still and 220 gallons of alcohol. Sixteen thousand gallons of mash were in the vats ready for distilling. The operator, John Cisk, was arrested.

McERLANE SHOT BY GUNMEN ON HOSPITAL BED

Gangster Returns Fire of Two Enemies.

Lieut. Al Booth of the detective bureau arrived that he was definitely identified. In the meantime, Deputy Commissioner Stege, to whom McErlane had once given the name of Charles Miller, suspected who the wounded man was and ordered fingerprints taken. The fingerprints revealed McErlane's identity.

Stege ordered McErlane removed to the Bridewell hospital and when Chief of Detectives Egan informed McErlane of the plan, he cried:

"They'll kill me if you take me out to the Bridewell."

Taken to Bridewell Hospital.

The police, however, removed him there over his protest, declaring he would be safe from his enemies there and that he was an inconvenience to the other patients at the German Deaconess hospital.

McErlane has long been known as Chicago's most dangerous gunman and has several times been indicted for murder. Three years ago he was freed after a trial at Valparaiso in the murder of Thaddeus Fancher, Crown Point attorney, who was slain three years before in an Indiana roadhouse. In the same year and while a rival of the O'Donnell gang with which he is now allied, he was dismissed on charges of murdering George Meegan and Sport Bucher of the O'Donnells and of killing Morrie Keane in a beer hijacking war.

McErlane had been questioned repeatedly in other gang killings in recent years but escaped the "rap" for all of them. Since his break with Joe Saltis and his south side gang, McErlane has been aligned with the gang which is regarded as the Saltis outfit's most hated rival.

Because of his known "hardness," the gangsters who attacked him apparently waited until they considered him helpless and then took advantage of his previous wound to attempt to kill him.

Gunman Threatens Three in Store, Steals $1,400

FIREMEN WIN 3 BATTLES; ONE IS DEAD; 1 MAY DIE

Maurice Shanahan, 35 years old, a member of squad 6 of the fire department, died last night in St. Mary's hospital of gas poisoning contracted yesterday morning while fighting a blaze in a factory occupied by the Dante Candy company, 2522 West Chicago avenue. Six other firemen, who were overcome by escaping illuminating gas, were reported out of danger last night.

In a blaze which enveloped a four story brick building, occupied by several distributing companies at 247 East Illinois street, last evening, Lieut. August Spera, 38 years old, of engine 11, stumbled into an elevator shaft and fell twenty feet from the second floor to the basement. He suffered a fracture of the pelvis and internal injuries which may cause death, according to surgeons at Passavant hospital.

Loop traffic was snarled for half an hour last night while fire companies extinguished a small blaze in the billiard and bowling halls of A. L. Bensinger & Sons, 73 West Monroe street.

CHILD CAN'T NAP ON DAD'S TIME, JUDGE OPINES

A child's sleep must suit the convenience of its parents, Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis ruled yesterday. Mrs. Grace Nelson, 2226 Arthur avenue, appeared before him to demand that her husband, Herbert C. Nelson, 6357 North Hermitage avenue, change the hours allotted for him to have their daughter, pending decision on the wife's action for divorce, because he was interfering with the child's sleep.

Nelson is allowed to have the baby on alternate Saturdays and Sundays from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m., and from 2 to 7 p. m. on Wednesday. Mrs. Nelson protested that the baby, Arline, 4 years old, customarily sleeps in the afternoons from 2 to 4, and asked to be allowed to take the baby home for her afternoon nap.

"The baby can catch up with its sleep some other time," Judge Lewis said. "Let the order stand."

Makes 26 Visits to Court; Wins Divorce and Alimony

On her twenty-sixth appearance in court in six months for unpaid temporary alimony, Mrs. Helen Furman Schaefer, 7650 West End avenue, yesterday won a divorce from Douglas Schaefer, 1624 East 86th place, and a settlement of $1,500 before Circuit Judge Lynch. She charged cruelty. The Schaefers were married Jan. 29, 1927, and separated last Aug. 23. On each of her visits the wife charged that her husband was well able to pay the $20 a week temporary alimony, alleging that he was a prosperous bootlegger. The settlement was made because Schaefer had not met the payments.

Chicago Auto Thief Is Arrested in Florida

Authorities at Pensacola, Fla., last night notified the Chicago police that they had arrested L. P. Rudd of Chicago, traveling in a sedan which Rudd admitted having stolen six weeks ago at Lake street and Michigan avenue. The car was identified through license records as the property of H. E. Hoover of the Edgewater Beach hotel. Chief of Detectives Egan requested the Pensacola police to hold Rudd for extradition.

Why can't Electrolux grow noisy with age?

If you want to make a real test of how quietly an automatic refrigerator operates, don't go to the display room where it is sold.

Visit the home of some friend who has owned that refrigerator for a year or more. Then you will get the true answer.

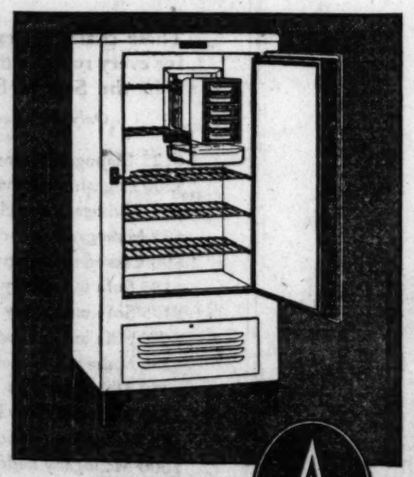
One of the unique things about Electrolux is that it can't grow noisy with age. No matter how long you operate this refrigerator, it can't make a sound.

Here's the reason why. In Electrolux there is no machinery, not a single moving part to wear, to vibrate, to make sound. A tiny gas flame, a slight trickle of water, do all the work. They circulate the refrigerant that actually produces cold—endlessly, noiselessly.

There is no stopping and starting. The process of making cold goes on all the time. Consequently the temperature inside your Electrolux varies scarcely at all from the ideal point.

Electrolux works absolutely without attention. The refrigerant is hermetically sealed in a rigid one-piece steel unit for a lifetime—never needs renewal. Even the little gas flame is equipped with an automatic shut-off. This prevents the flow of unlighted gas.

The only way Electrolux announces its presence is by the good service it renders. When you put food in it, you notice the refrigerator is always cold, that it keeps things perfectly. When you need ice cubes there are always plenty there. Desserts freeze perfectly. Salads are chilled to perfection, and sandwiches stay fresh.



The Hostess Model Electrolux, a roomy refrigerator for average families. Five cubic feet of food space; makes 45 large ice cubes.

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

QUICK FACTS!

1. Permanently noiseless.
2. Absolutely safe.
3. Only a few cents a day to operate.
4. Lasts indefinitely.
5. No mechanism to wear, to vibrate, to need oil.
6. Free from trouble.
7. Perpetual, steady cold.
8. Plenty of pure ice cubes.
9. Tested and endorsed by national authorities.

But quietness and efficiency aren't the only things you get when you have Electrolux. You have all the advantages of automatic refrigeration—plus a reduction of your refrigeration bills to a fraction of their former cost. Electrolux costs less to use than any other system of refrigeration—only a few cents a day to operate. Figure out how much extra money such savings give you for other things!

And when you buy an Electrolux, you don't have to pay a higher price for its extra advantages. It costs about the same, size for size, as other automatic refrigerators—$195 to $490. Various models and colors to choose from. Liberal purchase terms. See Electrolux at our display rooms. And get complete illustrated information by mail. Send the coupon below.

RUSSIA SEIZES MORE CHURCHES IN WAR ON GOD

Sells Fittings to Buy American Tractors.

Appeals to U. S.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The senate tonight unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon the United States government to do everything in its power to persuade the officials of soviet Russia to desist from the present policy of abolishing churches and the "persecution and destruction" of priests, ministers, rabbis, and their churches and synagogues. Last week the assembly passed a resolution protesting the soviet action against Christian churches.

MOSCOW, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Despite the campaign abroad against the soviet government for its attitude toward religion, soviet authorities in different parts of the union have closed a number of additional churches, synagogues, and mosques. These, it was declared, where shut upon petition of the workers and peasants."

Tass dispatches today reported that soviet officials closed three churches, three mosques, one synagogue, and an Polish church in Alma-Ata, capital of the province of Kazakstan.

Sell Rich Rugs and Mosaics.

In Kasarudakhkent, near Makhatchkala, capital of the Dagestan republic, whose population is predominately Mohammedan, authorities closed no less than thirteen mosques. Ecclesiastical objects removed, including rich rugs and mosaics, were sold and the money converted into American tractors for the new collective farms.

Another Tass dispatch said that in Tyer, central Russia, the soviet officials decided to close a local synagogue and to convert it into a club "upon the insistent demand of laboring Jews."

Subterranean shelters against gas attacks are included in Moscow's new model communist dwellings now under construction.

Prepare for Chemical Warfare.

Soviet authorities are taking no part in the peaceful aims of foreign powers, expressed by disarmament conferences and peace campaigns, and they intend to equip the population against all forms of chemical warfare. The first of these model communal houses will cost $1,000,000 and house 700 workers. It will contain a clubroom, library, restaurant, kindergarten, stage, nursery, mechanical laundry, grocery, dry goods, and other stores.

A model communal dwelling on an even more pretentious scale, to cost $1,500,000, will be built especially for 2,000 students in Moscow. Here, as in other dwellings, there will be no private living rooms, and all necessities of life will be communal. Personal property will be limited to clothing and small articles.

BRITAIN EYES RUSSIA

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Prime Minister MacDonald, in a letter to an unnamed correspondent, today issued the assurance that the Labor government is not indifferent to the soviet campaign of religious persecution.

After admitting that the government has not yet obtained complete facts, and declaring that news from Riga should not be believed until corroborated, Mr. MacDonald writes:

"The history of religion in Russia, however, is unfortunately full of records of persecution. Persecution has never in one way or another been absent from Russian religious life, and the revolutionary mentality which generations of oppression created, has all the characteristics of narrowness and violence of purpose.

"It is active will riding roughshod and cruelly over every obstacle, real or imaginary. To my colleagues and myself, religious persecution is hateful. We have inherited this hate from our own stock and are unlikely to be indifferent to any persecution in any part of the world, at any time, past or present."

On the question of British diplomatic recognition of Russia, Mr. MacDonald declared:

"We have recognized Russia diplomatically because we believe it is for the general good, however intricate and troublesome immediate problems might be. To outlaw a country is not to make it amenable to world opinion, but the opposite."

To Avoid Agitation.

Mr. MacDonald concludes his letter by declaring it would be the easiest thing in the world to act in such a way as to add to the inflictions that believers in Russia may have to endure.

"For that reason we shall avoid whatever agitation we may," he concluded.

The soviet government has supplied the British ambassador to Moscow with the information sought regarding Russian legislation on religious questions. Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson told the house of commons this afternoon. The English government has not asked Russia for facilities to investigate religious persecutions and cannot properly do so, Mr. Henderson added. The ambassador's report has not yet been received, and until the contents are known, the government refuses to commit itself.

Denies Sergius Heads Church.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 24.—Metropolitan Sergius, whose alleged interview with the soviet Tass agency, defending the bolshevik's religious policy, is not the real head of the orthodox church in Russia, according to Archimandrite Simeone, superior of the orthodox church in Rome. He said today that Sergius was only the head of a small band of bishops, who made an oath of allegiance to the soviets in 1927.

ORDER INQUIRY AFTER 61 RAIDS FOR BOOZE FAIL

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Twelve members of the police liquor raiding squad were ordered today to appear before the civil service commission for trial on Friday on a charge of having raided the same place sixty-one times, each time failing to obtain liquor.

The charges were made today by Mrs. Mary Maronski. Seventeen of the raids, she said, were made since June 10. She displayed copies of seventeen warrants covering the raids, each of them marked "nothing found." She also declared an attempt to "plant" liquor in her place had been made.

NORRIS CHARGES GRAFT IS RIFE IN DRY LAW ARMY

Again Attacks Present Enforcement Methods.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], dry chairman of the senate judiciary committee, today fired a new salvo at the Hoover administration's dry law enforcement activities, declaring that he supposed it "a matter of common knowledge that the prohibition department is shot through with graft and corruption."

Senator Norris, who, a day or two ago, said the President could clean up the department with a stroke of his pen, eliminating politics from appointments, made his second attack today following postponement of action by the judiciary committee on his resolution for a prohibition inquiry. The committee voted to call before it, two weeks hence, Attorney General Mitchell and members of the Wickersham law enforcement commission.

The decision to defer consideration of the resolution was reached on a motion of Senator Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.], made in an executive session.

Members of the committee stated that the attorney general and Wickersham commissioners would be heard at another secret session. They will be questioned on their views as to the proposed inquiry and it was understood, will also be asked if they will make available their records if the inquiry is ordeerd. It will be the first time members of the commission have been before a senate committee.

Ask Sweeping Inquiry.

The Norris resolution, which it is said the administration drys look upon with disfavor, calls for a sweeping investigation by the judiciary committee to find out whether the dry laws have been "faithfully, fully, fairly and honestly enforced."

"The object of my resolution," said Norris, "is to determine whether or not prohibition can be enforced. In my opinion an honest effort has not been made. I admit that the problem is a very difficult one. But I feel that until the President takes the appointment of prohibition force officers entirely but of politics, no real effort to solve it will be made.

"As I look at it, prohibition can be enforced if an honest effort is made."

Also Attacked in Senate.

President Hoover's dry law policies were made the target of another attack in the senate today when Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], in a speech taking issue with a newspaper article favorably reviewing the first year of his administration, charged that the dry laws will never be enforced until Mr. Hoover "takes a stand in the matter." If Mr. Hoover has "made one single advance in law enforcement," he challenged anyone to show what it was.

"The law was never so flagrantly violated, and the reason is because the President won't take a stand for enforcement," McKellar asserted, adding, in reference to the Wickersham commission, that "if ever there was a fizzle, it was that commission."

"Mr. Hoover," he went on, "can't even get the house, which he is supposed to control, to ratify all that the commission has done."

COOLEY RECEIVES AWARD; ASKS BROADER STUDY

Engineers are responsible for bringing about the most rapid progress in civilization of all time. But they must be responsible also for "the great unrest" which has been a by-product of that progress, and engineering education in the future should be broadened to include a study of the great social and economic problems of the times.

This was declared last night by Dr. M. E. Cooley, dean emeritus of engineering at the University of Michigan, in an address he made in accepting the Washington award for 1930, a distinguished honor awarded for an engineer's service to mankind, at a banquet at the Palmer house. Four societies of engineers representing 60,000 engineers recommended the award, which was presented by William S. Monroe, president of the Western Society of Engineers.

"The present is a period of achievement. The future must be a period of responsibility for that achievement," Dr. Cooley said. "The education of engineers in colleges today is not so broad as that of early engineers. An engineering graduate today is thoroughly trained in one thing and often comparatively ignorant of other things."

Dr. Howard McClenahan, secretary of the Franklin institute, Philadelphia, spoke on "The Engineer's Gifts to Humanity." C. B. Burdick, chairman of the Washington award commission, was chairman.

PLAN TO JAIL WITNESSES IN LIQUOR RAIDS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Patrons of raided speakeasies will be jailed as material witnesses hereafter when there is any doubt of their appearing against liquor law violators, Maurice Silverman, deputy prohibition administrator for the northwest district, announced today.

Silverman's announcement followed incarceration of eleven men in the county jail from Saturday until today without any charges having been filed against them. The men were in a speakeasy when it was raided Saturday.

JONES HIT HARD ON LOSING FIGHT TO SAVE CRUISERS

Illness Not Only Reason for Quitting Parley.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 24.—It transpired today that illness is not the only reason for the decision of Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, one of the two chief naval experts of the American delegation at the naval conference, to return to the United States this week.

His going is tantamount to a resignation from the expert commission and a retirement from work in the conference. Admiral Jones, it appears, was urged by his friends to enter a hospital for treatment. He refused, saying that he wanted to go home as soon as possible. According to those who know him best, he has been hard hit by the action of the American delegation in accepting the British terms for the limitation of cruisers, which he held out against successfully as an American delegate to the Geneva conference in 1927.

Brooded Over U. S. Step.

He has brooded over what he considers an unwise step from the viewpoint of the best interests of his country, and has felt that his usefulness has ended as an expert adviser at London.

A stream of callers visited the Mayfair hotel today—American and British naval officers, desiring to pay their respects to the grand old man of the American navy. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, however, was the only one admitted to the admiral's bedside, although his physician, Commander M. E. Higgins, said that his patient is much improved and will sail on the Berengaria on Wednesday.

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams will recommend to President Hoover that congress be asked to confer the rank of full admiral on Admiral Jones in recognition of his distinguished services to his country.

DENY PARLEY COLLAPSE

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The many rumors around London today that the naval conference had collapsed or was about to collapse were emphatically denied by spokesmen of the three delegations remaining here, the American, British and Japanese.

One detailed story said that neither the French nor the Italians were returning here, but this was branded as false by the announcement that Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, together with Admiral Sirianni, had already left Rome and are due here tomorrow night. It was also officially announced that the new French premier, Camille Chautemps, heading a new French delegation, was due to arrive Wednesday evening.

If all goes as planned the conference will reconvene on Thursday. Even if the French are delayed a day or two, it is not expected that the recess will last longer than Monday.

Optimism Succeeds Pessimism.

As a matter of fact, there is an air of renewed optimism in all quarters today, as if the week-end reflection had overcome the pessimism which began to show itself at the end of last week. One spokesman declared the week's recess was not wasted, as it had given time for quiet reflection, and, although he did not say so, quiet conversation among the delegation leaders.

One of these took place at Stanmore Sunday, where Prime Minister MacDonald spent the afternoon and night as the guest of Secretary of State Stimson, returning to Downing street this morning.

The technical experts were at work today trying to draft resolutions on special ships so as to be ready for presentation to the conference when it reassembles. The experts' committee meets tomorrow to carry on with submarines.

NAVY ENVOYS, STAFFS ENTERTAINED AT BIG BRITISH RECEPTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 24.—While delegates to the naval conference are waiting for the French cabinet to receive a vote of confidence and return to London so that discussions may continue, entertainment goes gaily on.

The government gave a great reception tonight for the delegates and their staffs at the foreign office. Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson gave a dinner for the male guests at the foreign office and Mrs. Henderson dined the women at 10 Deming street, loaned by Prime Minister MacDonald for the purpose. Mrs. F. Lamont Belin, wife of the first secretary of the American embassy; Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of the British chancellor of the exchequer; Mrs. Wedgewood Benn, wife of the secretary of state for India, also gave dinners for the women.

Tomorrow night Lady Astor gives a dinner party for the Stimsons, at which Senator David A. Reed, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, and Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and their wives will also be guests of honor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 24.—Following week-end conferences between Premier Benito Mussolini and his foreign minister, Dino Grandi, chief Italian delegate to the London naval conference, Italy is more determined than ever to stand its ground and insist on the conditions contained in the memorandum given out in London by Sig. Grandi simultaneously with France's ministerial debacle. Sig. Grandi, after having his work approved by Premier Mussolini, left Rome this afternoon and expects to reach London again tomorrow night.

Italy claims to be motivated by three aims, first, an active efficient contribution in the general work of reaching an international understanding in the reduction of naval armament; second, energetic protection of Italian interests in harmony with the general program; third, clarification of Franco-Italian relations in naval policy.

However, the government now declares that if the first and third goals are not achieved Italy will be sorry, but will not consider it its own fault. At the same time it intends to insist on the protection of its interests at all costs, declaring that all other countries represented at London are so worried about their own position they are paying little attention to the general situation.

Italian Duchess and Pilot Die After Crash of Plane

NAPLES, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Duchess Flammetta Carafa D'Andra, with the pilot, Castaldo, died today in a hospital here after a plane crash at Capo Dichina airdrome. They were flying at a height of about 140 feet when the plane went into a spin.

TARDIEU RALLIES PARTY TO TOPPLE FRENCH RADICALS

Will Quit Sickbed to Lead Cabinet Onslaught.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 24.—André Tardieu tonight suddenly decided that he had sulked in his tent about long enough and emerged all set to do battle with Premier Camille Chautemps' feeble new ministry of the left. The new cabinet will go down into the parliamentary arena tomorrow afternoon to try, and secure a majority.

After he had been tripped up last Monday M. Tardieu withdrew like Achilles of old and announced that he would have nothing more to do, for some time at least, with politics the way they are played in this country. But his observation of the new ministry's antics during the few days have got him all sore.

Issues Party War Yell.

So out he came tonight and declared war in the form of a letter to his party, Republicans of the left, thanking them for their loyalty by refusing to be inveigled by M. Chautemps' offers and exhorting them to vote against him tomorrow. He promised that he himself would be able to leave the sickroom where he has been more or less confined and appear at his bench to lead the onslaught.

As a result the stock of the Chautemps' outfit went into a terrible slump tonight, and the chances of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and Minister of the Navy Albert Sarraut setting out for London tomorrow night are proportionately slight.

If Premier Chautemps is beaten tomorrow, and his own allies admit that only a miracle can save him, all indications point to M. Tardieu being asked immediately to form a ministry which will present itself to the chamber of deputies and the senate not later than Friday, enabling the same French delegation that withdrew ignominiously from London to return flushed with victory Saturday, or Monday at the latest.

Premier Chautemps and his left cohorts, who have been waiting ever since the elections of 1928 to move into the high places, will not give up without a struggle. They are bringing all manner of pressure to bear on the fickle crowd of deputies who flutter about between the two majorities.

Own Allies Desert Premier.

But the shadow of M. Tardieu has struck terror in the hearts of these gentlemen. Even some of Premier Chautemps' own radicals, looking forward to the new Tardieu ministry being orientated slightly more to the left, will be absent tomorrow in order to curry the favor of the big chief.

And Premier Chautemps will need every vote he can get. Predictions tonight are that he will be about 25 short when the roll is called tomorrow, even though the Socialists voted solidly for him, as they promised to do.

SHOT IN GUN FIGHT, FLEES HOSPITAL.

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Buster Bailey, 19, a Negro who was shot in a gun fight with Arthur Begond, East St. Louis service station attendant, in an attempted holdup ten days ago and who was brought to a Cairo hospital by his companion, J. W. Henry, also a Negro, escaped from his hospital cot early today.

BALDWIN NAILS FREE TRADE CRY OF EMPIRE PARTY

Says Dominions Seek Tariff Barriers.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative Unionist party, tonight threw down the gauntlet to Lord Beaverbrook's challenge for leadership through his recent formation of the "United Empire party," in a statement which appears in his party's new monthly organ, Home and Empire.

"In face of the recent declarations of dominion statesmen," says the former premier, "no political party in this country can honestly adopt empire free trade as a platform on which to fight in the next general election." This is Mr. Baldwin's reply to the movement launched by his political foes, Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothermere, for free trade within the empire and tariff barriers against the rest of the world. They have been boosting this daily in the columns of their numerous organs in London and throughout England and Scotland.

Warns Against Splitting Party.

Mr. Baldwin is very definite in saying that he emphatically refuses the bait. The Conservative leader warns his followers of the danger of the Conservative party being split by the new party and so putting Labor more firmly than ever in power.

"Such a split would cheer both the Liberals and the Socialists," he declares. "Make no mistake about it, the upshot of success for the new party will mean breaking up the united ranks of unionism which will mean socialism at Westminster and no empire free trade."

Calls It Impossible Ideal.

Mr. Baldwin admits that empire free trade, as meaning economic unity of the British empire in enjoying free trade within its own territory, supported by tariffs, is ideal but impossible.

"But as a practical policy," he insists, "empire free trade is impossible today. No responsible statesman could go to the country and tell the electorate that it would be introduced if he was returned to power. It cannot be done. The dominions won't have it—they have said so in the clearest terms: 'Free trade within the empire is impossible.' We must not forget that the dominions, with complete fiscal autonomy are today engaged in creating and expanding manufacturing industries behind their own tariff walls."

Mr. Baldwin regards Lord Beaverbrook's step as "most regrettable," and declares that as the leader of a new party he might undo much of the good work of the last few years. Mr. Baldwin appeals to the Conservative party to have nothing to do with Lord Beaverbrook, and rally to the support of the Unionist party's practical policy of safeguarding imperial preference, imperial rationalization, and imperial coöperation.

CANADA TO HOLD ELECTION IF U. S. BOOSTS TARIFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 24.—If the United States congress boosts the American tariff against Canada this session, Canada will have an immediate general election on the issue in order to decide what steps the dominion is to take in self defense.

This was the purport of a speech today in the Canadian commons by Premier Mackenzie King on the first day in the newly opened session. He was answering a statement by the Conservative leader, Richard B. Bennett, that the present Mackenzie King government should not assume to send representatives to the imperial economic conference in London this fall, without securing prior mandate from the people, and that the date of the anticipated Canadian election should not depend upon any happenings in the United States.

Canadian American trade and tariff relations bulked largely in the debate between the two leaders, Mr. Bennett protesting the further $100,000,000 increase in Canadian purchases from the United States and demanding adequate protection of Canadian markets for Canadians.

Street Cars To The Theatre

TRAFFIC checks show that the number of persons who use street cars in going to and returning from motion picture theatres and other places of amusement is constantly growing.

The difficulty of finding parking space, the delays resulting from parking the automobile and walking to the destination and the hazards and annoyances of traffic conditions in the streets are all avoided when street cars are used.

Every large motion picture theatre in Chicago is convenient to Surface Lines transportation. This is not a mere coincidence. The theatre owners recognize that more than 77 per cent of all local transportation in Chicago is by street car and they build theatres where they will be available to these millions of car riders.

No matter where you live in Chicago you can reach your favorite theatre conveniently and comfortably by street car.

And this is true also of every business center and practically every point of interest.

One of the great advantages of Surface Lines service is its universality.

PRESIDENT FLEES TO FORTRESS AS DOMINGO REBELS

Riots in Five Island Towns Reported.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The political situation in the Dominican republic was extremely confused tonight with disorder reported in the northern part of the country and President Horacio Vasquez withdrawn within the walls of the Santo Domingo fortress.

An opposition movement today followed the resignation of the vice president, Dr. Alfonseca, and despite the government's efforts to pacify it, latest trouble beyond the Sierra de Neiba, the mountain range dividing the northern and southern section of the island republic. In addition to the towns of Santiago Moca, La Vega, and Puerto Plata, where some disturbance occurred last night, the town of Monte Cristi, a community of about 5,000 inhabitants, was reported to have joined the opposition.

The opposition has opposed the decision of President Vasquez to seek reelection on May 15. The president has served two terms and in June, 1927, had the constitution revised to extend the terms of himself and congress from 1928 to 1930.

U. S. May Send Marines.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Marines may be dispatched to the Dominican republic for the protection of American life and property, it developed today, following receipt of reports from Charles B. Curtis, the United States minister at Santo Domingo City, telling of internal disturbances near the capital. Official dispatches submitted to the state department stated that Mme. Vasquez, wife of the executive, has taken refuge in the American legation.

While Washington officials declined to divulge complete contents of the message received from Minister Curtis, it was admitted the situation appeared serious. Officials said it was still too early to tell whether a general revolution had broken out.

In commercial quarters it was said that reports from agents in Santo Domingo City described conditions as dangerous and advised that shipments be interrupted for the present. From the same sources came indications that the internal disturbances had not been completely unexpected. During the recent serious illness of President Vasquez, rumors were prevalent throughout the republic that several factions were planning a coup d'état in event of his sudden death.

Await Further Information.

Officials decline to state when or whether American marines will be sent to the Caribbean republic. Probably no decision will be reached until more complete details are received.

Dispatches telling of the disturbed conditions in the Dominican republic arrived just as the Hoover Haitian commission prepared to sail from New York. The commission will sail from Norfolk tomorrow on the light cruiser Rochester and is due to make the trip in 11 hours.

After an uprising in 1912 the United States helped to effect a temporary government through a mediatory commission. But in 1916 the United States government sent marines to the Dominican republic under the provisions of the treaty convention, providing for the assistance of the United States in the collection and application of the customs revenues of that country. William E. Pulliam is the present American customs receiver.

Following the intervention in 1916, the officers of occupation assumed complete financial control of the republic. Upon withdrawal in 1924 the supervision of the United States was limited to the receivership of customs affairs.

Firing Heard on Border.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Feb. 24.—Reports reaching the Haitian capital during the day from the Dominican republic indicated that an opposition movement had seized control of widely separated points.

Capt. Verdier, commanding the Haitian border post of Ouanaminthe, reported that at Dajabon, a village across the Massacre river, the Dominican Guardia had disarmed the municipal police and government partisans.

An American, who arrived at Ouanaminthe this afternoon, said there had been firing last night in Santo Domingo City and in the northern town of Santiago. He said that four persons were wounded at Santiago.

of Haiti and has a population of approximately 900,000, mainly composed of a mixed race of European, African and Indian blood. The city of Santo Domingo was founded in 1496 by Bartolomeo Columbus, brother of the discoverer of the new world.

The Dominican republic was founded in 1844. In 1861 Spain, on the invitation of President Santana, annexed the country, but dissatisfaction with Spanish rule brought revolution, and the Spanish withdrew in 1865. Four years later a treaty was negotiated for the annexation of the Dominican republic to the United States, but the treaty was rejected by the United States.

REPORT TRUE BILL AGAINST EX-OFFICIAL

Members of the grand jury were reported late yesterday to have voted a true bill charging Charles E. Stein, former clerk and collector in the village of Steger, with embezzling $17,000 while he was a public official.

The grand jury's action came after Assistant State's Attorney Robert L. Donigan had made an investigation and after Stein had admitted the village funds were short. He insisted, however, that the shortage was only $7,000.

According to Stein's own admissions his wagers on horses at the nearby Lincoln Fields race track were responsible for the shortage. He said he first went to the track just to watch the races.

"After a while," he said, "I got to betting. That's where the $7,000 I took went."

"But the books show a shortage of $17,000," Donigan reminded him.

"Well, $7,000 is all I took, and I'll make restitution of that amount," Stein replied.

Stein was elected to office first on May 1, 1924. He was reelected at the various elections, but on Oct. 2, 1929, he resigned. The shortage was discovered shortly after he resigned when A. J. Ciarlo, village attorney, had the books examined.

Stein is 45 years old, married, and the father of two children.

100,000 RIOT AT FUNERAL OF GYPSY MINSTREL

400 Police Curb Trouble; 34 in Hospital.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 24.—Gravestones were tumbled over, valuable violins smashed to bits, and 34 persons sent to a hospital this afternoon when a weird riot broke out during funeral services for Bela Radicz, world famous gypsy orchestra leader and idol of all Hungary, in the central cemetery here.

One hundred thousand Hungarians, attracted partly because of their attachment for the dead musician and partly because of the opportunity to hear a huge orchestra of 500 gypsies participate in the final rites, packed the cemetery.

Then Riot Starts.

All wanted to crowd into the small chapel to hear the music. The building has room for about 800. Only 30 musicians succeeded in gaining entrance. The mob occupied the rest of the space, with thousands overflowing the cemetery and nearby grounds.

Angered both by their inability to get into the chapel and the absence of their favorite tunes, the throng began a riot. Hoary old gravestones toppled over under the feet of the surging mob. Inside the hall the musicians used violins, cellos, accordions —anything to protect themselves.

Finally even the candles surrounding Radicz's coffin were knocked off. A fire was averted by the hasty trampling of flames by the surging multitude. To add to the macaber of the scene was the open coffin with the stilled features of the old musician staring into space.

400 Police Battle Rioters.

Only 100 policemen were assigned to the cemetery, but a hurried riot call brought 200 more, reinforced by 100 mounted cavalry officers. Though it was dark, the cavalry charged the crowd and succeeded in driving most of them away from the chapel.

Undertakers were finally able to close the coffin by the candle light and Radicz's body was lowered into the ground. Not even the members of Radicz's family got near the chapel, nor several state officials delegated to represent the government.

Several more were injured when the crowd forced its way out of the cemetery in the dark.

KILLED BY GAS FROM AUTO.

While repairing his car in a garage in the rear of his home, Claude Baker, 40 years old, of 322 North 6th avenue, Maywood, was suffocated by carbon monoxide gas yesterday. His 13 year old daughter, Leone, found the body.

ILLINOIS BANKER PAYS $40,000 TO KIDNAPING RING

Held Two Days Until Ransomed.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The family of Charles W. Pershall, wealthy Granite City grocer and bank director, paid $40,000 ransom for his release after he was kidnaped Wednesday and held a prisoner until Friday afternoon.

This was admitted today by George Blockburger, 53, Granite City real estate man, who told St. Louis police that he acted as go-between in the arrangements with the abductors. The ransom was paid in front of the Madison school, on Seventh street between Hickory and La Salle streets in St. Louis, about 4 p. m., Friday.

Blockburger, known to the underworld as "The Glim Kid," and said by police to be an associate of confidence men, was arrested yesterday at Eleventh and Pine streets when he came to St. Louis to keep an engagement with Herman Tipton, ex-convict and gangster.

Tipton Also in Custody.

Tipton likewise was taken into custody, but both insisted the meeting was only for the purpose of discussing a $2,000 note Blockburger had made out in Tipton's favor.

Blockburger's admission was the first direct evidence obtained by police to support the theory that Pershall was abducted.

Following his return Friday after being missing nearly 48 hours, Pershall insisted he was out of town on business. He refused to talk to police and reporters concerning rumors he had paid a ransom to obtain his release.

Blockburger denied to Chief of Detectives Kaiser that he was involved in the actual kidnaping of Pershall, who is president of the Tri-City Grocery company, and reputed to be a millionaire. He acted as go-between, he explained, because the kidnapers had warned him if he failed to do so he would be killed.

A Series of Kidnapings.

In the roundup of suspects in the kidnaping of Jake Hoffman, wealthy St. Louis bookmaker, rescued Friday when police raided a house in Luxemburg and arrested three men and a woman, detectives today were still searching for other members of the Gas House and Cuckoo gangs.

Six suspects are in custody. Yesterday, Mrs. Joseph Sinovich, in whose house Hoffman was held a prisoner, and her son, John, 17, were released. Her husband, however, was detained without bond. Police also released Anthony Cordes and Ray M. Diren, arrested Friday night when they drove to the Sinovich house to get alcohol.

Since the wave of kidnaping started in St. Louis four weeks ago, the kidnaping gang has secured payments totaling $118,000. Harry King, a bookmaker, was released upon payment of $28,000.

Adam "Mulepole" Fritz, another bookmaker, paid $35,000 for his release, and Jesse Reubling, Wellston, a suburb of St. Louis, was picked off for $10,000.

PRESIDENT RUBIO RECOVERS; PUTS BAN ON GAMBLING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 24.—President Ortiz Rubio's doctors today announced his almost complete recovery from the wound in the jaw he sustained on the day of his inaugural from an assassin's bullet. The president therefore assumed his full presidential duties today.

President Rubio hopes to rid Mexico entirely of gambling houses and in accordance with this desire the department of the interior issued a recommendation to all the governors of the Mexican states to take the necessary steps against the operation of games of chance. It is not thought this will lead to the closing of existing houses, but prevent the opening of new ones.

Other instructions were issued today by the department of industry commerce and labor requesting the governors to furnish accurate information about the jobless in each state and the centers where workers are needed. The government plans machinery to provide work for all jobless and labor for all employers needing labor. It believes there is work for all in Mexico if the laborers can be distributed where they will be in demand.

Forest Glen Vigilantes Sworn In as Deputies

Nine members of the Forest Glen Progressive Men's club, who organized a vigilantes' association to police the district as a result of the murder of Mrs. Agnes Lavender, 5451 Ludlam avenue, a week ago, were sworn in as special deputies and given their deputies' stars yesterday by Sheriff Traeger. At a meeting last night at the home of Claude C. Kennedy, 5009 Balmoral avenue, the vigilantes outlined their plans.

19,813 WORLD-FAMOUS BEAUTY EXPERTS ADVISE PALMOLIVE!

"We advise Palmolive"

. . . because of its safe, soothing cosmetic oils"

E. ROHDE OF THE EDGEWATER BEACH

well-known beauty expert of CHICAGO

"SOAP and water cleanliness is a basic part of all our home beauty treatments. But not any soap will do. We specify Palmolive." So says this beauty shop. And more than 19,800 beauty specialists of distinction, here and abroad, also specify Palmolive.

Why vegetable oils are best

There is a soothing, penetrating quality about a vegetable oil soap lather that searches down into the tiniest pores and frees them of the day's accumulation without hurting the fabric of the skin. As you know, the skin is very sensitive, and must be very carefully handled. Palmolive Soap lather cleanses without irritation. It leaves the skin soft and smooth, and in wonderful condition for your beauty expert's treatment.

Dangers to skin beauty

Unless the skin is thoroughly cleansed twice a day, dirt and dust and cream and make-up gather in the pores of your face and soon become hard little accumulations which develop into blackheads and pimples. These unsightly blemishes are a sign of neglect on your own part. Use the right soap, use the right cleansing method, and you are taking the best steps toward complexion beauty.

Palmolive is a pure vegetable oil soap. Its color is the natural color of palm and olive oils. The delicate natural odor of these vegetable oils makes the addition of heavy perfumes unnecessary.

With both hands make a smooth lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Massage this gently into the skin, both face and throat, for about two minutes. Then rinse it off with warm water until you can actually feel the accumulation being swept away. Now, give a final rinse with cold water, even icy water. This is refreshing, and closes the pores, preventing too much dirt and grease from getting underneath the surface of the skin.

E. Rohde is an expert beautician whose experience and training qualify him to advise Chicago's smartest women.

This leader in the beauty profession represents a salon with modern, scientific methods and a skilful, well-trained staff. It is such experts who advise their patrons to use Palmolive Soap.

"Your skin must be kept clean and free of irritation. The vegetable oils in Palmolive Soap are soothing, refreshing, penetrating. You should use this palm and olive oil soap twice a day to safeguard complexion beauty."

E. ROHDE
5357 Sheridan Road, Chicago

Consult your beauty expert

There is only one person truly qualified to advise you, and that is a trained professional beauty expert, who has spent time and study learning how best to care for your good looks. When she tells you to use Palmolive you have the highest possible authority, and 19,813 such experts, today, advise this vegetable oil soap. You will probably use it for the bath as well as the face. It costs only 10c a cake, you know . . . little enough to pay for a safeguard to beauty.

CHAS. E. HUGHES IS SWORN IN AS CHIEF JUSTICE

Returns to Court from Which He Resigned.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—In the illustrious chamber where ancient customs and courtesies of the land still function Charles Evans Hughes this noon took the oath of office as eleventh chief justice of the Supreme court of the United States.

He is the first man in the 141 years of existence of that body to return to it after having resigned from it.

The ceremony of installation was severely simple, but crowding memories and historic contrasts gave the scene extraordinary dramatic significance, for welcoming the new chief justice to the bench was its nestor, Oliver Wendell Holmes, who will be 89 years old on the eighth of next month and who, three weeks before Charles Evans Hughes was born in Glens Falls, N. Y., had received at Balls Bluff the first of the civil war wounds which within fourteen months scarred him from head to heel.

Holmes Administers Oath.

That veteran of the camp and the bench has been twenty-seven years an associate justice of the Supreme court of the United States. He has seen the retirement of his colleagues, Chief Justices Fuller and White, by death, and the retirement of Chief Justice Taft by resignation, and today, suave and gentle, he administered in the robing room of the court the constitutional oath to the fourth chief justice of his nearly three decades of service in the highest tribunal of the republic.

Former Secretary of State Hughes took two oaths. The first, called the constitutional oath, is taken by all federal officials from the President down. The second, called the judicial oath, is not less solemn and is more intimate.

After Justice Holmes had administered the constitutional oath in the little robing room, opposite the Supreme court chamber, attendants drew crimson cords across the separating corridor, thus shutting off the long double line of men and women who hoped to gain admission to the second ceremony and who filled the northern corridor of the capitol way out to the rotunda.

Mr. Hughes Comes Last.

Between the crimson cords the silk gowned judges marched into their chamber, Mr. Hughes coming last, and pausing beside the clerk's desk, while his eight colleagues mounted the bench.

The crowded room was very still. Amid the hush the marshal, beginning with the old Norman French cry of "Oyez," and ending with the words, "God save the United States and this honorable court," declared the court open to all who might have business with it.

Rising in his place and bending far forward, Justice Holmes said that while the court deeply regretted the retirement of Chief Justice Taft, it was happy to know that Mr. Hughes takes his place. He then instructed Clerk Charles Elmore Cropley to read President Hoover's appointment of Mr. Hughes. When that document had been read out, Mr. Hughes, still standing by the clerk and with upraised right hand, read in low but clear tones the oath which pledges him to—

Pledges to Be Just.

". . . administer justice without respect to persons and do equal right to the poor and to the rich."

After the new chief justice had uttered the words "agreeably to the constitution and laws of the United States," the clerk interjected, "so help you God."

"So help me God," added Mr. Hughes, and then mounted the bench, where he was received with a handclasp by Justice Holmes, who sat on his right hand, and by Justice Van Devanter, who sat on his left.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Increase of $1,007,313 for the work of the interstate commerce commission in determining the valuation of railroads, in the house appropriation bill of $552,514,753 for executive offices and independent government bureaus, was recommended to the senate today by its appropriations committee.

Nomination of Sawyer Smith to be district attorney for the eastern district of Kentucky was reported favorably to the senate by the judiciary committee.

House measure to authorize Oscar Baertch and others to bridge the Mississippi river at Alma, Wis., was passed by the senate and sent to the White House.

After an executive meeting of the senate territories committee Chairman Bingham announced the hearings on Philippine independence bills would close not later than March 15.

Col. Harry Gore Bishop was nominated by President Hoover to be chief of field artillery, with the rank of major general.

Women citizens marrying aliens would retain their citizenship under a bill introduced in the house by Representative Cable, Republican, Ohio.

Pacific Island Ambush Kills Fishing Boat Sailor

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The crew of a fishing boat put into Catalina isthmus today with one man dead and a second shot through the shoulder by a hail of bullets which swept their craft from a mysterious ambush on desolate Sanni Colas island yesterday. John Heise, San Pedro, owner of the boat, said that "cowboys" did the firing.

UPHOLD PACKERS LAW ON RATES OF COMMISSION

Secretary of Agriculture Can Fix Maximum.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Provisions of the packers and stockyards act authorizing the secretary of agriculture to prescribe maximum rates for the services of commission dealers at public stockyards were held constitutional by the United States Supreme court today in an opinion upholding a decree of a Nebraska federal District court.

The validity of the provisions was assailed by Tagg Brothers and Moorhead and other members of the Omaha, Neb., live stock exchange, who appealed from the lower court's refusal to enjoin the secretary of agriculture from interfering with a proposed increase in commission charges at the Omaha stockyards.

A new schedule of rates, published by the commission men in January, 1926, was suspended by the secretary of agriculture, who, after public hearings, made the suspension permanent.

Charges Not Authorized.

The commission men in their appeal attacked the secretary's order on several grounds, most important of which were the contentions that the packers and stockyards act does not authorize him to fix the charges for market agencies, and that if the act does undertake to do so, it violates the fifth amendment to the constitution, inasmuch as the charges fixed are for personal services.

In addition it was urged by the commission men that the suspension order was not justified by the evidence presented to the secretary or to the lower court and the rates the order prescribed are "unreasonable and confiscatory."

"There is here no attempt to fix any one's wages or to limit any one's net income," declared the Supreme court in its opinion. "Differences in skill, industry and experience will continue to be factors in the earning power of the several plaintiffs, for the order fixes only the charges to be made in individual transactions."

Can Company Loses Appeal.

The American Can company and its subsidiaries, the Missouri Can company and the Detroit Can company, lost a total of $6,000,000 today when the Supreme court overruled their contention that that amount was wrongfully exacted by the government as income and excess profits taxes in 1917.

REP. WURZBACH TO FACE TRIAL, IS COURT RULING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.] — Representative Harry M. Wurzbach, the only Texas Republican in the house, will be forced, as a result of a United States Supreme court opinion today, to stand trial on an indictment charging him with accepting campaign contributions from federal office holders in violation of the corrupt practices act. Wurzbach was recently seated in the house after the house decided that he had been reelected in 1928 over Augustus McCloskey, Democratic contestant for the place.

The indictment returned by a federal grand jury at San Antonio grew out of Wurzbach's feud with R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman in Texas, and charged the congressman with "receiving and being concerned with receiving political contributions" from H. M. Holden, United States attorney at Houston, Tex., and from E. J. Keudell and Henry Geyer, railway mail employés, living at San Antonio.

ADMITS BLAME IN DEATH OF 2.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Harry F. Day, Negro driver of a liquor laden car that participated in a collision near here Feb. 6, resulting in the death of two persons, pleaded guilty in Circuit court here today to charge of negligent homicide. Sentence was deferred by Judge Leland W. Carr.

ENTERED BOMB PLOT TO AID LAW, SAYS DEFENDANT

Declares Investigator Double-Crossed Him.

Mike Caselli, South Chicago butcher, one of three men on trial in Judge William N. Gemmill's Criminal court for manufacture and sale of bombs, told the jury an unusual story of entrapment yesterday afternoon. He frankly admitted negotiating for the bombs, but said he did so at the instructions of Joseph Altmeier, bankrupt butcher, who turned undercover investigator for State's Attorney Swanson after the purchase of the first bomb.

Caselli's story was to the effect that Altmeier had ambitions to become a star investigator for the prosecutor, maybe the chief investigator, and suggested that he could get the job if he could buy a bomb. When he would get the job he would give Caselli an investigator's job and see that he obtained all the favors he desired, so the defendant testified.

"Wanted Bomb from Maggio."

"He told me that I should see if I could get a bomb through Rocco Maggio and if I could he would take it to Swanson's office and get himself a job," said the defendant. Maggio is a police character, who was mysteriously murdered some months ago.

Caselli said he succeeded in buying the bomb and that Altmeier got the job. He was then instructed to buy four other bombs so that the state's attorney's police should spring a trap and make the arrest. He said he succeeded in this mission, but that he was double crossed.

Spent $15 for Drinks.

The defendant in his testimony said he paid only $75 for the bomb and $15 was spent for drinks. The state's attorney's office was charged $150 for the bomb and Caselli left the inference that Altmeier had overcharged the prosecutor.

Closing arguments were started late in the afternoon and the case will reach the jury this afternoon.

Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

JUDGE CENSURES CHAIR COMPANY IN SMOKE CASE

Levies Fines for Failure to Stop Soot Clouds.

The A. L. Randall company, a chair manufacturing concern at 525 West Erie street, was found guilty yesterday by Municipal Judge Arnold Heap of polluting Chicago air with dense smoke. The company was fined $50 each for two offenses and representatives of the concern were reprimanded by the court for their laxity in abating the smoke nuisance.

"If proper coal was used and the heating methods changed, there would have been no emission of smoke," said Judge Heap. "But the company will not accept those recommendations of the smoke abatement department and now the mischief has been done, more sooty smoke has been added to our breathing air. The company has been too slow in making improvements that would eliminate smoke."

Sets Hearing on Motion.

On the defendant's motion to vacate the fines Judge Heap ruled that one fine must stand. He allowed a motion to vacate the other fine and set it for hearing in one month, indicating that if the company prevented smoke in the future one fine would be vacated.

Evidence was submitted by Frank L. Chambers, city smoke inspector, in one of the Randall company's cases to show that the stack had emitted dense smoke for 47 minutes. On two other occasions the smoke was seen by a city smoke observer for periods of one and fifteen minutes. After the company had been notified to appear in court, a violation of 51 minutes was noted and after the court session Chambers filed two more suits against the company.

Carl A. Erickson, against whom the smoke department had seven cases ready for trial yesterday, was granted a jury trial in each case, three of which involved alleged violations at 1301 North Clark street.

Kegel Calls Meeting.

Health Commissioner Kegel, chairman of the city smoke abatement committee, called at meeting of that body for tomorrow to discuss methods of tightening up still more on the smoke regulations. An effort on the part of George E. Nye, city smoke inspector and a member of the committee, to discourage the smoke nuisance is expected by the other members. During the absence of Dr. Kegel, Nye called a meeting of the committee for the purpose of throwing out a smoke department ruling requiring that the department shall not approve plans for buildings of more than six flats unless automatic smoke equipment is to be installed.

CAPITAL BUILDINGS SMUDGED BY SMOKE, LAWMAKER COMPLAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Congress today had its attention called to the smoke evil in Washington, which, it was charged in the house, is polluting the air and spreading a coat of black smudge over every building in the capital.

Declaring that the soot nuisance in Washington is almost as bad as in Pittsburgh and Chicago, Representative W. R. Coyle [Rep., Pa.] urged stricter enforcement of the anti-smoke ordinance.

"I notice black plumes of smoke coming every day from the chimneys of the state, war, and navy building," he declared. "They are burning oil down there, blackening neighboring buildings, filling the air with soot, and helping only the laundries."

Representative Coyle laid the blame largely upon Dr. Oani P. Hood of the bureau of mines, who, he said, is responsible for recommending the use of oil and soft coal in government buildings because the supply of anthracite is not dependable. Coyle declared that the anthracite is as dependable as any other type of fuel.

"Washington should be a leader in abolishing its smoke nuisance for the sake of its beautiful marble buildings if not for the health of its residents," he added. "Other cities are grappling with the smoke problem and enforcing their ordinances, while we sit back and permit the capital to be blackened because the government itself violates the anti-smoke regulations."

CHURCH DECLINE LAID TO GOOD OLD SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Pastors Urge Abolition of Separate Training.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Shall the Protestant churches abolish Sunday schools? This question was discussed yesterday at the union ministers' meeting at the La Salle hotel. The time honored institution for the religious education of young people in American church life was blamed by the Rev. Dr. Phillips Osgood, Minneapolis, for the decay of "family religion." Other ministers in open discussion pointed out that the separation of church and Sunday school had cut down attendance at regular church services.

Dr. Osgood declared that the Sunday school has largely killed religion in American family life by separating the religious experience of the children in the Sunday school from the less regular religious expression of their parents in the church services.

Home Is Church Foundation.

"The seriousness of this fact can scarcely be overestimated," said Dr. Osgood, "because family religion is one of the very few forces combating the modern tendencies which are making the home the accidental sleeping places of groups of dissociated individuals."

The Minneapolis pastor stated that the worship of the whole family as a unit is a dynamic factor in church growth and permanency.

"If the family does not go to church together the parents feel that they have done their duty as long as the children are sent to Sunday school," said Dr. Osgood. "Their parents then become devout members of the Nothingarian church, while their children become church orphans—and orphans don't last long in church."

Prof. W. C. Brower of Chicago university opened the discussion with a review of the results of a questionnaire sent to more than 700 ministers in Chicago bearing on the subject of religious education. The discussion developed no thought of abandoning definite religious education programs. Rather, the discussion faced the fact that the Sunday school method, which is comparatively young in Christian history, has largely been instrumental in bringing American Protestantism to its present difficult position.

Where the Clergy Is Weak.

In the discussion Dr. Brower pointed out that the majority of clergymen are poor hands at fitting religious instruction as well as worship to the needs of children.

The Rev. A. C. Nasmith, pastor of the Brookfield Methodist Episcopal church, then extended Dr. Brower's charge to include the rank and file of Sunday school teachers with the ministers in the lack of ability to meet the needs of the children.

"If this is true of the great majority of pastors," asked the Rev. Mr. Nasmith, "what can we say of the multitudes of Sunday school teachers who are unqualified for their jobs?"

There was difference of opinion among the ministers in response to Dr. Osgood's suggestion that Sunday schools be abolished as separate units of worship. Fear was generally expressed that the children would not be able to apprehend the heavier material demanded by the adults. The suggestion that the regular service of worship should be "lightened" to meet children's need met with both approval and disapproval.

Other evils laid at the doors of Sunday schools by the ministers was the development of a cliquish loyalty to Sunday school classes or Sunday school departments which overshadowed the greater loyalties toward the church.

Dr. Osgood stated that the problem in his church had largely been solved by having the parents and children come to church at the same time. The first 45 minutes of worship is coöperative with parents and children together. The last 40 minutes the children go to school in an adjoining building, and then leave with their parents.

your baby should have Bottled Sunshine every day!

The breast-fed baby has many advantages over the bottle-fed. But even the breast-fed baby may not always be able to build strong, straight bones and sound, uncrowded teeth.

A certain protective substance (Vitamin D) must be supplied if bones and teeth are to develop properly.

There are two common sources of this protective factor. Sunshine and good cod-liver oil! Direct sunshine would keep your baby safe if he could get enough on his bare body. But clothing, clouds, fog and smoke make this impossible. Even ordinary window glass filters out the protecting rays—the ultra-violet rays

Physicians urge the use of Bottled Sunshine—cod-liver oil—as the dependable way to assure correct formation of your baby's bones and teeth.

And thousands of them insist upon one particular kind—Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil. They prefer it because laboratory tests show it to be very rich in two essentials.

In Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin" which is necessary to build strong bones and sound teeth, and in Vitamin A which promotes growth and increases resistance to infections.

Your physician knows he can depend on Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil because it is vitamin-tested and vitamin-protected. Insist on Squibb's. All reliable drug stores have both Plain and Mint-flavored.

CONFEREES TOLD HOOVER'S GOAL IS NO TAX BOOST

Threat of Increase Hinted by Aid; Asks Economy.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.] — President Hoover informed congressional leaders today that he views with alarm steadily increasing governmental expenditures. There was no suggestion, however, of any curtailment in the expanded program to which the President already has committed himself. In fact it was made known that congress could appropriate as much as $50,000,000 more than proposed in the budget for 1931 without incurring a deficit.

The appropriations situation was the subject of a White House breakfast conference attended by Republican leaders of both houses of congress, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, Col. J. C. Roop, director of the budget, and Walter H. Newton, one of the President's secretaries.

A suggestion of a possible increase in taxes was advanced in a statement issued by Mr. Newton following the conference.

Suggests 40 Per Cent Tax Boost.

Mr. Newton enumerated proposals for increased expenditures totaling one billion 735 million dollars, which he said if approved would imply an increase in taxes of 40 per cent. Mr. Newton's list, however, included many projects that the congressional leaders had either never heard of or knew would not be given serious consideration. Consequently the imposing list did not appear to frighten them.

The discussion at the breakfast steered clear of the tariff. In fact, some of the senators privately suggested their belief that the purpose was to direct attention to governmental expenditures in order to divert current newspaper discussions from matters relating to the President's attitude on tariff rates.

It was made evident that President Hoover not only is anxious to avoid any increase in taxes, but wishes to make it possible for congress next winter to make permanent the one year tax cut approved for the present year. The congressional leaders promised their coöperation toward this goal.

In Dark as to U. S. Revenues.

Just at present treasury and budget officials are in the dark as to what may be expected in the way of a shrinkage in revenues as a result of last year's stock market crash.

Secretary of War Hurley in a statement during the day pointed out that unless early action was taken on a $12,000,000 deficiency item for river and harbor work, which was recommended by the President in a special budget message last week, "there must be a slackening of the present rate of operations and work urgently needed in the interests of navigation on various projects must be delayed.

In citing various projects where the $12,000,000 will be used, Mr. Hurley included the reconstruction of the Kampsville and La Grange dams in the Illinois river, Missouri river and Mississippi river improvement work and a dozen other projects.

To Spend $21,000,000 This Year in Western Canada

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 24.—(AP)—D. C. Coleman, vice president for the western lines, announced today on his return from a conference with executive officers in Montreal that the Canadian Pacific railways would expend $11,000,000 in western Canada this year on branch line construction and $10,000,000 on improvements designed to increase the capacity and efficiency of present lines.

HOUSE HANDS OUT $7,000,000 IN FARM CASH

Cries of "Pork" as Bill Passes.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Overriding opponents who described the measure as "pork," and "political pie," a majority in the house today forced the adoption of a senate joint resolution appropriating $7,000,000 for loans to farmers in the flood stricken areas of 15 southern and western states.

The house action, which was preceded by a noisy debate, came on the heels of President Hoover's plea for more economy in federal expenditures.

Under the resolution, as adopted, the secretary of agriculture may make advances for the purchase of seed, feed and fertilizer, which banks refuse. Loans in only six states, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia were authorized under the original senate resolution. The house agriculture committee, however, added Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, and New Mexico and the house itself today tacked on Missouri and Oklahoma.

The last two states were added to the beneficiaries when their delegations threatened to vote against the bill if they were not included.

"Everybody knows the purpose of this bill is to get congressional votes," declared Representative Charles O'Connor [Rep., Okla.], who presented the amendment to include his state. "But so long as you are cutting the pie, Oklahoma wants its piece."

Representative Charles L. Gifford [Rep., Mass.] declared that if the federal government was to continue handing out "doles" to southern farmers, he would propose an appropriation to the labor department to make loans to unemployed in Massachusetts, while Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y. ironically suggested loans to the poor, hungry children of New York City.

The resolution, because of the changes made in the house, must go to conference before it reaches the President's desk. Whether Mr. Hoover will sign it, in view of his economy plans, is problematical.

During the last nine years the flood farm loans have been made in increasing amounts to the northwestern and southeastern states, a total of $9,850,053 having been appropriated for that purpose, $5,754,351 last year. Only a part of this money has been repaid.

ROBERTA FAILS TO WIN CHURCH BACK FOR AIMEE

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Roberta Semple, the Rev. Aimee Semple McPherson's 18 year old daughter, failed in an effort to regain control of the Pomona, Cal., church for her mother in a dramatic appeal in the church last night, it became known today. The Pomona congregation seceded from Mrs. McPherson's authority two months ago.

Miss Semple was restrained from speaking and threatened with arrest. She asked permission to address the congregation. This was refused by the Rev. Temple Turner, leader in the secession move.

Aimee's daughter then tried to climb over the railing into the pastor's inclosure, but a policeman member of the congregation took her away.

Lake Forest "Unprotected" as Police, Firemen Banquet

Lake Forest, reputed as the wealthiest residential community in the Chicago region, was without regular police or fire protection last night, but no one was alarmed. Police Chief Lester Tiffany and his eleven men joined the seven regular firemen and ten volunteers in the annual banquet of the departments at Deerpath inn, Lake Forest. Chief Walter Henderson of Highwood substituted for Chief Tiffany, while a North Chicago patrolman and six citizens stood patrol duty.

SENATE BLOCKS EFFORTS TO CUT TARIFF ON WOOL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Western senators from wool growing states and eastern senators from manufacturing states blocked today amendments of Democrats reducing duties on wool and woolen clothing. The same combination which obtained approval of a 34 cent duty on raw wool several weeks ago was in control of the situation as the senate considered individual amendments to the wool schedule.

An amendment by Senator W. F. George [Dem., Ga.] to reduce the duty on coarse wool used in the manufacture of cheap clothing from 34 cents to 24 cents per pound was defeated by a vote of 22 to 56. Favoring the amendment were three Republicans and nineteen Democrats. The only Republicans voting for the amendment were three radicals, Senators Robert M. La Follette and John J. Blaine [Wis.], and George W. Norris [Neb.].

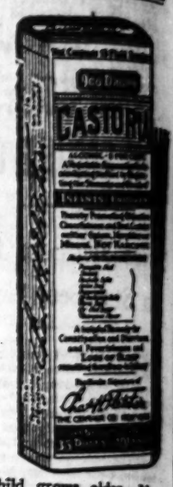
Another amendment by Senator George to reduce the duty on wool yarn was defeated by a vote of 28 to 45.

An amendment by Senator A. W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.] to reduce the duties on woolen clothing for men and boys was rejected by a vote of 27 to 45.

FALL DOWN STAIRS FATAL.

A skull fracture, suffered Sunday by Michael O'Neal when he tumbled down the back stairs of his home at 5709 Normal boulevard, resulted in his death yesterday in St. Bernard's hospital.

Children CRY for it



It may be the little stomach; it may be the bowels are sluggish. No matter what coats a child's tongue, its a safe and sensible precaution to give a few drops of Castoria. This gentle regulation of the little system soon sets things to rights. A pure vegetable preparation that can't harm a wee infant, but brings quick comfort —even when it is colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance.

And don't forsake Castoria as the child grows older. If you want to raise boys and girls with strong systems that will ward off constipation, stick to good old Castoria; and give nothing stronger when there's any irregularity except on the advice of a doctor. Castoria is sold in every drugstore, and the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Moderation! THE FRIEND that prolongs your youth

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper form, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. MONACO SCANDAL MENACES CROWN OF RULING PRINCE Subjects Sore at Royal Suit Going to Paris.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTE CARLO, Feb. 24.—Prince Pierre's suit for separation against his wife, the hereditary Princess Charlotte of Monaco, will be heard in a special court of revision in Paris on March 15, it was learned today.

Although the ruler of the principality, Prince Louis, is empowered to handle such matters himself by decree, he has preferred to turn the suit involving his daughter over to Paris jurists, who traditionally handle the familiar affairs of the principality which can not afford the luxury of a high court.

Abandons Royal Prerogative.

The entire principality became excited today when Prince Louis published a decree in the official Gazette transferring his right to decide the family case to the Paris court of revision. The decree at the same time indicated that tiny country's ruling council, which is supposed to be dissolved at the end of the month when new elections are called, would sit for some time longer.

Mayor Eugene Marquet, who is a staunch monarchist leader, is nevertheless sore at Prince Louis' decision, and called at the palace tonight to remonstrate with him. Rumors that Prince Louis will abdicate if troubles continue to accrue are flying about.

The Monegasques have been in a ferment and mystified all day over the events taking place at the palace of the Grimaldis, perched on the rock above the town. Crowds gathered in front of the historic stronghold of the princes of Monaco, and watched the bulletin board where every ten minutes or so a denial was flashed of some report published in London or in Paris about the scandal.

The Monegasques were keenly interested today in the comings and goings of Princess Charlotte who gymkhaned between the palace and the Villa Pansiola at Roquebrune, where THE TRIBUNE found her on Friday. Everybody in Monaco knows her lowly origin and how she became legitimatized, but nevertheless she is as popular with the townspeople as Prince Pierre is unpopular.

Rumors of Prince Louis' abdication continue, however, and should he do so it is certain that the principality will become a reublic, as the Monegasques could never stand a French regent until little Prince Rainier comes of age. Prince Pierre before his marriage was Count de Polignac and a French subject and would be regent.

Mayor Marquet said today that Princess Charlotte's evil influence was one Bonaventura, a red member of the council and her lawyer. "It was he who influenced her in this flight," he said.

It was learned today that Prince Louis only heard of the impending rupture between his daughter and her imported French husband through little Princess Antoinette and Prince Rainier, her children, who had overheard their parents having a family row.

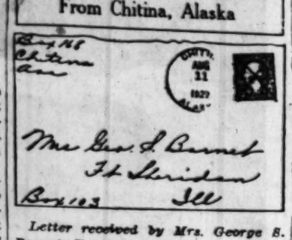
From Chitina, Alaska



Letter received by Mrs. George S. Barnet, Fort Sheridan, Ill.

Chitina, Alaska, is 130 miles inland and north from Cordova, which latter point is the southern terminal of the Copper River and Northwestern railway. The trains on this railroad, coming from Kennecott at the northern terminal and from Cordova at the south, meet and discharge passengers at Chitina, each train then turning back. Chitina is also the southeastern terminal of the Richardson highway, which runs from Chitina to Fairbanks, a distance of 400 miles, carrying many tourists in summer seasons. Chitina is a spot of wonderful scenic beauty, being in a valley of lakes surrounded by snow covered mountain peaks.

OWNERS OF LAKE BOATS STAND PAT ON BRIDGE EVIL

Fight Any Extension of Closed Hours.

Despite an extensive renewal of public protests against the open bridge evil, the Chicago Waterways association yesterday disapproved any extension of the hours when river shipping is forbidden to interrupt traffic crossing the downtown spans.

Led in the discussion by E. J. Hogan, president of the association and general agent of the Great Lakes Transit corporation, the representatives of a dozen shipping companies, at a luncheon in the Palmer house, asserted their rights to the use of the river. They passed a resolution offered by Arthur Sullivan recommending that the present bridge regulations remain undisturbed. They also affixed to the resolution the phrase: "In accordance with the recommendation of the secretary of war," who recently denied a city council plea for an extension of closed hours during both the morning and afternoon periods.

Tug Evil Unnecessary.

While the sentiment was against any extension, the shippers did agree that there is no necessity for tugs to open the spans during closed hours in high water seasons, just in order to change their crews. Tugs owned by the Great Lakes Towing company of Cleveland, which are built higher than Chicago towboats and thus unable to clear the bridges, were the worst offenders in this respect last summer.

Mr. Sullivan was the leader in condemning the performances of the Cleveland company's tugs.

"It's fool operation," he said. "I've seen the tugs open the bridges during the evening rush hour and tie up 5,000 to 10,000 people at a great loss of time and money. We ought to lean on that tug company and make them answer." Mr. Hogan said steps had already been taken in that direction, adding that he would again call it to the attention of Charles F. Miller, the Cleveland company's Chicago superintendent.

But the shippers were firm in opposing the proposed extension of the morning closed hour from 9:30 to 10 and moving up the evening period to start at 4 instead of 4:30. "Any man who goes to work after 9:30 in the morning," said Mr. Hogan, "and quits before 4:30 in the afternoon isn't entitled to the same consideration as the clock puncher. The present bridge hours we have take care of the laboring man."

Suggest Radical Step.

Later it was suggested that the closed hours be completely abolished and some arrangement substituted whereby boats would not follow each other through the bridges less than thirty minutes apart. The thirty minutes, some members said, would be sufficient to unsnarl any traffic jams resulting from the openings. Whereon Mr. Sullivan said:

"That's entirely too long," he said; "ten or fifteen minutes is enough."

In 1867, when Chicago had a population of less than 250,000, the bridges could not be kept open so as to delay vehicles or persons more than ten minutes. Traffic engineers say that under modern street conditions the bridge delays cause jams that take hours to correct.

Minister Sues Boarder for Stealing Wife's Love

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Rev. L. P. Morris, Fort Worth Methodist minister, today filed suit for $55,000 damages against C. M. Rambaugh of Dallas, alleging Rumbaugh had alienated his wife's affections. The pastor said Rumbaugh, who had been accepted into the Morris home as a boarder, began paying attentions to his wife. Later Mrs. Morris filed suit for divorce.

40 Jailed in Rum Drive; City Marshal Will Resign

Salina, Kas., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Forty men were held on liquor charges in the county jail here today and Sheriff E. R. Nelson said George Reeves, city marshal at Gypsum, had promised to resign as the result of a county wide roundup of alleged bootleggers.

Sheriff Nelson said Marshal Reeves confessed orally to accepting bribes from liquor sellers at Gypsum. The arrests began Saturday night.

THE COST OF SAFETY AT THE CROSSINGS.

The knowledge that accidents such as took place in Kenosha Sunday night are avoidable only adds to their horror. Grade separation would end them. The crossing was guarded mechanically and the warning light had called the attention of a number of motorists to the danger. One driver, whether from recklessness or failure to see the warning may never be known, drove on the track with the result that two trains were wrecked, with heavy loss of life.

It is far easier to say that accidents of this sort are preventable by grade separation than to point out how the needed separations are to be financed. The railroads alone cannot afford to meet the whole cost, except in the most congested districts where grade crossings, because of their interference with rapid movement in and out of terminals, are more costly than the construction of an elevated right of way. Hundreds of millions of dollars are required to build safety into the highways, and railroad earnings, for the most part, are not sufficiently large to attract the needed capital. A general increase in rates sufficient to bring in the money required would be bitterly fought by shippers and, even if adopted, would result, in all probability, in heavy loss of business to bus and truck lines and other competing means of transportation.

A partial solution will be found in the use of the state's road building funds in rebuilding existing crossings for safety. Certainly no death traps need be incorporated in any new roads. Part of the cost may have to be met by the municipalities immediately benefited. The problem of safety on the highways of the state is one to which the next session of the legislature must give careful study.

TUT'S CURSE.

The survival of superstition in the human mind has not been more strikingly revealed in recent years than by the suicide of Lord Westbury. The rumor of the Egyptian curse which was destroying every one connected with the disinterment of Tut-ankh-amen had reached even this ultima Thule in advance of Mr. Steele's interesting report of casualties. Perhaps in Chicago, where every citizen is supposed on returning home to comb the bullets out of his hair—as once the valorous English general had the bullets removed from his wig after every engagement—Tut's curse might not be expected to give the thrill it does in law abiding Britain. But a curse coming down from the mysterious past is more romantic and more moving to the imagination than a mere bullet from the neighborly environment of our gangland. And Tut's curse has the drama of antiquity and that glamour of royalty to which we are especially susceptible. To be shot by a gunman is no treat, but to die by the hand of a king, even an Egyptian pharaoh, is getting into the best society.

To the prosaic and skeptic mind there are defects in this terror. The relation between some of the victims and the offense for which the curse is imposed is rather remote. Lord Westbury had no part in the blasphemy, whereas Mr. Howard Carter, who was the chief offender, the discoverer and despoiler of the tomb, was, at our latest personal observation, in a condition of almost scandalous good health and spirits. As to Mr. Carter, it may be urged that the indignant pharaoh is reserving him for a final climacteric tragedy, and as to the apparently innocent casualties they may simply be the victims of, so to speak, bad shooting. Even a curse may go a bit astray when the distance is considerable, as between Luxor and London.

At any rate, we suggest that all of us who are a little depressed when we see the new moon over the left shoulder, or hasten to get rid of a two dollar bill, or refuse to walk under a ladder or step on a crack, etc., etc., enjoy the Tut curse without too much critical superiority. It's a good curse, a royal curse, and a better mystery than can be purchased for $2.50 or less in the bookshops. Meanwhile we shall wait day by day for news of the corporeal condition of Mr. Carter.

MUSCLING IN AT MUSCLE SHOALS.

The testimony of Chester Gray, representative in Washington of the American Farm Bureau federation, should be read with interest by all who profess to favor government ownership and operation of various public utilities. Mr. Gray was a witness before the lobby investigating committee. He told, somewhat reluctantly, of some of his activities in connection with the disposition of the government's power facilities at Muscle Shoals. He said that the Alabama Power company and the American Cyanamid company, though nominally opposing each other in endeavoring to obtain control of the properties, in fact, were seeking an understanding regarding division of the power if the bid of the Cyanamid company was accepted.

Mr. Gray has opened himself to attack on the ground that he coöperated, at least tacitly, in this attempt to gain control of the government's properties, and it will be instructive to observe to what extent the agrarian leaders in congress take advantage of the opening. Meanwhile it may be observed that government activity in business is almost certain to be accompanied by just such dealings as Mr. Gray described. Gentlemen who know exactly what they want will employ political pressures of one sort or another to get it. In the long run they are likely to succeed. If the Norris resolution had been approved by President Coolidge and the government had embarked upon a policy of retaining the plants the difficulty would not have been avoided, but would rather have been aggravated. The pressure would then have been used to obtain preferential treatment for individual customers.

There is only one means of preventing the evils attendant upon the activities of government in business, and that is to keep the government out of business.

HARBORS AND PRIVATE MANAGEMENT.

The East Side Chamber of Commerce has done well to call a public meeting to resurrect the Calumet harbor development. The project should have been well on the way to completion by this time, but has been paralyzed by politicians and municipalists. The Calumet harbor should be developed by and for private enterprise, not by and for politicians and job holders, and the organized business intelligence of the community should inform and lead public opinion upon this issue.

This applies to the whole subject of port and terminal development. Certain harbor advisers have been campaigning for municipal barge-ship-truck-rail interchange terminals in anticipation of the lakes-gulf waterway opening. Provident and progressive citizens indorse the proposal for adequate harbor facilities. They will take issue, however, with those who advocate public construction and operation of the harbors.

The waterway will be used by private manufacturers and shippers. It will not be attractive to shippers unless the terminals are conveniently situated and correctly planned. The traffic problem is complicated. It can only be worked out properly by builders and operators who know the needs of the industries which will use the terminals. Subject to political influence involving sectional jealousies and the importunities of real estate speculators, the chance of getting a harbor or harbors for the people for whom they were constructed will be slight.

The public interest in harbors is the prosperity which use of them by private capital will bring to the city. The public interest in harbors is not in the money that would be squandered for their construction out of the public pocketbook. We would burden ourselves with the support of political workmen and with extras that go into public building. We would commit ourselves to the maintenance of the harbors with the prospect that city hall management would show deficits. We would construct terminals poorly suited to the needs of industry.

Instead of assuming responsibility for terminal construction, the city should transfer the work to private capital. It is an investment for industrialists, not for taxpayers.

ADMIRAL JONES.

Rear Admiral Hilary Jones' illness withdraws from the American delegation at the naval conference a prop of which, so far as we have been advised of its course, it is and will continue to be in need. This distinguished naval officer has won the confidence of every friend of national defense. His approval of any agreement our delegation may propose would give more assurance to the American public that the nation's maritime interests had not been substantially compromised than the approval of any delegate or adviser at the conference. His departure is a cause of regret to every one who hopes for a solution of the complicated problems of naval adjustment which will be compatible with the welfare of American commerce and naval defense.

Meanwhile the nation will extend its sympathy to Admiral Jones in his illness and hope for his speedy recovery. He has won its gratitude for long and devoted service. The suggestion of Rear Admiral Moffett that he be given the rank of admiral deserves the favorable consideration of the government. He earned it at Geneva in 1927.

Editorial of the Day

MISPLACED PITY.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

The parole record revealing the character and career of Mrs. Ruth St. Clair should prove a sufficient antidote to the sentimentality lately lavished upon her and her predicament. As Mr. Maher, chairman of the New York City parole commission, says, this record, bad as it is, does not justify a life sentence under the fourth offender law for her shoplifting proclivities. On the other hand, it does show plainly that so far she has been an incorrigible enemy of society and an unconscionable ingrate, and that she richly deserves indefinite incarceration.

The community faces a serious problem in dealing with this type of petty repeater. To invoke the Baumes code as it reads at present is to employ too heavy a weapon. Its worst effect is not the injustice done such a defendant in punishing her as if she were an abandoned thug, but the aura of martyrdom she acquires in the popular mind with the consequent wave of hostility to the operation of, broadly speaking, a very salutary law, which that martyrdom inspires. Society requires protection from her kind, but in obtaining that protection it should be careful to see that its sense of justice does not suffer.

It is difficult to say offhand to just what institution and for what term this woman should be committed. Our penal system today makes no adequate provision for the segregation and different treatment of the various types of prisoners, while the laws are too rigid in their sentence requirements. But obviously she should be put away where her case can come under the observation of competent psychiatrists, and she should not be released, even if that should mean a life term, until she satisfies them of her complete reformation. But neither the hope nor the opportunity of redemption should be denied her.

Certainly this would be a more sensible and more civilized method of dealing with her than for the governor to set her free through the exercise of his pardoning power, which is now the only alternative to the rigid mandate of the fourth offender law.

GOOD LITTLE MAN.

'Twas the day before Christmas. Willie Jones broke a window with a snowball, sassed his mother, got his new suit full of slush, broke the dial on the radio, and took father's fountain pen to draw pictures with.

"Thank goodness," sighed Papa Jones, "my boy is not a hypocrite!"—Yale Record.

WHY THROW POP BOTTLES AT THE EMPIRE—

and as we've told you before that bird is more rightly called an umpire, but when we get excited at a baseball game we free (in a manner of speaking) Americans invariably say empire. If you read the news from Russia you may mildly wonder why this latest outburst—the one against religion.

We'll tell you about that. It's because Russia has no baseball games. The greatest and only outdoor sport of the Soviets is lining up gentlemen the Reds don't like, making them face a perfectly blank and usually most uninteresting wall and shooting them. If they ran cut of gents to shoot the Soviet fans would turn on the government. So the Red authorities have to keep supplying people for the Soviets to play with in their own amusing fashion. When they've exhausted one class of material for the firing squads they've got to get another.

Now, over here in America we go out to the ball park and work off our enthusiasm. We stand on the seats and yell like maniacs and throw (or probably "trun" is the more often employed word) seat cushions and pop bottles at the empire. And what we say about the pitcher or the second baseman that let us down is nobody's business. We shriek, "Kill the empire!" but we never do kill him, although sometimes we chase him for a couple of blocks.

What we ought to do is to send missionaries to Russia to teach the Reds to play baseball. In time they would discover that watching a game between the Moscow Red Shirtskies and the Leningrad Soakemowitchs is a lot more fun than lining people up against a wall and shooting 'em. But we'll say right now that if anybody wants to be empire at a Soviet ball game they can be, as far as we're concerned. Those boys over there have got into a lot of bad habits they won't get over for years.

QUIET WAYS.

They have escaped the tumult and the din,
Leading serenely their several ways,
Checking the insatiate desire to win,
Content to see the passing of the days.

As one who watches some gay pageant going
Along the noisy street yet stays aside,
Or where bright water through green pastures flowing,
Or on far strands where breathes a restless tide,

These quiet ways have known the bliss of dreams,
Where hooded cypress narrow waisted stands,
And through trimmed cedars come the sapphire gleams
Marking the larkspur of the border lands.

CLARENCE P. MILLIGAN.

AND NOW we are regaled with the thrilling news that the wives and daughters of the American delegates to the naval peace parley in London are invited to the queen's tea party at Buckingham palace next Thursday and are busy practicing curtsying. The wives and daughters of the American delegation are apparently not the only ones who are practicing curtsying.

DEMONS IN HUMAN FORM!

Talk about the meanest man in the world! Why, the bird that robbed the baby in its perambulator of its milk bottle, the guy that stole the penny from the blind match girl, and the gink that pawned his poor old mother's crutch are kind-hearted philanthropists compared to the three inhuman devils who stole fifty coils of copper wire valued at $2,000 from the city of Chicago last Sunday. The limit of human depravity has finally been reached.

STATISTICS—now we know what you are going to say: "Aw, t'ell with statistics." We know, because that's what the bum said to us yesterday on the Boul. Mich. when in response to his piteous plea for two-bits to get a cuppa Java, a ham sandwich, some roast chicken, and a few doughnuts we told him that statistics just published revealed that every man and woman in the United States possessed three thousand bucks. Also the man said he would sell us his right to the three thousand bucks for two-bits. It looked like a pretty fair offer and we took a dime's worth.

AN IMPORTANT item in yesterday's paper informs us that the American Anti-Alcohol society is importing one Zaro Agha as exhibit A of the benefits of nonindulgence in likker, Zaro being 156 years and never having taken a drink, he says. But Zaro has buried 11 wives. Maybe the moral is that the secret of longevity is to bury eleven wives. And maybe Zaro the Long Lived Turk never took a bath. So if you would live to be 156 years old forget about Saturday night.

CAUSE OF HEART DISEASE.

PARTLY because rheumatism is the principal cause of heart disease, but also because of the pain and disability of the joint disease itself, various national and international anti-rheumatism societies are at work. At a meeting of the American committee, held in Kansas City in October, 1929, the following committee report on the "disease commonly called chronic rheumatism or arthritis" was adopted:

1. The disease, chronic arthritis, present in all temperate zones, represents one of the most important, if not the most important, of existing social and industrial handicaps.

2. The committee conceives of the disease as a generalized disease with joint manifestations. Certain prodromes may be recognized and it is of vital importance to the body politic that they be recognized.

3. It is the opinion of the committee that at the present time no single infectious agent or any completely defined dietary deficiency or metabolic disturbance has been shown to be the sole cause of these disorders. The committee inclines to the belief that any one of these factors or certain combinations of these factors under appropriate circumstances may basically underlie the onset of the disease.

4. The committee feels it is of vital importance that the medical profession have its conscience awakened to the methods of proved value which are at present at its disposal. The committee feels that the lay public, through their medical advisers and through the public press, should also be made aware of the danger to their efficiency and happiness which the inroads of the disease immediately threaten.

5. In the light of the foregoing considerations the committee proposes to broadcast as widely as possible, both to the profession and to the public, its concept of the nature of the types of arthritis included under the heading "chronic rheumatism"; its beliefs as to the probable predisposing and the exciting causes of the disease, and the knowledge which the committee possesses or may acquire as to the most efficient methods of treatment.

6. It is the belief of the committee that optimism rather than pessimism should dominate the attitude of the profession toward the problem. In most cases treatment should represent a combination of various coördinated measures of therapy rather than one single procedure. Experience leads to the belief that under such circumstances an attitude of optimism toward the control of the disease is justified.

This report deals with the several kinds of chronic joint trouble which go by such names as deforming arthritis, arthritis deformans, chronic rheumatism. It covers the crooked fingers with enlarged joints which old ladies so object to. It does not include acute rheumatism or rheumatic fever.

There are similar committees in other countries. The one in Great Britain has rather specialized in the more acute forms of rheumatism in children, and the relation of damp climate, rain, cold winds, and housing thereto.

VITAMINS AND PROTEINS.

E. B. writes: 1. Give me a list of the vitamins and proteins so I may be able to arrange a healthful diet.

2. Please let me know if the following articles are hard to digest: Oatmeal, cream of wheat, pears, raw or cooked, salted peanuts.

REPLY.

Your first question gives me a large order. I can only touch on one or two points. As a rule, the play between work and hunger results in the choosing of a moderately well balanced diet. If you want to choose such a diet more scientifically, I suggest that you read at least one book on the subject and then do some self-experimentation.

1. It is now thought that there are five vitamins. Two, A and B, are required for growth and vigor; one, E, for reproduction and also for the vitality of the young; two, C and D, are protective. A is fat soluble and abounds especially in animal fats. B is water soluble and abounds particularly in vegetables. E is also found principally in vegetables. D protects against rickets and abounds in cod liver oil and irradiated ergosterol. C protects against scurvy and is found principally in fruits and vegetables. Proteids are the foods which contain nitrogen and which repair the highly organized body tissues. Among the proteid foods are lean meats and eggs. Some vegetable foods, such as breads, cereals, beans, are rich in proteid.

2. [a] and [b] Nearly every one digests cereals readily. [c] The same statement holds as to pears and other fruit, both raw and cooked. [d] Some people do not digest salted peanuts well. It is a very rich food and should not be eaten in large quantities at any one sitting.

PROBABLY DIABETES.

W. H. writes: I have had sugar in urine off and on for the last four years, am 30 years old, and am not losing weight. Could this be diabetes?

REPLY.

Yes.

OBJECT TO TENANT.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Two parties own two small farms, each in his own name. The farms have been rented for several years by mutual agreement to parties farming them. One objects to present renter because of confessed dishonesty. 2. Can the other party by law retain renter? 3. Is it necessary to secure an injunction to restrain him from renting to said party? M. W.

1. We assume that you mean that one party owns one farm and one party owns the other.

2. Not if, as we understand to be the case, the party objecting has no interest in the farm in question.

3. Where owners of undivided interests in real estate cannot agree any one of them is entitled to force a public sale by partition proceedings. The cost of such proceedings, including the complainant's solicitor's fees, is chargeable against the proceeds of sale. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—During December, 1929, my sister and I worked for an advertising company during our spare time. We just heard that the company is bankrupt; $25 is still due us. How shall we go about getting the money? H. E. P.

NO INHERITANCE TAX.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Real estate and 2. bank accounts are held in joint tenancy. 3. Wife is beneficiary of life insurance. There is no will. What, if any, of the above is subject to state or federal inheritance tax laws upon the death of husband or wife? R. S. C.

1. and 2. The survivor would have to pay upon the share which he received by virtue of the death of the co-tenant.

3. There would be no inheritance tax. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 25, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Grant sent to the war department an official account of the capture of Wilmington as forwarded to him from Fortress Monroe by Gen. Comstock. It says: "Our troops entered Wilmington on the morning of the 22d. After the evacuation of Fort Anderson Gen. Schofield directed Gen. Cox to follow its garrison toward Wilmington while Gen. Terry followed Hoke on the east side of the river. On the west side the rebels took their stand behind Owl creek, but on the 20th Gen. Cox crossed below them on flatboats, attacked them in the rear and routed them, capturing 300 prisoners. On the 21st Gen. Cox pushed to Brumarck river, opposite Wilmington, and on that night the rebels evacuated the city. Our captures, including those at Fort Anderson, amount to 700 prisoners and 30 guns."

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Carl Schurz has been assigned to duty on Gen. Hancock's staff to assist in the organization of the 1st army corps, and to command a division when raised.

WASHINGTON.—H. M. Hoxie, United States marshal for Iowa, has tendered his resignation to take effect March 1. Peter Meleney of Cedar Falls has been recommended for the place.

NEW YORK.—The Richmond Examiner says: "The enemy are now gathering all their available forces and aiming for a combined movement against Richmond. Sherman is advancing through South Carolina, while Beauregard slowly retreats before him toward Charlotteville. The Yankee forces in east Tennessee are crossing the mountains to take Beauregard on the flank while Grant waits within his fortifications for Sherman's appearance."

CHICAGO.—Miss Hattie McDougall of Chicago and Albert H. Marsh of Louisville, Ky., were married in this city on Feb. 22 by the Rev. Charles E. Cheney.

FEBRUARY 25, 1900.

LONDON.—Gen. Cronje and his army, surrounded by a superior force of British troops at Paardeberg Drift, have succeeded for another 24 hours in avoiding defeat. The last bulletin from Lord Roberts said: "There is little change in the situation. There was intermittent shelling during the day."

CHICAGO.—Due to the increased current in the Chicago river, claimed to be the result of the opening of the drainage canal, the steamer Amazonas broke away from three tugs, lodging against the Pennsylvania railroad bridge and blocking all traffic. River men said the current was three miles an hour, and declare it cannot be more than one mile an hour if commerce is to use the river. Trustee Jones of the sanitary district said he is convinced navigation will be ruined if the full 360,000 cubic feet of water is sent down the canal. He declared steps must be taken at once to remedy the situation.

PORTLAND, Me.—The Allan line steamer California is on the ledge off Cushing's island, and a tug which has just come from the wreck reports that the ship is in grave danger of going to pieces in the gale which is raging.

CHICAGO.—Winter swooped down on Chicago with frigid severity and at 7 o'clock last night thermometer registered 7 degrees below zero, a 40 degree drop in 24 hours.

CHICAGO.—Emanuel R. Boyer, director of the new Chicago institute, and former assistant superintendent of schools in Chicago, died at his home, 536 West 61st street, of pneumonia at the age of 44. His last position in the schools was as principal of the South Division High school.

FEBRUARY 25, 1920.

CHICAGO.—This city elected 26 aldermen under the nonpartisan aldermanic election law yesterday, leaving only nine wards to go to the supplemental election on April 6. The women's vote delivered the electing majorities to three winning aldermen—Ald. John G. Horne [13th], Ald. Joseph Smith [14th], and Ald. John H. Lyle [32d]. The city hall had worked hard to beat Horne and Smith. In a total vote of approximately 75,000 the six south park bond issue propositions all carried by pluralities of more than 30,000. This removes the last stumbling block to the lake shore development and assures completion of Grant park, the building of a lake front stadium, the widening and extension of South Park avenue, and the acquisition of new small parks.

WASHINGTON.—Announcement was officially made at the White House that Charles R. Crane, millionaire manufacturer who formerly lived in Chicago, will be appointed United States minister to China to succeed Dr. Paul S. Reinsch of Wisconsin, resigned. If he is confirmed and actually takes the post Mr. Crane will deem himself vindicated of the humiliation he suffered when President Taft appointed him to the place, but recalled and dismissed him on charges of indiscretion as he was about to sail for China.

THE BRIDGES.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—You are printing a great deal these days about bridges, what their opening costs, and much that conveys the impression that Chicago cannot tolerate navigation in the river. Well, what if they do open? Granted it is a nuisance to some people; is it not also a nuisance to many people to have traffic on the street?

The river was here and Chicago chose to grow up about the river and use the river; Chicago has no substitute for the river. It does not belong to Chicago, and boat transit is still a part of Chicago's business. Stupid engineering put some low bridges in when better foresight would have put them a few feet higher. Chicago pays the penalty in inconvenience; but why blame the boats that must use the river?

You are about to witness another piece of stupid engineering in putting a bridge at the mouth of the river. An opportunity to profit by the experience of Cleveland in putting a high bridge that boats could go under is ignored when there is plenty of room for elevation in the approaches. Just let me call attention to the possibilities of a steamboat coming into Chicago in a raging gale of wind and snow with a strong following current; it finds the mouth of the river closed with a bridge that has closed hours; it cannot maneuver or handle itself; no place to tie up; and suppose it becomes a wreck?

As long as we have business in Chicago river, she must tolerate us. When you can give an economical substitute, then you can help out traffic convenience. You will find Uncle Sam tolerant of people's interests, but he will also see to it that a boat has its rights. If a sandboat can make two trips in twenty-four hours, the building interests get the benefit; if its revenue is cut one-half the building must pay—and then what a holler goes out. J. D. SARLES.

PUTTING MR. SHAW IN HIS PLACE.

Geneva, Ill., Feb. 20.—When all the truck that favors liquor has spent itself before the wets in Washington the temperance cause has still one name that puts wet ones to shame, Lindbergh. It took a clear brain, a steady hand and a sober mind to master the ship in the clouds and reach Paris. That is more than THE TRIBUNE has ever had and its work today is to undo and destroy love of country and humanity and to bring to the brink of hell the land of Washington and Lincoln.

THEODORE N. PETERSON.

WHY, INDEED?

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Why don't the people read "The Friend of the People" every day? Then they won't have to ask the same question so often?

NICHOLAS CLEMENT.

HE FREQUENTLY HAS.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—When Phil Scott gets through with Sharkey he should look up Westbrook Pegler and pop him on the beezer for his insults towards him in his newspaper articles. I'll bet Pegler poses in front of a mirror and makes a hero of himself. Myself, also Scott and all Englishmen like fair play. If Scott is yellow by using foul tactics, as Pegler claims he does, what is the matter with the American referees? Are they a bunch of dummies, and unable to know if a man is fouled or not? Maybe Pegler can answer that one.

JIM CLARKE.

AN IDEA.

Downers Grove, Ill., Feb. 13.—Would suggest that the mayor send Mr. Caldwell to London. Maybe King George would like to buy some tax anticipation warrants. BEN SMITH.

NO SLUR WAS EXPRESSED OR INTENDED.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—The cartoon in this morning's TRIBUNE, labeled "Charles Evans Hughes," credited to the Washington Star, strikes me as a useless, unnecessary, ill timed and discourteous slap at the chief justice of the United States. I saw this cartoon in the Washington Star over a week ago, while there, and the only excuse for its being in that paper then was that the confirmation of Mr. Hughes as chief justice was undergoing an attack from certain radicals in the senate. He was afterward is ratified by a large majority and today is the chief justice of our nation and is entitled to honor, credit and support.

The Supreme court represents the country along the highest dignified lines, and its recognized chief justice should command the profound respect of and be honored by every one of us, especially by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which is so influential in molding public opinion. TRACY C. DRAKE,
President, The Drake Hotel company.

THE BIG SHOTS.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—I have often wondered whether we are living in an autocracy or democracy, as is supposed, and whether laws are to be broken, as is generally supposed. If you doubt my word, visit our loop any day during the nonparking hours. The big shots with their royal blimps are parked anywhere all over the loop. At their appearance our traffic cops seem to get deaf, dumb, and blind; they scatter like a flock of scared birds. However, let a fellow like me try a stunt like that, and I'd be run out of the loop faster than I came in. FRANK SCHOR.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—No money with which to pay the teachers! We, as members of a parent-teacher association, bear witness to seeing four men mopping one small office after school hours and more than that number slowly, pausefully wiping ledges, moldings, railings, and even walls (don't smile) in the corridors, while the classrooms are left in such condition that teachers request the children to dust off tables, desks, etc.! J. A. B.

IN DEFENSE OF MR. SWANSON.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Every morning I read your paper and every day when I read the Voice of the People about the first thing I see is something against our state's attorney. He is blamed for everything one can think of. I wonder how many citizens know what his duties are. Before they comment they had better look into this matter. He is not the mayor or the head of the police department, nor is he able to go out and find all these speakeasies spoken of by "A Reader" this morning. Why don't these people that know so much about these places go to the state's attorney's office and tell him about them in person instead of telling the world about it? K. B. COLLINS.

THE LINE OF DESCENT.

Ripon, Wis., Feb. 18.—Occasionally a letter appears in your columns in which the writer compares opposition to prohibition to the Boston tea party and the refusal to accept the Dred Scot decision and the fugitive slave law. Prohibitionists and not the opponents of prohibition are the successors of the revolutionary patriots and the abolitionists who fought for human liberty and rights against those who would, for selfish motives, destroy such liberties and rights. The liquor crowd have the same selfish disregard for the welfare of their fellow men as had the slaveholders. F. E. TINKHAM.

TRUTH is STRANGER than FICTION

VOLUME II. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1930 No. 4

And Coming Down To Date, We Find—

IT IS hard for us to realize that we are virtually a new race under the sun. That nothing like us has ever happened before. That as a civilization we are somewhat on the order of what the botanists call a "sport". A new color—and a very colorful color—springing on an old flower.

If we could consider ourselves as suddenly being set down in the midst of any other civilization, we would be just as amazing to them as Mark Twain's Yankee in King Arthur's Court.

And yet all of the flower of our civilization goes back to the old roots.

Take your Athenian workman, pondering on the exodus to Syracuse and wondering whether or not to save his money for a rainy day. And in the very widest range of setting you have your same American problem in your same American working home.

The only differences are: 1, the greater amount of money involved; and 2, the greater amount of cultural wants to absorb it.

But these two factors are of tremendous importance to our new civilization. In fact, they are the two things that set us apart as the new race under the sun.

Remember, a working family then is a working family now. That is—a family that works. But the reward of the family then was a pittance of poverty. Whereas the same reward now is a tremendous sum in the aggregate.

Even in the aggregate of the individual family.

It is not uncommon—in fact, it is very common—for a working family to aggregate more earnings than the executive who employs them. Several earners in a working family can very easily aggregate an important income. Whereas the executive, being the sole earner of his family, sees his individual earning as his total aggregate.

And that, again, offers another interesting situation. It makes a tremendous difference whether a son in the one group comes home with his pay envelope and says, "Dad, here it is!" or a son in the other group comes home with empty pockets and says, "Dad, where is it?"

Now, when you take this problem, not from its economical possibilities, which we pointed out over a year ago, but purely from its sociological standpoint, you get a situation that ordinarily would have shaken our whole social set-up long before this time.

For there is nothing in the world that so unsettles a family or a man or a class as a sudden influx of money greater than the normal need.

There is not any of us without some friend whose friendship has been made untenable or impossible by a sudden acquisition of wealth.

Multiply that personal experience by the changed money-status of millions of working families, and you get some idea of the problem it presents.

Sitting here at True Story Magazine we are utterly amazed at the level-headed way in which this social problem due to the sudden aggregate of wealth is being handled by America's wage earners.

When we take the manuscripts that pour across our desks by tens of thousands, we find the very least social break-down of any group. We find marriage at its highest, divorce at its lowest, home-building at its greatest.

And when we look deeper into these true stories, we find the reason, just as when you look deeply into the true stories of the masses of any age you find the same reason.

Again and again, and again, and yet again, we find this same theme running through these thousands upon thousands of personal documents. The re-affirmation of old virtues, repeated like the theme-song of a movie—that honesty is the best policy, that the boy ought to marry the girl, that the family should be held together, that the home should be built, and that, no matter what the trials and tribulations of the adventurous interludes, the world should carry on in all decency.

When you consider the tremendous cultural changes that are going on—the literally millions of cultural products of every kind from automobiles to lipsticks that are going into working families under our new economic system, it doesn't take much imagination to realize how vitally necessary this old balance-wheel of ethical standards is to this new social status.

★ ★ ★ ★

And make no mistake about it—this is your balance-wheel. This is your steadying process in a civilization of such rapid changes, that without it, it is very doubtful if our present social set-up would hold together.

JAMES STEWART, GENERAL IN CIVIL WAR, DIES AT 91

Hailed as New Jersey's Hero in 1865.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. James Stewart, 91, one of the few surviving generals of the civil war, died today at his home here. For four years Gen. Stewart had been an invalid and his illness reached a critical stage two weeks ago.

Gen. Stewart left a lucrative position with a Philadelphia wholesale house in 1861 to assist in the organization of the 9th New Jersey infantry. After a few months in a training camp the regiment was ordered to the front and participated in some of the great battles of the Virginia campaign.

Promoted for Bravery.

In 1863 the regiment formed a part of the forces in North Carolina and for gallantry at the battle of New Bern, where he silenced a confederate battery that was playing havoc with federal forces, Stewart was promoted to captain. In the same campaign, in the close fighting around Goldsboro, N. C., his company lost thirty men in one action, and for his bravery and military ability under fire he was promoted to major.

Within a few weeks he had again distinguished himself and was made a colonel. As regimental commander he took part in some of the fiercest fighting of the war in the closing weeks' continuous battle around Richmond.

Just before the surrender of Gen. Lee at Appomattox Col. Stewart was brevetted a brigadier general and in that rank commanded a brigade and, part of the time, a division.

His Triumphant Return.

The triumphant return of Gen. Stewart with the 9th regiment, a unit of his brigade, to New Jersey was an occasion for a state-wide celebration, and he was then hailed as the state's outstanding hero of the war.

Gen. Stewart, upon his return to peace time pursuits, formed the commission mercantile firm of Stewart & Wilson and remained in the commission business until he retired to accept the post of chief of police in 1884.

MURDER TRIAL WITNESSES FACE PERJURY CHARGE

Two witnesses who testified yesterday for William Lenhardt, alleged Cleveland gunman, who is on trial in Judge Philip Finnegan's court on a charge of murdering Milton Valisopoulos, owner of a restaurant at 803 West 74th street, were threatened with charges of perjury last night.

Mrs. Catherine Gedroc, wife of a Cleveland garage owner, and John Radlo, a roomer in the home of Lenhardt's mother, testified that they had seen Lenhardt in Cleveland at the time the killing occurred last June.

But when Mrs. Gedroc was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne after she has testified she admitted that a bill for repairs on Lenhardt's automobile, purporting to have been made out in Cleveland on June 20, the day after the shooting, was fraudulent. She made out the bill just before coming to Chicago to testify for Lenhardt, she said. Radlo remembered Lenhardt's having had his automobile repaired, he said, but did not know the date.

The changed stories of the pair will be presented in court today. The state is asking the death penalty for Lenhardt.

ANYHOW, CITY'S SCRIP, IT SEEMS, IS WORTH FORGING

Charles White, 30 years old, 6144 University avenue, stopped and searched last night at 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue by Police Sergeant John Ryan was found carrying a counterfeit slip purporting to have been issued by City Controller Schmidt and directing City Treasurer Peterson to pay one George E. Roberts $82.40 for wages due.

The slip was a copy of an issue recently run off for the city when the administration decided to pay employés in so-called scrip, a decision which was later revoked. White, who was placed under arrest, declared he got the slip from William Chatefer, 26 years old, 6220 Greenwood avenue, who was subsequently arrested. Chatefer averred the slip had been given him by Edward McConnerty, 24 years old, 837 East 71st street.

McConnerty, also arrested, denied all knowledge of the counterfeit voucher. Although the police have received no complaints of counterfeit paper being passed, several storekeepers have reported instances where attempts were made to cash the scrip.

BAKER BARES HIS 11TH MURDER; 3 ARE CONFIRMED

Clears Up 2 Killings for Detroit Police.

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Texas Jim Baker boasted of another murder—his eleventh—according to his own count, to detectives as they questioned him in the Tombs prison today and a hurried telephone call to police headquarters in Detroit confirmed it in every detail. Baker shot and robbed a taxicab driver named South in Detroit on Jan. 20.

With all the serenity of a man talking about hunting rabbits, or catching a fish Baker recited the details of his latest murder. Nobody had suspected him of killing the taxicab driver; the New York police knew nothing about it and the Detroit police never had suspected Baker. He voluntarily added the crime to the roll marked up against him, and which now includes three substantiated murders; that of Henry S. Gaw, the Guggenheim laboratory watchman, in New York, on Dec. 28, 1928; that of Railroad Detective Walter Awe on Jan. 29, 1929, in Detroit, and now that of the driver on Jan. 20 of this year.

Details Latest Murder.

Baker said that between 8 and 9 p. m., Monday, Jan. 20, he entered a Checker cab in Detroit and ordered the driver to take him to a lonely spot on Joy road. There he drew a revolver, forced the driver to get out of the car and walk into an unfinished garage, where he shot him to death. He searched the body and found only a watch and $10. He threw the body on a pile of boards and went back to the taxicab, drove it into Grand Circus park, where he abandoned it. The next day he pawned the watch with a pawnbroker near the park, under the name of Edward Nauakoski.

The Detroit police confirmed that tale in its entirety. They found the cab driver's watch in the pawn broker's office under the name Baker had given, and they had been searching for the killer of the driver. Baker told Deputy Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney he read in newspapers the day after the murder that carpenters found South's body when they went to work the next morning.

Enjoys Telling of Crimes.

Baker evidently enjoyed telling the detectives about his crimes, and he had a thrilling morning while he recounted to Inspector Mulrooney how he shot and killed Detective Awe in Detroit.

It was Awe's pistol Texas Jim was carrying in a secret pocket in his trousers belt when two New York detectives brought him here from Detroit yesterday. He had a knife, too. How he kept them hidden from the Detroit police, who told the New York detectives that he had been thoroughly searched, is a minor mystery. Baker says the Detroit police never searched him.

With gusto and feeling for the dramatic, Baker told about shooting Detective Awe. He did not have anything against the detective, but he was in the grip of one of those lusts to kill that he says overtook him every few months. He jumped on the detective at a street corner and shot him with his own pistol.

All suspicion concerning the sanity of Baker was allayed late today upon the report of two physicians who pronounced him sane.

He's Mighty Little, but Too Much for Two Bandits

Isaac Goodman, owner of a Waukegan department store, stands barely five feet high. And yet when two armed youths sprang at him as he drove into the garage in the rear of his home at 850 Wadsworth street, Waukegan, last night Mr. Goodman, who is 50 years old, wrested the pistol from one and routed them both. They escaped.

BISHOP ANDERSON BURIED IN CRYPT IN NEW CHAPEL

Episcopal Seminary Units Are Dedicated.

The body of Bishop Charles Palmerston Anderson, late primate of the Episcopal church, was taken yesterday morning to its final resting place in a crypt beneath the plain marble altar in the chapel erected in his honor and bearing his name at the Western Theological seminary, Evanston. The Rt. Rev. Sheldon Munson Griswold, bishop elect of the diocese of Chicago read the brief service.

Immediately after the reinterment of Bishop Anderson's body, which was taken from Rosehill cemetery, several units of the new Western Theological seminary were dedicated. The date for the dedication had been set before the prelate's death to coincide with the 30th anniversary of his elevation to the episcopate. Had Bishop Anderson lived he would have celebrated his anniversary with dedication of the seminary buildings in which he had been so greatly interested.

Praise Bishop's Work.

In the sermon after the dedication of the Anderson Memorial chapel, the Rev. Dr. George Craig Stewart, rector of St. Luke's church, Evanston, declared that the pronouncements in Bishop Anderson's convention addresses would be more widely recognized as time goes on. He paid his tribute to the late primate as an advocate of church unity, declaring the position taken by Bishop Anderson formed a basis of unity which would ultimately unite the diverse elements in Christendom.

The Horlick refectory, given by William Horlick of Racine, was dedicated by the Rt. Rev. Harwood Sturtevant, bishop coadjutor of Fond du Lac. From the refectory the long ecclesiastical and academic procession moved to the south dormitory, the gift of the late Chauncey Keep and Mr. and Mrs. Angus S. Hibbard, which was dedicated by the Rt. Rev. Harry Sherman Longley, bishop of Iowa.

Dedicated by Bishop.

The Rt. Rev. John N. McCormick, bishop of western Michigan, dedicated the lecture hall and administration building, erected to the memory of Dr. Tolman Wheeler, founder of the seminary. The remaining units, the Gregory memorial library, and the William R. Stirling memorial cloister, the tower of the Anderson memorial chapel given by Mr. and Mrs. R. Floyd Cinch, and the Anderson memorial chapel were dedicated by Bishop Griswold. Dean F. C. Grant was the celebrant of the first service of holy communion.

The Rev. Stephen E. Keeler, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, Bishop McCormick, and John Tilton, architect of the seminary, were elected to the seminary's board of trustees yesterday. Angus S. Hibbard was elected vice president of the board. Bishop Griswold will become president when he takes office as bishop of Chicago.

STANDARD OIL TO PAY $250,000 FOR 13 DEATHS

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which with other large corporations has been said to have "no heart or soul," will pay $250,000 in compensation for the 13 deaths and the more than 50 injured which resulted from the explosion in the Bayway refinery plant near Elizabeth a week ago.

Officials of the company said it would pay far more than is required under the New Jersey compensation law. The company carries group insurance that applies in seven out of the thirteen deaths where the men had been with the company more than one year.

Dependents of these men will receive under the company's benefits plan amounts varying from $750 to $3,000, depending on the time the men worked for the company and the rate of salary. The company also pays for funeral expenses in all cases.

"The prudent builder will make the greatest use of Copper, Brass and Bronze. He will have the knowledge that he has built for permanency. Expensive repairs will be unnecessary. The sale value of his property will be enhanced" . . .

HON. LOUIS T. McFADDEN

REPRESENTATIVE LOUIS T. McFADDEN
Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, House of Representatives of the U.S.

MR. McFADDEN, himself a prominent banker, knows investment values. Like so many other great bankers—men whose business is judging investments—he urges the use of Copper, Brass and Bronze in home construction.

When you build your home, build it to last. The same unfailing qualities that dictated the use of Copper for the roof of the Capitol in Washington make it, and its alloys, Brass and Bronze, the metals to use in home installations.

Brass or Copper pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures are permanent. They cannot rust. Their use is a wise economy in any building that is designed to give long service.

The Building Service Department of the COPPER & BRASS RESEARCH ASSOCIATION, 25 Broadway, New York, will be glad to advise you without charge about the uses and proper application of these metals.

A GOOD WORD Multiplies SALES

What Mary Martin said to her friends she repeated to a score of women that week . . . She told them that in GOOD HOUSEKEEPING she had found the inspiration for the clothes they admired. GOOD HOUSEKEEPING'S editorial and advertising pages are rich in ideas that contribute to graceful living.

WHEREVER modern-minded women meet they "talk shop" about the things that mean most to them—the latest in fashions; the smart new models in cars; new graceful designs in china or silverware; an exquisite new perfume; a piquant new menu a smart hostess can serve.

Usually GOOD HOUSEKEEPING is spoken of by these women as the source of their ideas for buying. They know that it is the arbiter of taste, the guarantor of quality.

What would it be worth to you, a manufacturer of goods sold to women, if 1,750,000 discriminating readers of GOOD HOUSEKEEPING told their friends about your merchandise?

What would it be worth to you if the same progressive women influenced their retailers to stock your products?

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING, authority on how to live and what to purchase, has drawn to itself the women in every community who want the better idea, the finer merchandise.

The patronage of these liberal and progressive GOOD HOUSEKEEPING women can be won at once for your merchandise. They compose a buying force that will work for you in every market. They will buy when they see your product advertised in GOOD HOUSEKEEPING.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING'S index of guaranteed advertisements is a most comprehensive list of leading manufacturers whose success is based on good merchandise, and on sound judgment in the advertising and sale of their products. They use GOOD HOUSEKEEPING because they know that it stands alone in all markets as the buying guide of women who are shopping leaders.

Travelogue on Air Proves a Joy to Elmer

But Music Has High Place on Program.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The always highly estimated, though recently seldom heard, travelogue made an appearance last evening by way of Alfred Lyman Flude, world traveler and lecturer, W-G-N, 9 to 9:30.

Mr. Flude whisked us to Japan and enabled us to see picturesque scenes aplenty. While there he provided us with a ricksha, "which was so comfortable you don't want to ride in anything else." We visited a cloisonne shop and saw the artists at work. We saw something of Japanese civilization and culture. The lecturer had the women leave the room so that he could tell the men only about the beautiful, entertaining geisha girls; also about their nonflirting characteristic.

Certainly first place on the musical program belongs to Ezio Pinza, Metropolitan opera basso, on the Family Party concert from New York through W-G-N, 8:30 to 9. His big voice figuratively made the loudspeaker vibrate, yet the tone at all times was clear and pleasing. To opera goers perhaps the famous Calf of Gold aria from "Faust" was a special joy to hear, yet everything he did was impressive, even the modernized "Old Man River" spiritual. In praising this soloist I am cheating the orchestra, which, however, is not fair, for their part of the concert was not less attractive nor meritorious than that of the soloist.

An artists' bureau concert, from New York through WMAQ, 9:30 to 10, was in all respects enjoyable. The diversified popular "modern concert" from W-G-N, 9:30 to 10, was exactly what its name indicated it to be. The Gypsies orchestral program from New York, 7:30 to 8:30, was another large item among last evening's programs.

KILLED IN PLANE CRASH EN ROUTE TO INJURED WIFE

Capitalist Victim; Doctor, Hurt, May Die.

Smyrna, Ga., Feb. 24.—(AP)—George Tarsell Patten, 28, prominent capitalist of Chattanooga, Tenn., was killed near here today in the crash of the airplane which was taking him to the bedside of his wife in Clearwater, Fla.

Dr. Lyle D. West, the family physician, who was also in the plane, was severely injured and is thought to be in a dying condition. Jersey Ringle, the pilot, was also injured.

The plane, a three passenger cabin type, left Chatanooga this morning for Florida. Mrs. Patten was injured in an automobile wreck near Clearwater Sunday night and the family physician and her husband were en route to that city.

Two Killed in Montana.

Great Falls, Mont., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Henry B. Lorentz, 33, and E. C. Smith, both of Great Falls, were killed when their plane crashed in a field eleven miles west of Stanford, Mont., yesterday, it was learned today. The two men were returning from Cleveland, O.

The wrecked plane and the bodies were discovered by George McKenna, a farmer. Indications were that the plane was wrecked in trying to make a landing and had struck a cow.

Aviator and Student Killed.

Santa Maria, Cal., Feb. 24.—(Special.)—Joe W. Pearson, flying ace in the royal air forces during the world war and more recently flying instructor at the local air field, crashed to his death with Tom Middleton, Los Angeles student flyer, this afternoon. Both were killed instantly. They crashed when attempting a forced landing at Ontiveros ranch, fourteen miles east of Santa Maria. Pearson was 31 years old, Middleton 24.

Planes Seek Lost Flyers.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Four airplanes flew from Los Angeles today over the territory between here and Kingman, Ariz., where James Doles and Albert W. Beiber, Western Air Express pilots, were believed to have been forced down, but returned here with reports that their search was fruitless. A fifth plane piloted by George Rice continued the hunt.

Doles and Beiber flew a chartered plane to Kingman on Saturday with a party of Los Angeles persons and left there Sunday at 11:45 a. m. on the return trip with an empty plane. When they failed to arrive here Sunday night company officials assumed they had landed somewhere en route at an emergency field. With no word heard this morning, however, a search was started by air.

Shortly before search for the two missing aviators was started the Western Air Express received reports that Fred W. Kelly, veteran air mail flyer of the company, had cracked up on a mountainside near St. George, Utah, not far from the territory where Maurice Graham has been missing for two months. Kelly's plane was burned, but he was thrown free by the impact and escaped with a wrenched back. His cargo of 242 pounds of mail burned.

Control Flying by U. S. Code Is Demand of Eleven States

BY ROBERT WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 24.—Adoption by all states of the federal code regulating airplanes and pilots and the creation of state commissions to supervise air activities and enforce air laws were advocated here today by the legislative air conference of midwestern states.

Fifty representatives of chambers of commerce, air lines, railroads, and legislators from eleven states attended the parley which was called by Gov. Walter J. Kohler and the legislative interim committee on aviation of the state of Wisconsin for the purpose of drafting legislation for uniform control of aviation.

The conference represents the first concerted effort of legislators to bring about effective local control of air activities for the purpose of stamping out the gypsy flyers and reducing the number of air crashes.

Favors State Laws.

State adoption of the federal air code was recommended after a clarifying argument by George B. Logan of St. Louis, chairman of the aviation committee of the American Bar association, who declared that complete federal regulation of air traffic never would be possible.

"Congress always will be slow to stretch its powers into the state," he said. "It has no authority to regulate pleasure and business flying within the state.

"I am inclined to believe the department of commerce in its present activities is stretching its authority too far. If we are to have effective control it must be through state laws."

Urge U. S. Traffic Rules.

If the plan recommended is carried out every state will require planes and pilots to be inspected and licensed by the department of commerce and all flying within state boundaries would be conducted in accordance with federal traffic rules.

A state air commission composed of aviation experts, and distinct from any existing state body, would be created to see that these regulations are properly enforced by the existing peace officers and prosecuting attorneys.

Col. Harry H. Blee, chief of the airport and aeronautical information division of the department of commerce, declared the duty of his department was to stimulate air transportation and not to police the airways and airports. He recommended uniformity of laws relating to the licensing of planes and pilots.

Finds Present Laws Lacking.

Maj. Reed G. Landis, chairman of the aerial navigation commission for the state of Illinois, declared in an address that the present laws do not successfully meet the problems of improper airports, lack of standardized airport regulations, laxity in controlling ground crowds, low flying over villages, and airports located in landing areas of each other.

"Those portions of the problems not now covered by federal control are important segments of the total activity and productive of probably a larger part of the accidents per mile flown than the interstate traffic now under federal authority," Maj. Landis asserted.

"Uniform regulation is the only chance to avoid a mess of conflicting and differing regulations which now characterize rules for auto traffic. A pilot from one state should be able to obey air regulations in another state without carrying a law library in his plane."

Sidestep Rate Control.

Maj. Landis, speaking on behalf of Gov. L. S. Emmerson of Illinois and the Chicago Association of Commerce, invited the delegates to a national conference on air control to be held in Chicago in conjunction with the national air races next September.

The conference sidestepped action on the question of rate control because of pending legislation before congress providing for the transfer of rate regulations to the interstate commerce commission. The delegates, however, expressed disapproval of immediate action on rates, pointing out that most air lines now are operating without profit. Tomorrow the parley will draw up final resolutions which the delegates will recommend to the various state legislatures for adoption.

Gov. Kohler, who was unable to attend the conference because of illness, sent a message stressing the importance of new air laws to foster safety in flying.

SEIZED ON ROBBERY CHARGE.

Thomas Cook, 28 years old, 3550 Franklin boulevard, was arrested by Warren avenue police yesterday on a robbery charge preferred by Mrs. Mary Adrian, keeper of a rooming house at 2155 Warren boulevard, and on three charges of extortion.

BRANDON TRIAL FRAUD CHARGES ARE DISMISSED

New York, Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The scarlet triangle case shed several of its appendages today and became a single track breach of promise suit. It was getting too complicated for all concerned. Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon, the assistant corporation counsel who triangled and told, will have to confine her claim on George J. Gillespie's check book, to her simple allegation that he could or would not remember wedding dates.

With the elimination of Mrs. Brandon's charges of fraud in accounting, libel and slander, Mr. Gillespie's testimony when he takes the stand on Wednesday will deal with a clear cut issue—that of matrimony.

It was immediately after Mortimer Hays, attorney for Mrs. Brandon, this afternoon announced he had completed his case, that the shearing process began. Theodore Kiendle, counsel for Mr. Gillespie, began to make motions—customary legal motions—asking for dismissal on the ground that no cause of action had been established.

The idea appeared to appeal to Judge Valente who expressed the opinion that there were too many different issues being tried. Mr. Hays was told to select one count in the suit and stand on it.

After considerable bickering Mr. Hays selected the breach of promise charge and Judge Valente ruled that the case would continue as a breach of promise suit.

SHOT TO DEATH BY PROWLER.

Collins Williamson, 45 year old Negro of 5000 Champlain avenue, was shot and instantly killed early yesterday by a Negro prowler who was rummaging in Williamson's room when he awakened.

Does Your Automobile Insurance Policy Say What YOU Think it Does?

Most motorists believe that if their car should be burned or stolen, their insurance company will pay them the amount stated in the policy. The fact is, however, that the amount named in the policy is a valuation used to determine the cost of the insurance, the rate for fire and theft insurance being a certain price per hundred dollars of valuation.

The policy says that in the event of a total loss you will receive an amount not to exceed the actual loss sustained, the settlement to be agreed upon by you and the adjuster for the insurance company. If you fail to agree, the claim will be arbitrated. This is the usual policy, which is known in the insurance world as the "non valued" form.

Then there is the "valued form" policy. Under the terms of this policy you are paid the face value of the policy, the amount on which you have paid premium, should you suffer a total loss.

The Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club issues a VALUED FORM POLICY.

This policy also covers loss of spare tires and accessories, without additional charge.

Still another feature of the insurance service offered to the members of the Chicago Motor Club is that which has to do with the settlement of claims. The experienced motorist, having satisfied himself that the organization with which he intends to place his insurance is financially sound and that the policy is right, turns his attention to the kind of service he may hope to obtain when he presents a claim. The success of the "exchange" is owing, in great part, to the investigation of motorists who have, by inquiries among friends, discovered that this department of the club renders a prompt and satisfactory service.

Subscribers who have claims deal directly with the home office. There is no delay in waiting for authorization for payment of a claim. Red tape forms no part of the organization. It is not necessary for the motorist insured with the "exchange" to wait for the decision of a "higher up" in a far distant city. Home office service makes speedy settlements.

The insurance service was adopted for the purpose of protecting Chicago Motor Club members.

During 1929 the Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club sold automobile insurance amounting to $3,894,706.04, which is more than any other company, stock, mutual or reciprocal, writes in Illinois. During the year the "exchange" returned cash savings to subscribers amounting to $711,332.11. This service, as well as other services rendered, is available only to members of the club.

Other services of the club are: Free mechanical first aid and towing service at any hour of the day or night; home district service, which attends to special conditions around your home, such as seeing to it that refuse is promptly removed; accident prevention work, which seeks to cut accidents, especially among school children, by means of safety posters and by fostering schoolboy patrols; travel service, which provides you with maps, logs and the most complete and up to the minute advice on road conditions; and bail bond service, which guarantees your appearance in traffic violation cases, where a bond not in excess of one hundred dollars is demanded. These are some of the special benefits which you enjoy as a member. There is a branch in your neighborhood. Write or call for further information.

American Industry and Its *Torque Curve

America is awake. It is intelligently readjusting itself to a sounder sense of values. The past few months have illustrated our national ability "to overcome the resistance imposed by loads at varying speeds." We have proven the inherent stability of our structure. Each major industry, analyzed, indicates the future as an era of remarkably profitable prosperity. The next five years will open vast new markets that herald even greater expansion than we have known. This world-wide program of progress shall be reared upon the same basic fundamental which has distinguished motors produced by Continental for so many years — Precision Built. The "torque curve" of American commerce and industry may be as accurately charted as the torque of a motor.

* The Torque Curve indicates a motor's ability to overcome the resistance imposed by loads at varying speeds

The aviation industry has embarked upon a deliberate and constructive program of education. Air transport planes now fly almost 90,000 miles per day and these scheduled operations constitute less than fifteen percent of the total mileage flown in the United States. The engine is paramount. Continental has entered the aeronautical field with the unalterable purpose of building the best aircraft engines in the world. Continental is producing Practical Aircraft Power.

Agriculture is a basic industry. It well deserves the governmental impetus and the capital investment it is now receiving. As an industry, it is primarily concerned with the reduction of the cost of cultivation per acre. New tools are essential. Flexible gasoline power in the fields is as necessary as capital co-operation behind the effort.

Construction commitments for this year—and the next—and the next—are colossal. They demand improved machinery. Dependable, flexible power is the keynote of this entire program . . . and Continental right now is working with over 200 makers of agricultural and industrial machinery in the application of gasoline power to their products.

Commercial transportation interests are consolidating their efforts on a new business basis. Giant corporations are bringing an ever increasing efficiency to passenger travel by bus or taxi. One great corporation, operating throughout America, is now placing an order for 18,000 additional trucking units. They will bear the name of a number of different manufacturers . . . but all will be equipped with motors built by Continental. Standardization of power plant is a general trend among fleet operators. The translating of this sound principle into fact is simplified because Continental today is furnishing the power for 69% of the makes of trucks produced in America.

For a quarter of a century the power requirements of passenger cars varied little from year to year. Then came the high-compression engine. A multitude of new engineering problems were born overnight. Manufacturers turned to Continental, drew upon its unequalled experience, its tremendous physical resources, its laboratories and test rooms. Continental's identity is concealed beneath the hood. Its value is evidenced in the superior performance of the many makes of fine motor cars powered by its product. Fine tools, fine workmen and fine standards—plus experience that has developed an almost sixth sense in engineering ability—have created in Continental a force that must be a vital element in today's economic picture.

The past few years have seen America take to the water with a tremendous rush. The first natural result is the more rapid development of marine power plants. New standards of efficiency and economy have been created. Now comes the second great step—production and specialization. As in the motor car field, Continental has assumed an acknowledged leadership on the water. It is particularly significant of the new importance of marine travel that many craft have turned to Continental.

Continental's facilities represent the pivotal source of the power that is essential to almost every major division of American industry. Even greater than its physical equipment is its experience—greater than that of any other organization in developing Dependable Power for Every Purpose. The future shall see Continental sponsor many major developments in power, meeting the new requirements of every industry.

GABBY HARTNETT GIVES ARM FIRST TEST OF SEASON

Choo! Choo!

THE second section of the Cubs squad will roll westward today at 1:35 o'clock.

Arrival of Lester Bell yesterday from his home in Harrisburg, Pa., completed the personnel of the getaway party. Riggs Stephenson, Kiki Cuyler, Hack Wilson, Danny Taylor, and Herman Jones have been here since Sunday. Woody English and Charlie Tolson preceded them.

Rogers Hornsby and Charley Root will be picked up at Kansas City.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 24.—For the first time in almost exactly a year to the day, Gabby Hartnett's famous throwing arm swung into action this afternoon. With all the power and accuracy that one time gave him a rating as the peer of backstops, he whipped four balls down to second base.

The ease with which he did it convinced camp followers that when the Cubs line up April 15 for their maiden effort in the flag campaign the effervescent Gabby will be among those in action.

Warneke Struck by Bat.

Gabby's attempt to prove he is coming back was one of the outstanding developments of the day's two hour drill. Another was the first casualty of the season. Warneke, the young duplicate of Howard Ehmke, was hit on the forehead by a bat while the pitchers were enjoying a batting workout.

Other items included mound appearances by Root, Malone, and Carlson, all of whom threw to alleged hitters as if they had been in training for a couple weeks instead of three days.

Hartnett's exhibition of throwing wasn't his own idea. He intended to wait a few more days before doing anything more strenuous than tossing the ball back to the pitchers. It was Manager McCarthy who changed the backstop's plans. McCarthy figured that by injecting the element of surprise into the problem he'd catch the backstop off his guard.

Gabby was behind the plate catching Carlson when McCarthy, standing in the first base coaching box, said, "I'll find out whether he can throw."

McCarthy grabbed a glove and ran out to second base. Then he called to Gabby to throw a couple in that direction.

The Boss Fumbles.

The experiment had something of a dramatic touch. The instant the manager ordered Gabby to show what he is worth everybody except Carlson quit work to watch the effort. It is a good bet that most of the boys were thinking what Gabby's arm meant to the prospects of getting in on some more world series money.

There also was a humorous touch to the proceedings involving Gabby. His first throw was perfect, but it wasn't caught that way. McCarthy didn't expect to have the ball come burning toward him like a meteor. He judged its speed and it whacked him on the right wrist. The second was just as deceptive. It smashed him on the left wrist.

After these two throws Gabby zeroed even harder. The first two gave him confidence. The second two zoomed past McCarthy just as if he wasn't there, but nevertheless he was passed. If Gabby couldn't throw McCarthy wanted to know it. As a matter of fact the manager always thought Hartnett's ailment was more imaginary than real.

No Soreness Follows.

The real promising feature of Gabby's heaves today was that later there was no soreness in the shoulder.

The accident to Werneke occurred when McAfee, the former University of Michigan hurler, was swinging a bat at the plate. Just as the collegian was swinging Werneke walked along one side of the batting cage and the ball slipped from the batter's hands. It sailed flat but solidly against Werneke's forehead and the 20 year old boy from Mount Ida, Ark., curled up on the ground.

He was hustled into one of William Wrigley's red upholstered autos and taken to the hospital. Three stitches were required to bring the edges of the wound together.

SHARPING WITH SHARPERS.

MELBOURNE BEACH, Fla., Feb. 24.—Friend Don: Well, Don, here I am in sunny Florida and I certainly had an interesting experience on the way down. Some card sharpers got me into a game on the train. It was the first time I ever was in a game that I felt sure was crooked.

It happened the second night out when I was sitting in the club car reading Katharine Brush's "Young Man of Manhattan," that colorful newspaper story, when a young chap I had not noticed aboard before asked if I would make a fourth hand at bridge. I demurred, explaining that I played an indifferent game, but he said that was just what they needed, as he also played poorly and each of the other players would take one of us poor players.

So he told me and one chap to go up ahead while he got "Doc." So we went to a vacant compartment and he came back with another chap whom he introduced as "Davis," explaining that Doc had gone to bed—although it was only 8:30. They were from Kansas City, Grand Rapids, and Miami, respectively, and I was from Chicago.

When we started to cut for deal, Davis apologized for being hard of hearing. He had thought the game was to be pitch and he didn't play bridge. Then rummy, fan tan, hearts, and several other games were suggested, but always some one didn't play them. It began to look a little suspicious.

Finally the originator of the contest suggested "Down the River." I professed ignorance, although that's what we play in our deuces wild sessions at home. They dealt a couple of trial hands without stakes, which I won, but I was so slow in learning, stud poker was suggested.

Well, Don, I thought if the game was honest I could hold my own and if it wasn't they'd let me win at first as a come-on and then try to take my roll on one big hand. So we each started with 12 matches representing $3. I suggested a limit, but the bird who didn't understand bridge said, "O, let's make it the size of the pot, that's the way we play at home."

Well, I won the first two pots on pairs back to back, but this non-bridge bird was forcing all the time, getting the pots up in value and putting in currency besides his first matches. On the next pot, I again had queens back to back and the forcer's best possible pair was tens until the last card. I don't know whether they made a miscue or not, but anyway he had a pair showing after the fifth card. I called his raise, as it was still their money, and he had two pair against my queens.

On the next hand, I had aces back to back. The non-bridger, on my left, who was doing most of the playing had a king showing. I just chipped all the way and he didn't force as much as usual until all five cards were dealt. Then he raised $8 and I raised him $10, and he called. That was what they wanted—to increase the size of bets and to learn if I had any bankroll. I was about $40 winner and they began talking about my "luck."

Then I said I wasn't accustomed to games where $40 was the size of the pot and that we better play a round and quit. The bird who started the game said it was too fast for him, etc. So we agreed to play once around.

So came the final hand where the sucker was to be trimmed. I was next to dealer and received aces back to back. On my left was a six spot showing. The next player had a three of diamonds showing. Dealer had a nine spot. I bet a check—a quarter—next player raised $1 and next $2, dealer dropped out. I saw the $3.

My next card was 8-spot, next player jack, and next five of diamonds. I bet a check, next player raised $4, and next player, with his best possible a pair of fives, raised $8. Dealer nudged me to raise. Instead, I showed him my aces back to back, dropped out, and remarked, "That's what I think of my hand." You should have seen his look of disgust. They raised once more and then with the victim out, dropped their hands. I watched the third bird as he threw his hand into the deck and he had a deuce of diamonds buried. Of course, after spirited betting, had I remained in, he would have ended with a straight flush against perhaps three aces, or a full house in my hand.

Well, the game was over and I had

WHATEVER ELSE, MIAMI BOUT IS SHORT ON CASH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 24.—From all outward indications, including the doleful demeanor of the management and the almost total absence of traffic around the box offices, I take it that the battle of the itching palms of Thursday evening is to be a financial failure, or, at best, a standoff.

The present situation may be described as the revolt of the customers, for there are more customers along this coast just now than there have been at any other time since the boom, and their sales resistance holds fast against just one luxury of the many which are offered for their entertainment on all sides, to wit, tickets for the garden corporation's program of prize fights, presenting Jack Sharkey and Fainting Philip Scott in the main mazurka.

The customers have been buying everything from straw hats to aeroplanes with old familiar enthusiasm of the Florida east coast winter customer who is the most enthusiastic spender on earth and disinclined to quibble over rates and prices even though the dollar be hammered down to the value of the franc.

Fighting Wrong Man, It Seems.

But, with the prize fight now just three days off the total sales of prize fight tickets, including reservations not yet redeemed with cash, amounts to no more than $150,000, give or take $10,000, and I hear quite solvent idlers from the north and west remarking that they will be elsewhere on the night in question because Sharkey is fighting the wrong man, the right party, of course, being Max Schmeling, the German, instead of Fainting Philip.

Mr. Will Carey, president of the Garden corporation, fled the scene today, returning to New York to catch a ship for South America, where he has more promising business to attend to, leaving Frank January Bruen, general manager of the firm, and also of the Miami horse track, to rally the corps of high salaried press agents through the remaining days of the venture and count the receipts at the end.

Mr. Bruen is polite and patient, but he and Mr. Carey both doubtless realize by this time that they have tried to sell the patrons a trivial and depressing match for the regulation price of a heavyweight championship, while saving their more interesting performers for summer shows in the Polo Grounds or the Yankee Stadium in New York.

Appeals by Apology.

Fainting Philip's entire appeal for trade has been in the nature of an apology for the disheartening exhibitions with which he rewarded the patrons on his previous appearances in New York. He was forced upon the Garden corporation by the New York prize fight commission in payment of a political obligation to Philip's manager and eagerly accepted by the Sharkey party, all of whom anticipate a brief and not at all unpleasant affray and a knockout for their chap within, say, five rounds, wherein, of course, they may be disappointed, because Sharkey himself has not been a thoroughbred in the ring.

The promoters really had no match which they wished to waste on the Florida trade. It is their business plan, subject to any necessary revisions, of course, to produce a fight between Sharkey and Schmeling at the Polo Grounds, in the summer, which they will represent to be a heavyweight championship affair, and another one later on between Primo Carnera, the Italian monstrosity, and Victorio Campoli of the Argentine.

Secret Punch Fails to Interest.

As a final qualifying match for Sharkey, the logical nominee would have been Tuffy Griffith of Chicago, but Sharkey was a little dubious about Griffith and so were the promoters who probably thought the young man from the middle west presented too great a threat to their most valued employé. I doubt that even Mr. Bruen, who has long experience in the sport business and well knows the great capacity of the customers for betrayal and punishment, would have had the effrontery to select Fainting Philip as one of the star performers in a major presentation this winter, but when the New York prize fight commissioners arbitrarily named him, the Garden cor-

Springfield vs. Rockford May Be Fight Setting

SOMETIMES, perhaps tonight, the fans of Rockford and Springfield hope to see or hear of a Golden Glove battle between Tommy Chilero, featherweight of the Springfield team, and Joe Romano of the Rockford team, as the supporters of each can't see how their pet can lose.

Chilero is a smiling little Italian, a handsome lad with polished black hair and dark eye. Chilero is a trim, clean cut lad who is a buzz saw in the ring. They call him the Cyclone down in Springfield, and if he doesn't carry the 126 pound title back home, the politicians in the state house and every other boxing fan in central Illinois will be disappointed.

Nor has Romano any less hearty support, and both boxers are the kind a crowd likes to see; the sort who stand up and let go with everything.

First Golfer Was Scotch Shepherd, This Theory Says

Shepherds in Scotland originated the game of golf 500 years ago, E. F. Chester of the Chester-Pollard Amusement company said yesterday in an address at the annual convention of the Coin Machine Operators' association of America at the Hotel Sherman.

"Although it has been claimed that the game began in Holland in 1732, it seems that it made its first appearance in Scotland five centuries ago. The shepherds, tending flocks, were in the habit of knocking stones with a stick at other shepherds whose flocks were beginning to intermingle with the first group.

"From this means of warning another shepherd of the trespassing of his flock grew the game of golf. Gradually the practice became a sport, the objective being to hit small objects with the stone," Mr. Chester said.

Here's a Lad with a Grin and a Punch

BY HARLAND ROHM.

"Whenever I get married, I'm going to give my wife a golden glove instead of a diamond ring."

That sentence is a direct quotation from Sammy Fisher, Rockford machinist, known around Sammy Mandell's home town as the "Rockford Flash."

Sammy, who fights in the flyweight clas, 112 pounds, grinned when he said it in a room at the Bismarck hotel yesterday afternoon, but that's nothing unusual. Sammy is usually grinning beneath a shock of parted in the middle hair, even when he's stabbing a slugger and flicking swings aside with his gloves.

Trains with Mandell.

Nor is that reference to the lightweight champion far fetched, for Sammy is little less than a protégé of Mandell. He trains in Mandell's gym at Rockford, and Mandell, needing speedy sparring partners, picked Fisher from the crowd of amateur boxers as a training partner. Fisher has picked up a lot of the skill that made Mandell one of the outstanding boxers of the present generation of pugilists.

It took more than a casual conversation to draw that expression of confidence from Fisher. It took the kidding of the other three members of the lighter divisions of Rockford's team, when this reporter asked if any of the team were married, to bring such a statement.

Old Timer Helps.

Sammy Fisher hopes to follow the trail blazed by Sammy Mandell. The wages of a machinist, assembling milling machines in Rockford, pales when compared to the fortune Sammy Mandell has won in the ring. He started to box only three years ago.

Another machinist at the shop of the Ingersoll Milling Maching company in Rockford was a worn out professional who still loved the game of gloved hands and resined soles.

During their noon hour, after the lunches from tin pails had been eaten, the old timer liked to put on the gloves again for the entertainment and approbation of his co-workers. Sammy Fisher tried it and, though crude, showed an amazing speed of foot and hand.

From these impromptu noontide bouts, Fisher moved to Mandell's gym and within a month fought his first bout in a regular ring. He lost, it was four rounds, and one of the nicest and most promising things about this youngster is that he doesn't pretend to be a world beater.

He admits he's been beaten and is willing to tell you the names of the boys who have been better than he. Only the gym manager will tell you no one of his weight has been better than he for a long, long time.

Carnegie Professor Raps Overemphasis on Winning

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Dr. Howard J. Savage, staff member of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, in addressing the National Federation of State High School Athletic associations here today declared that most of the good in sports was being sacrified by over emphasis on a winning team. He recommended a series of regional games as a suitable substitute for state championships and said they should be looked upon as part of the school education.

Early Arrivals

THE vanguard of the sectional Golden Gloves battlers to reach Chicago included the teams representing the Rockford Republic, Springfield State Register, Vincennes Sun, Davenport Times, Lafayette Journal and Courier, and the Kokomo Dispatch.

The chin sharpshooters from every other nook and corner of the central states will arrive this morning, many by train, some by motor bus and others in automobiles. By noon today all the 100 or more gladiators will be on hand ready to step on the scales at the Coliseum and later their trip into the ring.

CENTRAL STATES' BEST BEGIN FOUR DAY JOUST FOR TITLES

Goes to Gym to Join Track Team; Takes Up Boxing

Arne Asp was born in Sweden twenty years ago. His parents came to America seven years ago, and Arne's entry into boxing was a queer tale, as any one can tell.

With a friend, Asp went to the Swedish - American gymnasium in Rockford, with the ambition to make the track team. He wasn't sure whether he wanted to run the 100 yard dash or the mile, but as he and his friend played around the gymnasium they found an old set of boxing gloves. No sooner seen than done, they put on the gloves and in a couple of rounds track was forgotten. Arne, a tall, slender lad, wanted to see how good he really was in competition with the best of his weight, so he entered the Golden Gloves preliminary at Rockford. And here he is now, ready to match socks and parries with the best Chicago or any other city has to offer.

Joe Romano, a draftsman in the Ingersoll Milling Machine company at Rockford, saw a few boxing matches and decided he'd like to try it himself. Fast, a good boxer, with a punch, Rockford fans expect him to go far.

Eddie Gordon's grandparents came from Mexico. Eddie didn't know a thing about boxing a year ago when he was working at the Oakbrook Polo club, exercising polo ponies. An exgob, who had done some boxing in the navy, came to the club and asked for someone to put on the gloves with him. Gordon obliged and there was born the spark which has carried him into the Golden Gloves. Eddie has left the horses, and now earns his living mixing milk shakes in a drug store in Rockford, but don't call him a drug store cowboy unless you're pretty "handy with the dukes" yourself.

BY DON MAXWELL.

Four stout hearted, light hearted little fellows will climb gingerly through the ropes of two big rings at the Coliseum tonight at 7 o'clock.

A pair to a ring, they will go to their corners, grin at their seconds, shuffle their feet in the fresh resin.

In one ring a gong will be struck; in the other a timekeeper will blow an old fashioned auto horn. Four pairs of fists start flying, four heads bobbing. Thousands of onlookers cheering.

The third annual Tribune Golden Gloves tournament will be on.

First of Four Nights.

For four nights, in hundreds of bouts, 208 boys, the gamest, cleverest young replicas of Mandell and Fields and Dempsey that five states can produce, will give and take on the trail that leads to victory.

Two hundred and eight boys, every one an amateur, none looking for pay, will give the greatest boxing show the fight fan ever has seen. Out of the ranks of the 208 will come eight champions. These, with the eight runners up in the various classes, will represent Chicago March 19 in the annual intercity Golden Gloves tournament with the New York News team.

In token of their victories the eight champs and eight near champs will receive miniature Golden Gloves, pretty emblems of success.

Those sixteen stout fellas won't need to wear those Golden Gloves as evidence of their championship class. Their names will be bywords among the folks who know boxing. By Friday night more than 30,000 will have watched the young knights battle. Only one other meet, that of the Daily News in New York, in magnitude compares to this TRIBUNE tournament.

Boys from Everywhere.

This year because of the presence of 100 boys, out of homes of 59 villages, towns and cities, the Golden Gloves tournament has a boxing appeal which beggars rivalry anywhere. Thousands who cannot attend the bouts at the Coliseum will be tuned in on W-G-N nightly to learn how their heroes fare.

Already smaller tournaments, modeled after the one opening tonight, have been held in nineteen boxing centers. Three of them were conducted in Chicago with a total attendance of more than 12,000 spectators. The others were held in the following cities:

Springfield, Ill.	Gary, Ind.
Jackson, Mich.	Kokomo, Ind.
Peoria, Ill.	Benton Harbor, Mich.
South Bend, Ind.	Oshkosh, Wis.
Lafayette, Ind.	Davenport, Ia.
Fort Wayne, Ind.	Rockford, Ill.
Streator, Ill.	Danville, Ill.
Vincennes, Ind.	Kewanee, Ill.
Michigan City, Ind.

Sectionals Drew 30,000.

These meets drew more than 30,000 enthusiastic fans. All of the newspapers under whose auspices they were held report tremendous interest in the tourneys. Some of the towns and cities are sending delegations of rooters to the Coliseum. All of them are waiting eagerly for the Chicago results.

This is the third Golden Gloves tournament held by THE TRIBUNE. Each year the interest among Chicago boys has grown. This year Walter Eckersall, in charge of the promotion, received more than 700 entries. The newspapers in the seventeen sectional meets report a total entry of 900. Sixteen hundred boys boxing—boxing for the fun of it. Isn't that sport?

All of the profits of the Golden Gloves tournament are given to the Forty and Eight, a veterans' organization. In turn the Forty and Eight conducts a splendidly managed convalescent camp for former soldiers at Orland Park, Ill. Last year the profits were $25,000. This year, with tickets for the four nights now almost half sold, the amount for soldier relief should top last year's.

Tonight's Legion Night.

Tonight will be American Legion night at the Coliseum. A drum and bugle corps will entertain before the boxing starts. Tomorrow night is army night, to be marked by the attendance of a Fort Sheridan party; and on Thursday evening the Great Lakes Naval Training station will be represented.

Most of the boxing shows start at 8 o'clock. The Golden Gloves tournament begins tonight at 7 p. m. If you arrive at 7:30 you will have missed half a dozen good bouts—maybe the best of the night.

Every Boxer Should Read These Plans

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

First semi-final rounds in the 112, 118, 126, and 135 pound classes will be held in the Golden Gloves tournament tonight. The contestants may box twice, but all winners must report back to the Coliseum Thursday night for the grand semi-finals. First semi-final rounds in the 147, 160, 175, and heavyweight classes will be decided tomorrow night and all winners will report for the grand semi-final rounds Thursday.

Boxers in the heavier classes do not report tonight.

Contestants in tonight's bouts must report at the Coliseum before 6 o'clock to be weighed and examined. Officials and physicians will be on hand at 5 o'clock to take care of the early arrivals. The same procedure will be followed tomorrow night. Every boxer must present his A. A. U. registration card when weighed.

Boxer Given One Second.

To avoid confusion in the corners, each fighter will be entitled to only one second. Professional seconds will be on hand to furnish first aid and physicians will be at the ringside. Every fighter must furnish his own towel and cup.

Fighters will be given instructions by the referees before they enter the rings. This will save time and enable the officials to run off the bouts with clocklike precision. Losers will be automatically eliminated, and no fighter will be permitted to compete in his class if he is one pound or more overweight.

The duration of each round will be three minutes with one minute intermissions. If the judges and referee fail to make a decision at the end of three rounds, an extra session will be ordered. There are no draws in amateur boxing.

Good Show Each Night.

Boxing fans have learned they will see just as interesting fighting tonight as on the final night. As no efforts will be made to keep boxers from the same club meeting each other, the best fighters in the tourney may clash in the first rounds.

The 208 boys eligible for this week's tourney know the offensive and defensive angles of boxing. There will be knockouts and knockdowns, but there will be no pulling of punches. Every boy will make an honest effort to win and the losers will go down fighting.

The Coliseum is being dressed up for the occasion. Charles Hall, president of the Coliseum company, is leaving nothing undone to have the building ready for large crowds on each of the four nights. The two rings were erected yesterday, and all seats will be placed in proper sections by noon today. Ushers have been instructed to see that every patron gets the seat his ticket calls for.

Important!

Officials and physicians are requested to report at the Coliseum at 5 o'clock. Boxers will report at this hour to be weighed and examined. The drawings will be held at 6:30 o'clock, when judges and referees are expected to report.

WHATEVER ELSE, MIAMI BOUT IS SHORT ON CASH

Spenders Pass Up Chance to See Phil Faint.

But now that the night of the show draws nigh, it is quite apparent that the customers' forgiving disposition has been overtried and that even the naive mystery of Philip's secret punch has failed to soften their resentment, the secret punch having been invented and quite used up as an advertising device by Georges Carpentier, anyway.

The thrift of prize fighters and managers who appear as guests upon these spendthrift shores long ago ceased to amaze them, but the Scott party has been guilty of one stroke of frugality which, I believe establishes a new record for parsimony in those who come to the U. S. A. wearing celluloid collars and imitation shirt fronts and go home rich beyond their most fantastic dreams. Fainting Philip, after this fight, will have collected about $125,000 in this country, most of it for exhibitions for which a native gladiator would be relegated to semi-windups in the suburbs, but last evening his English manager, Mr. Charlie Rose, at the conclusion of a party in a night club at which he somehow found himself in the awful plight of host, put up a rebellion at a bill for eleven dollars.

"What?" exploded the man whose fighter is quoted at $25 a glimpse from the ringside seats, "eleven dollars for three bottles of ginger ale? I shan't pay it. Tell the manager it's for Mr. Rose, the manager of Phil Scott, Robbery, I say."

Tunney Reaches Town.

James Joseph Tunney arrived in Miami today from another of his island retreats, this one in the Gulf of Mexico, attended by Mme. Tunney and certain of his in-laws, and retired to seclusion in the Roney Plaza hotel, a pretentious tavern on the beach, where, from his apartment windows he may view the Hotel Wofford, scene of his earlier sojourns here, and regale himself with certain reflections too obvious to need mention.

He asked that the press be not allowed to violate his privacy and I believe this has been accepted as a fair enough break by the press, although this request perversely recalls those days during the boom when he and Willie Stribling were to fight here.

The press allowed him too much privacy then and neither his social charm nor Stribling's local appeal to the southern customer availed to sell the bout which finally foundered leaving some few customers with $20 tickets among their souvenirs.

A superstitious promoter might see some ill omen in Mr. Tunney's presence at this limping promotion for it may be recalled that he was (the young man of the evening) in the last previous heavyweight spectacle in which the garden corporation took a loss, his farewell bout with Thomas Heeny the crushed rock of New Zealand. A dinner for him is now in progress at which the press is represented by just a few respectful believers, including, I am told, the audacious Englishman who piped up "He's a jolly good fellow" at Tunney's farewell luncheon in New York that time and had to sing it through alone.

SMITTY—A TOUGH SPOT

WOTTLE I DO? I FOUND OUT THAT MR. CONDÉ HAS BEEN CHANGING THE BOOKS AND WHEN I WANT TO TELL ON HIM, HE SAYS I'LL LOSE MY JOB
IF I SAY ONE WORD HE'S GONNA FIRE ME - BUT I OUGHTA TELL MY OLD BOSS JUST THE SAME
GEE, I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO DO - I DON'T WANT TO LOSE MY JOB AND IF I DON'T TELL ON THIS GUY HE WILL MAKE MR. BAILEY LOSE HIS BUSINESS
WOTTLE I DO? WOTTLE I DO?

FLORIDA QUINTET GETS FIRST BID TO MAROON MEET

Robert E. Lee High school, of Jacksonville, Fla., was given the first invitation to compete in the University of Chicago's national basketball interscholastic on April 1 to 5, by Manager H. O. Crisler yesterday afternoon.

Carr Creek, Ky., sensation of the tournament two years ago, is going along in great style, according to reports reaching Crisler.

Sand Fiddler Wins His First Race; Pays 3-1

Miami, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Sand Fiddler, a three-year old gelding from the Mulrick stable, finally found a field he could beat as he accounted for the thoroughbred record purse at Hialeah Park, today.

The son of Dunlin had been knocking at the door since the fall of 1929, when he made his debut as a juvenile, but until today his best efforts always found him no better than in second at the finish.

With Jockey Leoshman up, Sand Fiddler exhibited his usual early speed and then hung on through the stretch of the mile journey to defeat W. J. Salmon's Battleship by a length. R. H. Davis Jr's. Politen ran the best race after being slow to get away from the barrier, but finished third. The winner covered eight furlongs in 1:40 and paid 3 to 1.

BLUEBILLS FIND STRANGE PALS ON FLORIDA BEACH

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charlotte Harbor, Fla., Feb. 24.—In the spring and fall, Lake Michigan is host to one species of waterfowl which rafts on the lake in countless thousands. This is the bluebill or lesser scaup. We may see this species twice a year in large numbers, but in the winter Florida has the bluebills everywhere.

The bluebill is by far the most abundant duck in this state. We may see enormous flocks of them in the rivers and bays along the coast. Today a northeast wind has brought thousands together here on the bay, and they are doing a lot of plain and fancy diving for food.

While fishing on the Peace river near here you see more flocks of bluebills. Farther along the Tamiami trail these birds sit in the canals and ditches as you buzz along in a car. They have become quite tame because no one molests them.

At low tide the bluebill picks up some strange playmates. Yesterday we watched a small flock grubbing around on a white sand beach in company with a bunch of least sandpipers. The two species made an odd combination.

The bluebill is a fair sized bird, running about 16 inches in length. It catches the eye because of its black and white markings. The least sandpiper is the smallest of our sandpipers. It is about six inches long, with a slender body. This trim little skooter is so quick and active that it can run rings around a bird like the bluebill, and when we watched them hunting for a meal in the sand the tiny sandpipers darting here and there looked something like mosquitoes in comparison to the husky bluebills.

The 5¢ CIGAR with the 50% finer tobacco because steel fingers . . . not human fingers . . . make it from tip to tip!

Swift as a magician's fingers . . . gentle as a mother's arms . . . giant electric machines fondle the long-leaf tobacco for your ROCKY FORD. Cut it, roll it, shape it. Wrap it in imported Sumatra leaf as brown as ripe pecans. Amazing levers shift and flit. Metal fingers pluck and ply. In seven seconds many leaves of rich tobacco are whisked into a perfect ROCKY FORD.

Your ROCKY FORD rolls from these patented machines as clean and sanitary as a loaf of baker's bread. Standards of purity reach new tops . . . standards of cost hit new bottoms. The saving goes to you . . . in the 5¢ price of ROCKY FORD . . . in the 10¢ quality of its mild, smooth, mellow, 2-year-aged tobaccos. Not a shred of scrap. Not a reproachful puff from tip to tip.

BUCKNER FINDS NEW SOX CAMP BUNION-PROOF

Springy Foundation Easy on Players' Feet.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—The White Sox like their new training camp right well. The first worked at Van Daele stadium pleased every one, mostly because there is molders' sand on the infield and, whether you care or not, molders' sand is easy on the ball players' feet. It seems odd that molders' sand would be easier on the dogs than plain sand or clay, but Dr. William Buckner, Sox trainer and master chiropodist, announced that his work would be cut down 40 per cent now that his charges are practicing on a black, springy infield, made so by molders' sand.

It's O. K. With Doc.

"There's nothing that I can do better than carve a mean corn or sooth a raging bunion," said Dr. Buckner, "but I am willing to forego my professional interest in foot clinics for the good of the team.

"No matter how well I trim a corn or a callous the ball player is still foot conscious. That's the reason I'm so happy about the new camp. The Sox will not be foot minded from now on. If there are a few flatfooted ball players on the Sox, that is another matter. Flatfooted ball players are that way from childhood and the best grade of molders' sand on the market won't make them any other way.

"But, personally, I haven't seen any flatfooted Sox since Mr. Bush has been around. That man hasn't been giving 'em any time to settle down."

Next to the belated installation of the Sox in a training camp of their own, Johnny Riddle drew the bulk of interest from the Comiskey entourage.

Johnny Looks Good.

Riddle, the young catcher obtained from Indianapolis for Catcher Buck Crouse, Outfielder Clarence Hoffman [a $13,000 person a year ago], and a bag of gold, was a week late, having been detained in Columbus, Ga., by the death of a brother.

If Johnny is as good as he looks on the first glance and as good as Manager Bush says he is, he'll catch more than 100 games for the Sox in 1930.

The young man reported in tiptop physical shape and weighs 185 without any fat whatsoever. Like the majority of Comiskey employés, Johnny is a bachelor.

Attended Georgia U.

He attended the University of Georgia in 1926 and 1927. In his freshman year he played football and baseball in addition to catching, but he was kept off the varsity in his second year because of some semipro playing engagements which were brought to the attention of University of Georgia authorities.

Upon his arrival here Riddle was assigned to be Moe Berg's roomie and he is the boy he'll have to beat out if he is to be Bush's first string catcher.

Things have been going along so far here that no one has had time to reflect much on the possibilities of Babe coming in with the second squad next Saturday.

If O. Arthur but knew what a slight rookie his Fort Worth ultimatum of last Friday caused hereabouts it is not improbable that he would grab the $11,000 contract he says he has been offered.

Harvard Track Team Wins 6th Straight Meet

Boston, Mass., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Harvard's track team ran wild against the Dartmouth and Cornell forces here tonight to win its sixth consecutive indoor triangular meet with a total of 63½ points. Cornell had 30 points and Dartmouth 22½.

Eddie Farrell's Crimson team, aided by several speedy sophomore performers, won 9 of the 12 events and tied for first in the pole vault. Sutermeister of Harvard and Collyer of Cornell tied at 13 feet 2¾ inches for a new record.

Three other meet records fell. The Harvard relay team ran the mile in 3 minutes 27 1-5 seconds, clipping almost two seconds off the mark made last year.

Capt. Tommy Mason of Harvard broke the record for the 300 yard event, which was run against time, when he circled the track twice in 33 1-5 seconds.

The other new record, that for the 16 pounds shot put, was turned in by Lawrence Levy of Cornell, who tossed the iron ball 47 feet 8⅛ inches.

FARMER LODGE KNOCKED OUT BY PRIMO CARNERA

New Orleans, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, gigantic Italian, pushed Farmer Lodge, ponderous Minnesotan, like a child about the ring, and then knocked him out in the second round of their fight here tonight.

Carnera knocked Lodge down for a short count in the first round, and in the second floored him for a count of seven. After his second collapse, Lodge was hardly on his feet before he hit the mat again for the limit.

The Italian entered the ring at 275 pounds and his opponent at 235.

$20 of their currency and about $10 in matches. I was seated next to the window, so I couldn't slide out. Previously I had pushed the button for the waiter, pretending I wanted water, and he had not answered. Originator of the game suggested that as we were not giving the chap who didn't know how to play bridge a chance to get even, we all give the money back and tossed him back the money paid for the original matches.

I thought quickly and decided it wasn't worth a fight for $20, with one against three, so said, "No, but I'll cut high card for $40 or nothing. That will be just the same, won't it?" and looked him squarely in the eye. Originator of the game shuffled. One of the others cut, and then the deck was passed to me. I noted just where they had broken the cards for me to cut, and cut there, drawing a 4-spot. Davis cut in the next notch and drew an ace. I tossed him the $20, we were all even, and the sucker had escaped.

By the time I located the conductor to point them out, I couldn't find them and they were not in the diner the next morning at breakfast. Interesting, wasn't it. Moral—It's immoral to play cards with strangers on trains. Regards to all the gang. Write again soon. Harvey T. Woodruff.

Badger Five Beats Illini Again, 23-17

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Clinging to a lead gained early in the game, Wisconsin defeated Illinois, 23 to 17, here tonight in a game that started slowly but developed into a struggle in the closing minutes. Wisconsin led at half time, 11 to 2.

Illinois did not score a field goal until seven minutes after the start of the second half. Wisconsin's retreating defense was impregnable and the Illini could not connect with the basket from long range. Chmielewski, the Badger's all conference guard, was the leading scorer of the game with nine points.

Illinois concentrated its defense on stopping Capt. Foster, who led conference scorers for the first half of the race and although May held him scoreless from the field, Chmielewski dribbled through the Illinois defense to score from under the basket. Lineup:

Boxing fans are not losing sight of the Freddie Fitzgerald-Young Jack Thompson bout at the Stadium Saturday night even though Sammy Mandell and Jimmy McLarnin are the "big shots" of the show.

Fitzgerald, Ohio's latest contribution to the fistic ranks, has had a meteoric rise. His first outstanding opponent was Young Harry Wills, whom he flattened in seven rounds. Then he was matched with Thompson, and Fitzgerald won the decision.

Harrison Prep Heavies Win West Crown

Harrison Tech heavyweights won the west section championship of the City league yesterday by defeating McKinley, 41 to 17, on the former's floor in a game which had been postponed earlier in the season. Harrison set a league mark for a half time advantage by leading at the end of the first two periods, 32 to 5. All of the regulars joined in the scoring, Walt Osty's 18 points leading the attack. He dropped in five baskets and connected on eight of nine free throws. Wheeler and Lehman featured for the losers.

Harrison's victory gave it a sectional record of eight won and two lost. Crane and Marshall, tied for second place with seven victories and three defeats, will meet today for the right to join Harrison in representing the west section in the city semi-finals. Marshall, champion, and Harrison, runner-up, will carry the section's lightweight hopes against the central teams, Wendell Phillips and Englewood.

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING SLOW; PRICES LOWER

Raytheon Tube Shares Drop 3 5-8 Points.

BY THOMAS JURLONG.

Trading slowed up, prices fluctuated narrowly and closed moderately lower in a tedious session on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Volume of sales in market leaders, notably Grigsby and Middle West Utilities, fell off sharply. The day's transactions amounted to only 171,000 shares.

Weakness was not confined to any group and the close found losses well distributed throughout the list. The prevailing tone in the wheat market, together with the character of the trade news, provided a poor footing for the market. The new advances that were made came as the result of particular developments which had no effect on the market as a whole.

Sticks to Weak Side.

General Theater Equipment stuck out on the weak side with a loss of 2¼. Raytheon Tube fell 3⅝ to 16¼. Marshall Field, Grigsby and Middle West Utilities eased some, but their reverses were well within the fraction class.

Construction Materials and Kalamazoo Stove garnered fair gains, and Merchants and Manufacturers A rose over a point to close at 25½. Auburn Automobile, after dropping to 215 in early trading, retrieved all of its loss and finished the day with a point to its credit.

Vote Stock Increase.

Inland Utilities improved a fraction to 25¾ and Central Public Service issues showed slight recessions.

Directors of the Central Public Service corporation yesterday voted to increase the capitalization of the company from 1,000,000 shares of $6 and $7 cumulative no par preferred stock to 1,500,000 shares, class A no par participating stock from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 shares, and common from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 shares. Practically all the common stock of the corporation is owned by the Central Public Service company.

Lima Locomotive Works.

C. T. R.: Lima Locomotive Works, Inc., experienced a fairly good year in 1929, reporting net income of $561,606, which was equal to $2.38 per share earned on 211,057 no par common shares outstanding.

In 1928, which was a bad year for locomotive builders, the company reported a net operating loss of $111,605. After paying $422,114 in dividends in 1928 there was a deficit for that year of $533,719.

Although the company's business improved during 1929, the plant was operated much below capacity. Late in 1929 and early in 1930 there was an encouraging increase in the number of locomotives ordered by the railroads, and the company was able to begin the current year with a good amount of business on its books.

The consolidated balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, showed current assets of $8,107,080 and current liabilities of $548,550, which left a net working capital of $7,558,530. This compares with $6,711,462 at the close of 1928. Surplus was $2,882,558 on Dec. 31, 1929, against $2,381,052 a year before.

Dividends have been omitted since the second quarterly payment of $1 in 1928, the management having decided not to appropriate money from surplus to pay dividends which were not being currently earned.

Although the company's financial position is strong and its outlook better than for some time, the stock is speculative at present.

Republic of Cuba Public Works.

G. W. P.: Republic of Cuba Public Works sinking fund 5½ per cent bonds, dated Jan. 1, 1930, and due June 30, 1945, are direct obligations of the republic and are specifically secured by a first preferential lien and charge on 90 per cent of the revenues collected from certain taxes.

The public works law of 1925 outlined a comprehensive program of national improvements of great economic importance to Cuba. A substantial part of this program has already been carried out and these bonds have been issued for the purpose of refunding or paying indebtedness of the republic incurred for work completed.

A sinking fund, sufficient to retire the bonds by maturity, is provided for.

Punta Alegre Sugar.

J. F. D.: Larger output and higher sucrose content of cane enabled Punta Alegre Sugar company to finish the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1929, with a net income of $40,269. This was equal to 4 cents per share earned on 381,537 shares [par $50]. In the preceding year the company reported a loss of $508,890. Operating cost in the latest fiscal year was the lowest in the company's history.

As of September 30, 1929, current assets were $12,197,396 and current liabilities were $6,025,343. This left a net working capital of $6,172,053, which compares with $6,279,062 a year before.

No dividends have been reported since May 15, 1925.

The stock is a speculation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Cotton goods were weaker following a further break in speculative cotton prices. Milder weather has developed an active demand for wool coats and more trading for immediate delivery is reported in spring suitings and topcoatings for immediate cutting. EDISON HOLDERS INCREASE STOCK TO $200,000,000

Plan Big Sum for Expansion Here.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Prospects of another "melon" to stockholders of the Commonwealth Edison company were held out at the annual meeting yesterday, but at the same time President Insull denied that there will be any splitup of the capital stock in the near future.

The stockholders increased the authorized capital stock from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000. There now is nearly $150,000,000 outstanding. Mr. Insull announced that the company will spend $25,000,000 this year on new plant and equipment, which led to questions that rights to purchase additional stock will be given to stockholders later in the year. It has been the custom to offer new stock at par value or $100 a share.

In response to questions regarding rumors of a stock splitup Mr. Insull said no such action probably will be taken during his lifetime, but, in any event, a five for one exchange would be more probable than reports of a two for one division.

Becomes Chairman Today.

At a meeting of the Commonwealth Edison directors today Mr. Insull will be elevated to chairman, and Edward Doyle will be promoted from vice president to president. Samuel Insull, jr. will be elected vice chairman. At the stockholders' meeting yesterday Mr. Doyle, L. A. Ferguson, J. F. Wright and John H. Gulick were elected additional directors.

While presiding over the meeting Mr. Insull traced the growth of the company in the last thirty-eight years since he has been connected with it. "Our business for the last year has been eminently successful," he said. "We have upwards of 950,000 customers and it will be only a short time until we reach the million mark. With the exception of 1926 we had the largest annual increase in gross operating revenue in the history of the company.

"Today's meeting marks an occasion for me. I came with a predecessor of this institution in 1892. It had somewhere around $1,000,000 invested in a central station business. It had been $50,000 and $400,000 a year gross income. That business has grown so that now it has a gross income of upwards of $83,000,000."

Earlier in the day Mr. Insull presided at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois. He announced that the company now has 472,938 customers, that more than $40,000,000 was spent on new construction last year, and that about $30,000,000 will be expended this year. Mr. Insull was reelected chairman and other officers and directors were reelected.

Earnings Reports.

Quarterly earnings reports came out several public utilities and at least one oil company yesterday. The Columbia Gas and Electric company, which serves 1,066 communities with 283,000 customers in several eastern states, reported net income of $32,161,139 for 1929, equivalent after preferred dividends to $3.11 a share on the common stock. Net income for 1928 was $29,155,584, or $2.79 a share, figured on a comparable basis. The common stock was spit on a 2½-for-one basis last year, a 25 per cent stock dividend was declared and additional stock was sold to stockholders. There will be 11,683,753 common shares outstanding on March 31, when the stock dividend is paid. Total assets are listed at $671,234,967.

The Phillips Petroleum company doubled its net earnings last year in spite of adverse conditions in the oil industry. This was largely due to the fact that its net production of natural gasoline was 219,774,567 gallons, compared with 187,589,046 in 1928. Gross production of crude oil was 15,696,732 gallons, compared with 14,668,881 in 1928. Net income was $13,212,591, equivalent to $5.39 a share on the average stock outstanding, compared with $5,960,171, or $2.48 a share, in 1928.

J.P.MORGAN & CO. SAYS LIQUIDATION OF BANK GROUP IS COMPLETED

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—J. P. Morgan & Co., announced tonight that the liquidation of stocks bought by the powerful banking group to support the market during the October-November collapse had been completed last week.

The selling operations, a spokesman for the bankers said, had been "practically over for two or three weeks." It was added that the group "came out about even" on its transactions, which involved the employment of a huge fund the total of which was never made public. The amount has been estimated at several hundred million dollars.

Liquidation of the holdings, it was learned, began as early as last November, or as soon as the market situation had cleared. None of the securities purchased for the stabilization of prices at the time of the crisis have been retained for permanent investment.

VAN SWERINGEN HOLDING CO. NET IS $4,700,060

New York, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Chesapeake corporation, holding company for several railroads controlled by the Van Sweringen interests, reports net profits for 1929 of $4,700,060, equal to $2.61 a share on 1,799,745 shares, compared with $3,755,751, or $4.17 a share on 900,000 shares outstanding at the end of 1928.

Earnings of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway for the first three months should compare favorably with those of the corresponding period last year, J. J. Bernet, president, said today. The outlook for the year as a whole is fair, he added, although "it is too early to attempt to gauge definitely the prospects for traffic."

WHEAT DIVES 8 CENTS; LOWEST IN 16 YEARS

Board Pays 10-16c Over Market.

BY PAUL POTTER.

An avalanche of selling, coupled with absence of foreign demand, sent North American wheat prices cellarward yesterday, with declines of 4 to 8 cents a bushel for the day. Closing prices in Chicago for this time of the year were the lowest in 16 years. May prices at the close were 29 cents lower than on Jan. 1.

Dollar-a-bushel wheat, regarded for years as a measure of farm bargains, became an actuality in Kansas City and Duluth, and sales within three cents of that figure took place in Chicago. Meanwhile movement of this golden grain to market, for prices that have been declining steadily since the first of the year, found two terminals, Omaha and Hutchinson, jammed to capacity. No more terminal storage space in either point could be secured by agents of the federal stabilization corporation, it was said.

Grains at New Lows.

All deliveries of wheat, corn, oats, and rye went to new low levels yesterday, and many other foodstuffs, principally eggs and butter, suffered losses in sympathy with the grain crash. Cotton prices also moved lower.

While speculators, millers and flour buyers were counting up losses that run into the millions, the federal farm board's funds were continuing to insure farmers in co-operatives of prices set last October, now ten to sixteen cents a bushel higher than the same grades in open markets. The Chicago operator of the Farmers National Grain corporation bought 25,000 bushels. At Kansas City the corporation purchased 150,000 bushels. Many cars more were bought in the northwest.

At Omaha, however, the federally controlled stabilization corporation, which has been buying in limited amounts since its creation two weeks ago, was forced to stop buying yesterday for lack of storage space.

Foreign Buying Lacking.

Foreign buying, which caused a sharp halt last Friday in the cheapening wheat supplies in the United States by taking about 5,000,000 bushels, was said to be almost entirely lacking here yesterday. The same situation prevailed in Winnipeg, where the Canadian wheat pool, said to have about $150,000,000 tied up in its grain holdings, issued a statement that as yet its margins had not been entered, and that banks were carrying its loans without resorting to governmental aid of the western provinces, previously pledged.

Behind the enormous losses of more than $100,000,000 in the American wheat market alone is said to be a steadily increasing supply of breadstuffs throughout the world. The United States carried over 245,000,000 bushels at the end of 1928-'9 crop, the largest on record and nearly half of the entire world wheat carry-over.

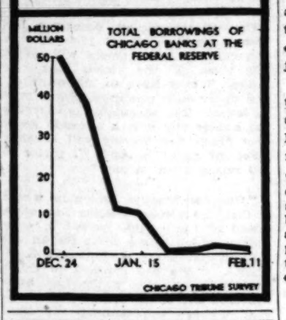
CHICAGO BANKS NOW OWE THE FEDERAL RESERVE ONLY TWO MILLION DOLLARS



B. & O. ADVISES IT WILL WITHDRAW ITS APPLICATION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio railway today advised the interstate commerce commission that it would withdraw its application for control of an eastern trunk line system, in view of the consolidation plan of the commission.

Charles D. Mahaffie, finance director of the commission, wrote the Baltimore and Ohio, the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, the Wabash railway, and the Delaware and Hudson company several weeks ago suggesting that their plans for unification be withdrawn, but the Baltimore and Ohio is the first road to assent to this program.

Dept. of Justice Plans Test of Big Oil Merger

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The legality of the proposed billion and a half dollar merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company will be tested in the courts by the department of justice before it is completed.

The department announced today that judicial proceedings would be inaugurated within ten days in St. Louis courts to test the validity of the merger. This action will be taken because attorneys of the government disagree with the contention of counsel for the corporations that there can be no question of the legality of the action. After studying the plans department officials said they felt that they should be passed upon by the court.

Claim No Violation.

Counsel for the companies, in submitting their plans to the government, argued that the proposed merger did not violate any of the sections of the Sherman anti-trust law and did not conflict with the decree of 1912 dissolving the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, of which the two corporations were subsidiaries.

The corporations had been informed of the intention of the government to file action in equity to test the validity of their proposal.

Will Delay Consolidation.

Under the plans of the corporations the Standard would change its name to the General Petroleum corporation. This corporation would have all the assets of the Standard Oil Company of New York and would acquire the assets of the Vacuum Oil company through exchange of three shares of capital stock of the General Petroleum corporation for one share of Vacuum.

The Standard Oil of New York, in announcing the merger plan last week, told its stockholders that the department of justice believed the question involved should be decided by the courts and said that pending this the final merger would be delayed.

U. S. Loses Priority Claims Against Bankrupt Road

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The United States failed in the Supreme court today in its effort to obtain priority over other creditors of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad in the settlement of its claim for approximately $3,000,000. The federal court in Minnesota placed the property in receivership in 1923, and a decree of foreclosure and sale was entered about a year ago. The Guaranty Trust company of New York and other creditors had urged the importance of expediting the sale of the property and the lifting of the receivership. One of the obstacles causing delay arose out of the claims of the government.

COCA COLA CO. BOOSTS RATE TO $6 ON COMMON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—Directors of the Coca Cola company announced today a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, against $1 previously, on the 1,000,000 shares of common stock, increasing the rate to $6 annually. The new rate will result in an increased distribution of $2,000,000 annually on the common stock, it was pointed out in the announcement. The dividend is payable April 1 to owners of record March 12.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, Feb. 24.—Wheat and Washington and tight money combined to mess up the cards for the stock market today.

Wheat alone might have turned the trick, with March futures breaking more than 6 cents a bushel and the stock jobbing community shaky over all this talk of a "prosperity slump" and "necessitous readjustment" of share prices, but the gods had evidently decided to make a day of it.

So up went the call rate to 4½ per cent, with purse strings contracting all down the line. Cotton prices also dropped and along came the news from Washington of a threat of higher tax rates unless congressional appropriations are kept well in hand.

It was too much. Prices took the downward grade and drifted lower and lower. United States Steel went to 179½, a loss of 3⅛ points. Amer[illegible]

Canada also carried over considerable quantities, which accounts for the delay of the pools there in closing out final payments for the previous crop.

Foreign Sales Cut.

No appreciable sales to foreign countries have been made by either North American country because of favorable harvesting conditions in small European countries, undersselling by Russia, Argentina and Australia, and hand-to-mouth buying by European customers. In addition to bumper crops in the small European countries, high import duties were levied by some countries, and strict milling regulations also tended to cut down the amounts of western hemisphere purchasing.

Out in the country the farmer was getting even less for his wagon or truck deliveries of wheat. At Wichita, Kas., elevators cut the price of wheat ten cents, and the top price paid there was 86 cents for such country run deliveries. Week end and holiday accumulations of wheat were 406 cars at Kansas City and 409 cars at Hutchinson, said to be on its way to Kansas City because of storage tieups.

Get Mill Storage Leases.

Unofficial reports indicated that some additional terminal storage space had been secured by the coöperative buyers from millers, with the provision that leases expire in June when the first of the new crop is due to arrive.

A report from Great Falls, Mont., states that this grain state is to be placed in a position to utilize the federal farm board's marketing machinery, and funds at an early date, under leadership of Senator W. F. Cowman, Hill county, and others of the executive committee of the Montana Grain Growers' association. The steps to be taken include organization of a farmers' coöperative elevator association, organization of regional associations of growers to coöperate with the national sales agency of the farm board, and organization of storage or terminal elevator companies for construction and operation of agencies to handle Montana's high protein wheat.

Close with Slight Rally.

Chicago wheat prices closed with a slight rally, with March $1.03⅝ to $1.03⅞ and May $1.05¼ to $1.05⅝. Winnipeg broke 6⅛ to 6⅞ from the finish of Friday, and closed 5⅝ to 6 cents lower, while Liverpool was 2⅝ to 2¾d lower. Buenos Aires showed pronounced resistance to pressure and was off only ⅝ to 1 cent from Friday, while Rosario last 1 to 1¼ cents.

As the federal farm board noted declining wheat values yesterday, Chairman Alexander Legge of the board issued a statement in Washington saying the drop in prices "is of small consequence to the farmer with wheat to sell and who belongs to a coöperative association affiliated with the Farmers' National Grain corporation."

"Protecting Coöperative Members."

"We are protecting the farmer coöperative member who has wheat to sell, and have been doing so every day since early fall," he said. "Our loan advance amount in Chicago is $1.16 a bushel. Any farmer with wheat to sell who joins a coöperative as the agricultural marketing act requires, can get this amount for his wheat and has been able to get it every day since we announced the establishment of the amount. It makes no difference to such farmer whether the market price has gone down to $1.13 or $1.15. He is not affected in the least. We have effectively established the price for him, and he can get these prices for his wheat any time he brings it in."

Asked how long the board would continue thus to stabilize the price, he answered "Indefinitely." It is understood, however, that the present schedule of government prices is effective until the new crop year opens, probably July 1.

Saved Farmers "Large Sums."

Mr. Legge added that the farm board has, "without doubt, saved large sums of money" for farmers in the coöperatives and that, had it not acted, the general market price would have fallen even more than it has.

"There has been quite a hullabaloo over the market price of wheat," he commented, "but the fact is that to the farmer who has coöperated with the federal farm board, joined his wheat coöperative, and marketed his grain through the coöperative association, it has not made a penny of difference what the market price is. He has not been affected by the fluctuations. The farmers and others outside the coöperative setup are the ones who are affected by the low market price of wheat, the coöperative farmers are not."

Eggs Drop 7½ Cents.

Warm weather, bringing sudden arrivals of large stocks of eggs, brought good news to consumers of eggs yesterday, with prices down as much as 7½ cents from Friday's close. Closely selected eggs were quoted at 30 cents a dozen. Closing quotations ranged to 12 cents below those of a week ago in New York.

Cotton markets saw new low quotations for the season also, with March New York prices selling off to $14.95 and May to $15.25, or 34@35 cents lower than the previous closing. Butter prices were also fractionally lower.

CORN AT NEW LOW

While corn showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure early, the continued decline in wheat finally resulted in general liquidation developing which uncovered stop loss orders and prices broke 3⅜@4⅛c from Friday's finish to a new low on the crop. Short covering and buying against bids caused an upturn of over 1c from the inside figures, with the close at 2⅝@3c lower, March being 83c at the last and May, 85⅜@86c.

The trade is now inclined to look for smaller receipts owing to country roads having broken up, and interior stocks are said to be light. An increase of 2,138,000 bushels in the visible supply made the total 21,067,000 bushels, against 32,488,000 busheles llast year.

All deliveries of oats dropped to a new low for the season and closed ⅞@1¼c lower, with commission house longs persistent sellers on the way down. March finished at 40⅜c, and May at 42⅜@42½c. Weakness in other grain was the main influence. Seeding is under way in Kansas and Oklahoma.

A fairly large trade was under way in rye, and while the March was regarded as hard to buy at times there was persistent selling of May by houses with eastern connections. Spreading between rye and corn furnished part of the business.

RECEIVER OF THE K. C. JOINT STOCK LAND BANK ISSUES REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 24.—H. M. Langworthy, receiver of the Kansas City Joint Stock Land bank, made public today preceding Wednesday's hearing in Washington on reorganization plans the accounting for operations of the bank under its stewardship, covering the period of thirty-two months from May 4, 1927, to Dec. 31, 1929. Total income reported by the receiver for the period was $6,479,818, of which $2,523,765 represented income during 1929. During the 32 months the excess of income over expenses amounted to $3,424,667, of which $1,690,392 represents the proportion for the twelve months of 1929.

This income, however, was before interest accruals on farm loan bonds issued by the bank and outstanding. This interest accrued totaled $5,783,245 as of Dec. 31, last, and of that amount $2,210,792 accrued during 1929. Every effort, says the receiver, has been made to keep down receivership expenses.

The receiver states that largely because of sundry and various litigation involving claims it is impossible to state when a distribution of the bank's liquid assets may be made. It recites that as of Dec. 31, bondholders had filed claims of a face amount of $42,466,300, and that there were other claims aggregating $1,300,000 which were in process of investigation.

As to reorganization, Mr. Langworthy reiterates a previous statement that "while it appears that losses will be sustained by the bondholders as well as by stockholders, it is my opinion that this bank has sufficiently sound assets to justify a reorganization provided a plan can be devised which is sound and will fairly protect the interests of all concerned. The bank is located in a good loaning territory; the good loans which the bank now has on its books have a very substantial value, and under proper management a new bank organized on a sound basis should be successful."

HOG PRODUCTS DECLINE

Scattered liquidation by holders of lard and bellies, due to a break of 10@25c in hogs, with large receipts, combined with the demoralization in grains and poor buying support, carried prices down. The close was at the bottom, with lard 22½@27½c and bellies 20@22½c lower than Friday's close.

The position of the lard market is said to be healthy, with a good consumption and moderate prices. Liverpool lard was 3@6d lower and American cut hams 1s lower. Exports of lard from the seaboard for the past week were 16,766,000 lbs against 12,740,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 6,915,000 lbs against 2,833,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

March wheat in Chicago was within 3c of the dollar level yesterday, and May wheat in Kansas City sold at $1, and durum in Duluth dropped to 95⅝c, with a rally of ¾c from the inside. There has for years been a feeling in the trade that wheat has always been worth $1, and in most years when that price was reached it developed new investment buying. This was the case last June, when prices were carried up over 50c a bu inside of 60 days. Whether it will do so at present with the world's conditions materially different from any other period, is regarded as doubtful by many close observers.

One of the closest observers has been a bear on wheat and says no one can tell what prices will do at this time. If the visible supply is hedged it may have to be liquidated, and under such conditions prices may go lower. The speculator is carrying the hedges and it is a question as to how much new buying will develop. "For my part," he said, "I prefer to sell rather than to buy."

"One constructive factor in wheat is that the present decline has come ahead of the normal period of crop scares, which leaves room for an upturn in March and April," says S. C. Harris. "We are inclined to think that most of the water has been squeezed out of the wheat prices and that we are approaching the time when we can get down to business and talk values without assuming any excessive risks."

SUPREME COURT WON'T REHEAR WABASH CASE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—The Supreme court today refused to reconsider its recent decision adverse to the contentions of preferred A stockholders of the Wabash railway in the matter of the distribution of back dividends.

John C. Barclay and other preferred A stockholders insisted that they were entitled to receive preferential dividends up to 5 per cent for 1915 to 1926, inclusive, to the extent such dividends were earned but not paid, before any dividends were paid on other stock.

The Supreme court held that when dividends are declared non-cumulative, as they were by the Wabash, and no net income could be applied to dividends during the years in question that the right to dividends for those years was gone.

The preferred A stockholders asserted this decision should be reconsidered because of the harmful effect it would have on the rights of non-cumulative stockholders generally.

Total operating income amounted to $13,641,000, compared with $15,147,617 in January, 1929, he said yesterday. "This loss, however, was offset to some extent by a reduction in operating expenses from $11,501,756 last year to $11,109,000, chiefly in transportation expenses.

Soo Line system reports January a net loss of $308,535 in January of last year.

TRADE COMMISSION BEGINS ITS PROBE OF UTILITY FINANCING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—An intricate system of control of electric utility operating companies through voting stock ownership and interlocking directorates was dealt with before the federal trade commission today at its first hearing into utility financing.

Economists who have been examining the financial structure of power companies virtually ever since the commission's investigation was ordered by the senate two years ago began presentation of an analysis of the affairs of the American Gas and Electric company, a management corporation which controls ten operating companies in nine states. All of the voting stock of these concerns, they testified, was held or controlled by the management corporation. In addition a majority of the directors and officers of each subsidiary was said to be composed of either employes or officers of the American company.

After testifying to the advantages accruing to the consumer of power and light from the consolidation and operation under one management of the many separate utilities, Judson C. Dickerman, the first trade commission economist called, said he had found many of the subsidiaries had "written up" their fixed capital accounts from their actual cost to a figure estimated to represent reproduction value.

Cattle receipts at Chicago today, 6,000 cattle, 33,000 hogs, and 13,000 sheep.

With the exception of top cattle, all classes of livestock were pounded to lower price levels on yesterday's unsatisfactory markets. Lambs dropped below the previous low spot of the season, the top at $11.70 going back eight years for a lower top. Most of last week's late advance in hogs was lost. Top cattle at $15.75 stood out alone for load lots since Jan. 30, while other kinds ruled weak to 25c lower.

Oversupply Lowers Hog Prices.

Saturday's supply of 52,000 hogs proved excessive and prices declined 25@35c soon after the opening, with most of late sales off 35@50c compared with the general selling at the close of last week. The extreme top declined to $11.50, while the general average showed a 25c cut at $10.75, being 30@35c above the lowest daily average in almost three weeks.

Broader demand continued good and 30,000 head went to shippers, but with packer interests in a bearish mood, the market weakened as the day progressed and 12,000 hogs were still in pens at the finish, the low point of the day. Larger packers were more selling buyers after the 35@50c lower prices had been established, the latter, Swift and Wilson houses taking a combined total of 8,000.

While buyers were more cautious than usual in making purchases yesterday when only 14,000 head arrived at the market, which was one of the lightest Monday totals in some time, during the top sale at $15.75, which was paid for 1,045 lb yearlings, ten-loads ruled weak to lower. Losses of 25@50c were cited in sales of medium grades.

Quality in general showed little improvement and no sales were made better than $14.75 and $15.75. Bulk of cattle sold at $11.00@13.75. Butcher cows sold slowly at last week's sharp decline. Calves were slow and weak to heavily lower. Stockers and feeders held steady, due to scarcity.

Lambs Sell Low.

In spite of the fact that sheep receipts are being held down at practically all points in an effort to stabilize the market, lambs slumped fully 25c from yesterday, selling at about the same prices as hogs. Only closely sorted lightweights brought $11.50@11.70, while bulk of the supply of 80@90 lb averages cleared at $10.50@11.25. Fat sheep were scarce, but shared in some of the reduction, while yearlings were quoted 25c lower in sympathy with the break in lambs. Feeding lambs met fair demand at slightly lower prices, the best available selling at $10.25.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 33,000 hogs and 13,000 sheep, against 7,873 cattle, 27,491 hogs and 17,501 sheep, the previous Tuesday, and 6,040 cattle, 38,433 hogs and 12,961 sheep, a year ago.

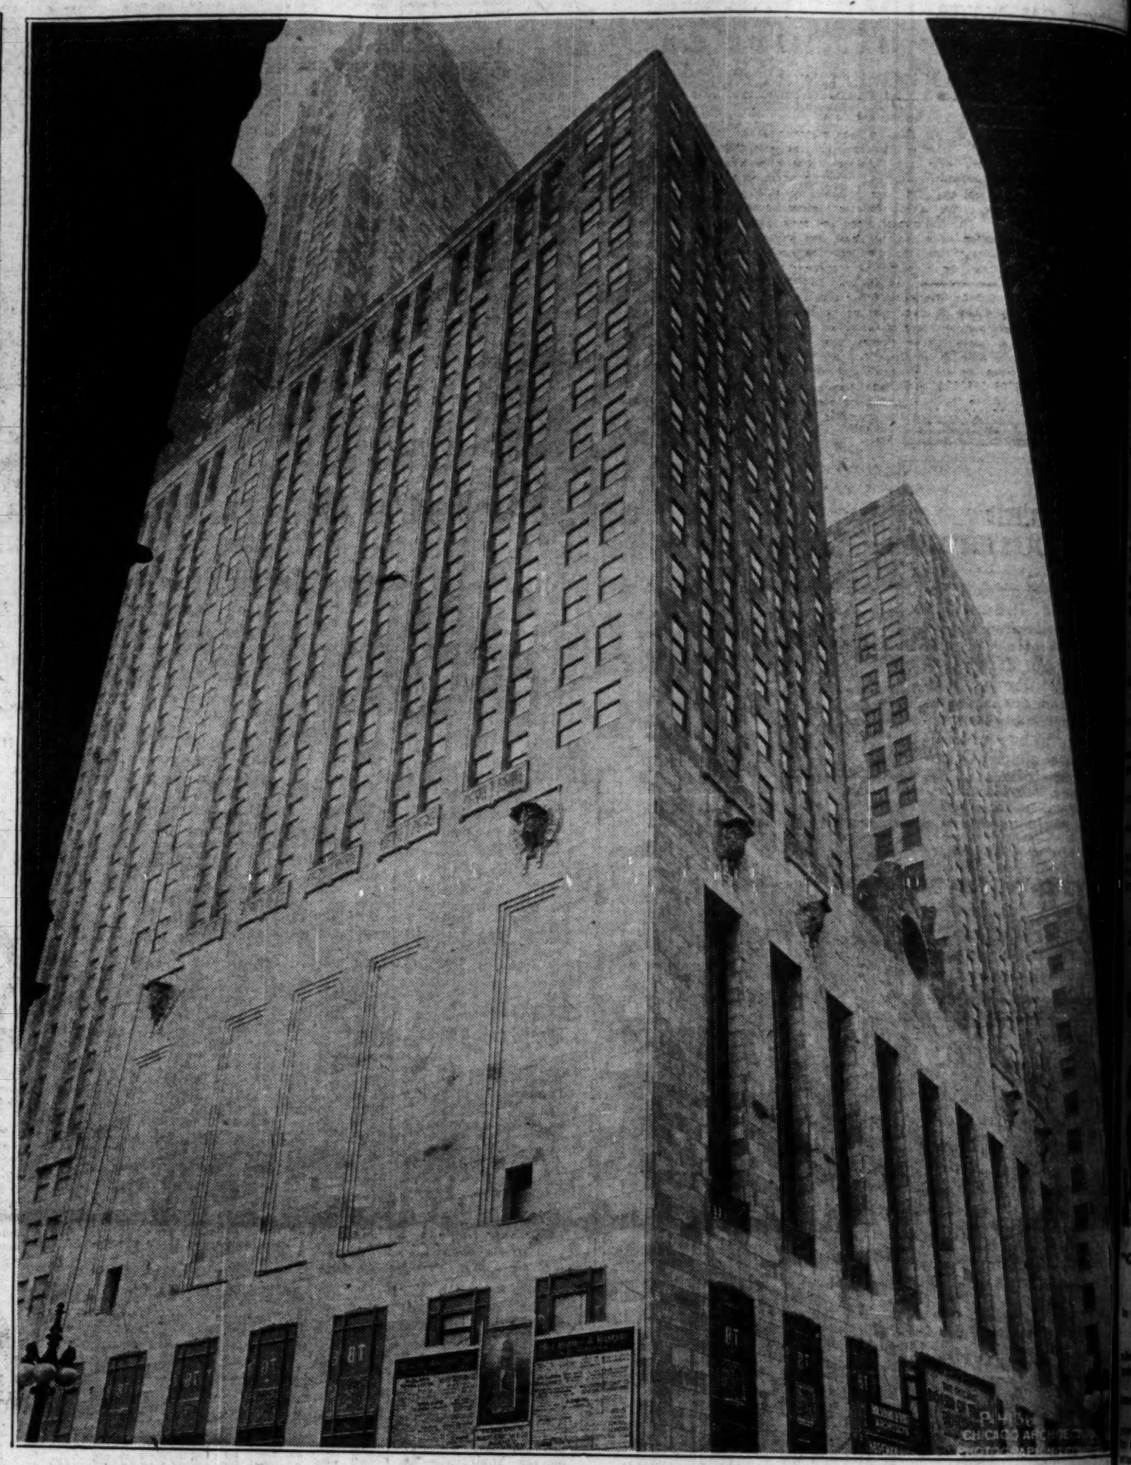
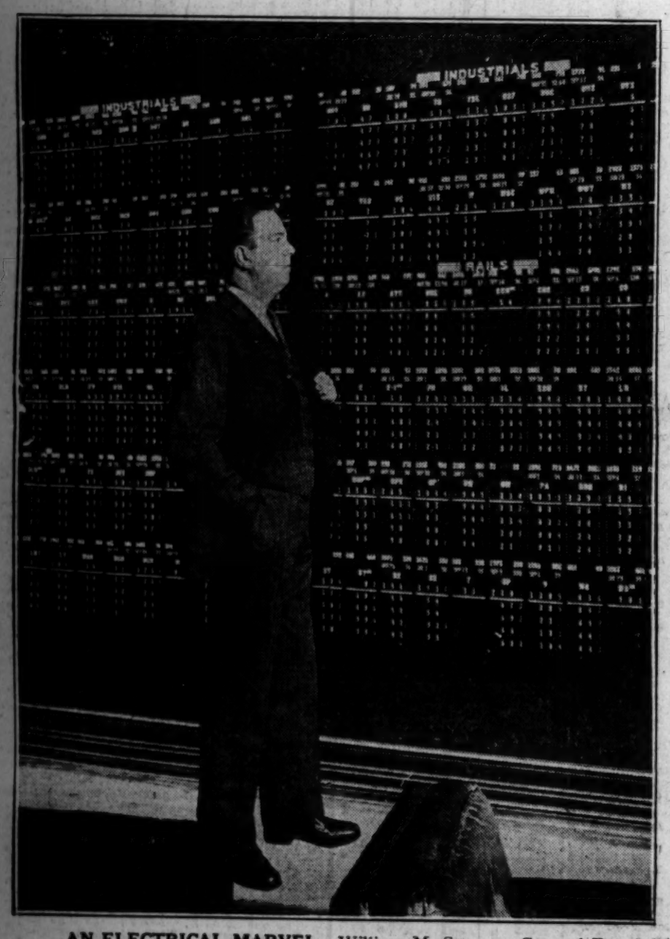
Notable Architectural, Engineering and Electrical Achievements Distinguish New Chicago Board of Trade Building

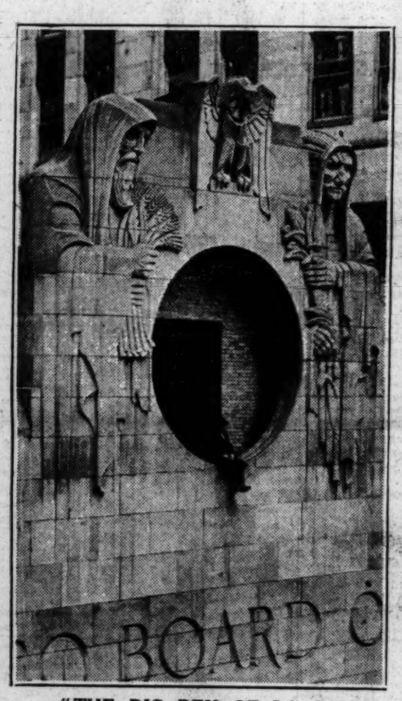
"THE CASHIER'S WINDOW OF EUROPE" is what financiers everywhere call the Bourse in Paris—the stock exchange of France. Trading hours are brief—12:30 to 2:30. Founded in 1304, it is the oldest of the world's four dominating commercial organizations—the other three being the Bank of England, the New York Stock Exchange—and our own Chicago Board of Trade.



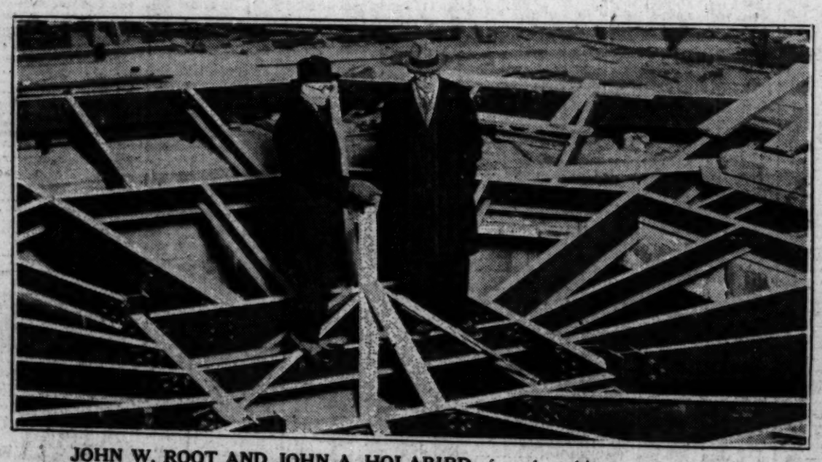
THE CAMERA'S EYE gives us a sky-piercing view of the new 44-story Board of Trade Building, now nearing completion at the "head" of La Salle Street at Jackson Boulevard. Bounded by three broad streets and a wide south passageway, all offices are assured of ample daylight. The blank wall space and the nine lofty windows above the third floor indicate the location of the Board's vast Trading Room. The sculptured animals still wear the wooden hats which protected them during building operations.



AN ELECTRICAL MARVEL. William M. Spencer, General Partner of Jackson Bros., Boesel & Co., members of all leading exchanges, inspects the teleregister, or automatic quotation board, which his firm is installing in its new offices in the Board of Trade Building.



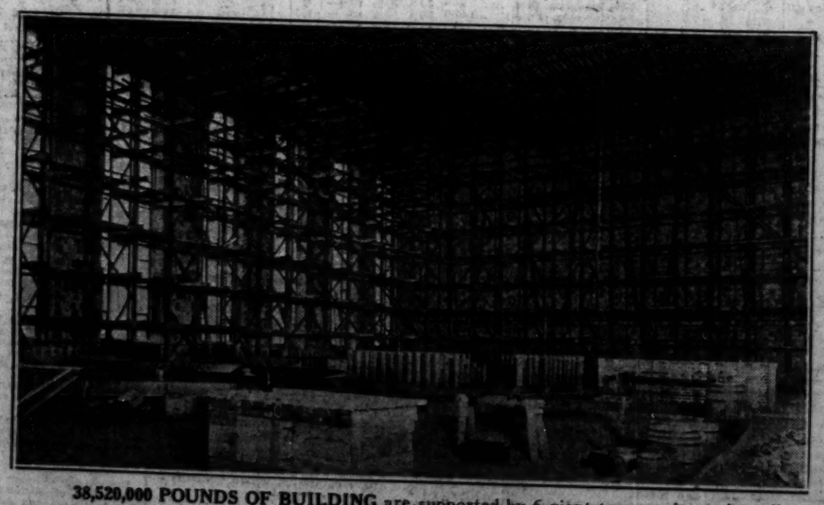
"THE BIG BEN OF LA SALLE STREET." Thirteen feet across its dial face, the huge new Board of Trade clock will time the financial pulse of Chicago.



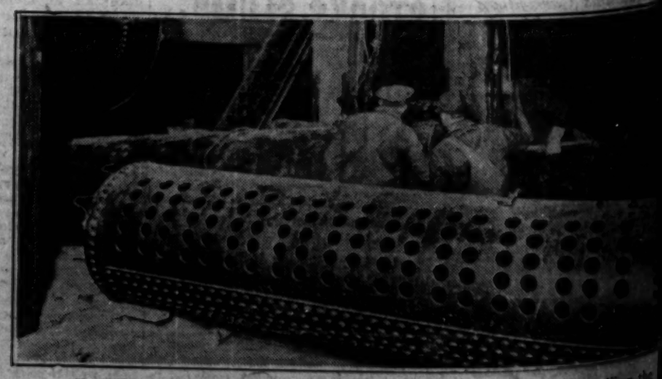
JOHN W. ROOT AND JOHN A. HOLABIRD, famed architects of the Board of Trade Building and many other notable structures, inspect the saucer-like steel shell which will support the swarm of traders around the new Wheat Pit.

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE of the Chicago Board of Trade inspects with pride one of the automatic safety doors to the building's battery of twenty-two high-speed elevators. Left to right are John A. Bunnell, Joseph P. Griffin, John C. Wood, Joseph Simons, and Henry A. Rumsey. Back in 1858 J. S. Rumsey, a cousin of Henry A.'s father, was president of the Board of Trade.

"UP THERE IN THE SUNLIGHT," says F. W. Pendexter, Resident Partner of Ernst & Ernst, largest firm of certified public accountants, to G. F. Brewer, Chicago Manager, as he points to the 20th floor of the Board of Trade Building where, May 1st, the new offices of this firm will be located.



38,520,000 POUNDS OF BUILDING are supported by 6 giant trusses above the ceiling of this pillarless Trading Room in the new Board of Trade! 113 feet wide, 163 feet long and 5 stories high, the creation of this huge unobstructed room beneath a great office building constitutes an outstanding engineering achievement.



FORTY FEET BELOW STREET LEVEL workmen are installing the heating plant, water pumps, air-cooling machinery for restaurant and the emergency or "stand-by" equipment which will insure tenants, say Albert H. Wetten & Co., renting and managing agents for the Board of Trade Building, the finest possible service at all times.

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and run off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged on Jim and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house where he finds Ellen Lawson in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house to get him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has killed her brother. Jim rides on into the town after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the attack on Ellen Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Doc Brown, who he claimed had attacked his wife. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim visits the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She explains she has come to speak to her brother Steve. Jim guides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe and others. As they reach the table the lights go out and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She had apparently traveled from Jim in the dark and some one had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested. Jim and his friends are determined to find the murderer in order to clear Jim.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

A MARKED MAN.

Jim looked at his huge friend, a quizzical smile on his face. "I've got a proposition to submit for consideration. If one man can go out of a window what's to prevent another man from going in?"

Pendleton frowned at him, puzzled at the question. "I don't get yore drift. What you mean, go in? Who wanted in?" Then, as he stared at Rutledge, the eyes of the cattle man came to life. "Great Jehoso-phat! You mean——"

"You're on a hot trail, Mr. Pendleton," Jim murmured. "Stay with it." Some one—that maybe some one slipped in by the window and killed Shear." Some one then slipped out by it again before the lights came. Why not?"

"Because some one else did it, Blackbeard must have known. He wouldn't have done otherwise," the doctor said.

"He knew," Jim replied. "That's sure."

"And if he wasn't a party to it, how did he know?" the cattle man asked. "I sure reckon he can see in the dark."

"Likely he did it himself or knows who did. All I'm suggesting is that other parties have to be considered, too. Were there a lot of these foot-prints in the mud, doctor?"

"Quite a few but the ones I made models of. The ground was hard except where water from the roof softened the soil."

"Your luck sure stood up fine," Jim cried. "You've done yore part, boys. Now if we don't solve this thing now we're woodenheads."

"We're widening the field, Jim, to show it might have been anybody in town did it," Pendleton said. He added, with obvious sarcasm: "Practically every man in town an' on the trail wears boots. All we got to do now is send 'em to send in their boots for inspection."

"Can we walk peaceable down the street without gettin' picked on?"

"That's all," the doctor agreed with a laugh.

"By jinks, you're a helluva detective, young fellow, my lad. All you do is say 'Don't you reckon this fellow did it?' and' then give us the laugh."

"We've got to look at the facts, Mr. Pendleton."

"Sure! You're lookin' at a-plenty. Maybe Doc Aubrey here did it. I'm the only fellow with an alibi. I claim I couldn't of got through that door."

"Glad we've got some one we know didn't do it," Jim grinned. "If we were about you. I'd like to take measurements first."

"Me, personally, Harrison Pendleton, by jinks, I don't take any stock in the notion that some one went in through the window. You've done proved to my satisfaction that a fellow dressed up as a pirate, probably Mart Brown, stuck that knife in Joe Shear. Quit when you've gone far enough, I say."

"Yet, Mr. Pendleton, you're the one who brought in evidence that some-body did go in through the window," Jim retorted, his eyes twinkling with mischief.

"I did not," exploded the big man. "I don't have any such fool idea. Mr. What evidence did I bring?"

"I don't recall how the Longhorn looks outside," Jim said. "Has it been whitewashed lately?"

"There goes yore mind hoppin' around again," Pendleton accused.

"As a matter of fact it was whitewashed early this spring," the doctor said.

Jim once more picked up the button and handed it to the cattleman. "Handle with care, Mr. Pendleton," he said. "This give you any informa-tion?"

"Sure. Some fellow lost a button."

"Sure?"

"You tell us how," the cattle man challenged.

"I'll do some more guessing. A fellow jumped up to get into an open window at the Longhorn. This button caught on the sharp edge of the sill and drew himself in. It was torn off. This white smudge on the cloth is where it scraped on the whitewash."

Pendleton stared at the young man, mouth open. "By golly," he said at last. "You've sure enough got a head on you, boy."

The doctor set his feet and shoulders. "More deductions, Jim. That may have been there weeks before the murder," he said.

"That's what we've got to find out. I can see a busy week ahead of me."

"What's your next move, boy?" the doctor asked.

"I aim to do a little burglary," Rutledge said gaily.

"Burglary." Pendleton stared at him.

He explained what he had in mind.

. . . . . .

He walked down Front street with eyes in the back of his head. They were about twenty feet behind him, and they belonged to Sim Hart and Barton, respectively. Rutledge knew he was a marked man. Word reached him by that underground railroad along which all rumors travel that Moss meant to destroy him. Just now the plan of his enemy was against him of the murder of Shear. This would be a two edged revenge. It would score off both him and his father; moreover, it would bruise the name of Chandler Rutledge beyond recovery. But Jim did not put overmuch faith in Dave's sly mulishness. It was quite possible that Sam Moss and Hart might become too impatient to await the consummation of the old man's scheme. It was certain that they would strike at once if they felt that an investigation would incriminate them. Therefore it was as well they knew that he did not go unguarded.

Sheriff Manders came out of a store and saw him. The Englishman stopped for a moment. "I saw Miss Lawson," he said. "She asked me to tell you to be careful, that your enemies meant harm to you."

Sim Hart and Barton moved closer. "Look who's here," Sim warned in a low voice.

Buck Roe and Pete Moss came down the street, their spurred boots jingling. "Didn't I tell you that cockeyed sheriff would throw in with him?" Roe was saying. Pete jeered. "I wonder if he's bought another knife yet. Maybe he'll try next, Buck."

Roe laughed savagely. "Or his gun."

The friends of the young trail driver waited. It was his business, not theirs, to make such answer as he chose. And it seemed that he chose to do so, unless that hard eyed, scornful look, which gave no more weight to the offensive swaggering than one gives a snarling dog, could be regarded as an answer.

"Not for him," Pete amended. "A fellow can go just so far. This town has made up its mind about him. This town knows who killed Joe Shear."

The voices of both men were heavy, overbearing. They were ready to make issue now their quarrel with this man.

But Jim was not ready. He had to clear his name. He had to discredit Pete as well as he could, completely and finally, for his father's sake as well as his own.

Without his helpers with him, the guys that shot out the lights before he did the dirty work," Roe went on, taking up his share of the duologue. "Come to town to terrorize decent citizens, I shouldn't doubt," Pete came back.

Sim Hart spoke. "Howdy, Buck?" he said with a grin. "Brung on decent citizens an' iemme tefrorize 'em, like yore young friend says. Anyway, what's eatin' you? Can't we walk peaceable down the street without gettin' picked on?"

"Who's pickin' on you? Do you claim we are?" Pete demanded fiercely. "Quit stompin' on the boys, Sim, an' both of 'em so tender and innocent." Barton drawled, sarcasm lurking in his voice.

The sheriff could be seen crossing the street. He did not appear to be walking exactly, but he was letting no grass grow beneath his feet.

Good Morning!

"They" say this picture is based on incidents from a book by Joseph Conrad—novel unmentioned. Hard to believe, for Conrad is always interesting and "Dangerous Paradise" never is.

The action occurs in South sea locale. Nancy Carroll is discovered as a girl violinist, pursued by evil men. She seeks sanctuary with one Heyst, a recluse living on a neighboring isle—and then happens what happens.

Miss Carroll and the villains and Dorthea Wolbert as the wife of one of the latter do the best they can, which isn't much because of yarn and direction. Richard Arlen acts like a stick and delivers his lines like an automaton.

One does NOT understand WHY producers WILL waste time, money, and good players on the sort of inferior stuff that "Dangerous Paradise" is made of.

THE CAST.

Thaddeus Cruikshank	Reginald Denny

Jasper Hickson	William Austin
Aunt Prudence	Virginia Sale
Betty Black	Greta Granstedt

This is a somewhat entertaining farce comedy which reveals that Reginald Denny has a pleasing voice, speaks with just a soupcon of a lisp and is quite as amusing young man in the talkies as in the silents. All this big de luxe comedian ever needs is a story. Give him that and he'll do the rest. "Embarrassing Moments" isn't much to brag over, but it gets by.

Miss Myrna Kennedy is agreeably present as a harassed maiden who, to get out of marrying an ache named Jasper, announces that she is involved in "a sort of trial marriage" with another man.

"WHO IS THIS MAN?" thunders father. She must think of a name rather quickly and pounces on one she spies on the cover of a nearby book.

"Thaddeus Cruikshank," she whispers.

The "embarrassing moments" follow after the manner of embarrassing moments in farce comedies the world over.

The picture has several laughs and several bits of bright pantomime.

Cancer Fighters Offer Prize for Design of the Campaign Seals

"Fight cancer with knowledge."

With that as their motto, the educational committee of the cancer research committee of the Chicago Woman's club will soon begin a campaign for funds with the sale of Easter seals. That was announced yesterday by Mrs. Frederick A. Lorenz, chairman of the committee.

The cancer research committee recently incorporated the Cancer Research Institute of Chicago, for which an endowment of $300,000 is being sought. The sale of the seals will be used only for disseminating knowledge on cancer, especially among the people of Illinois.

Preliminary to the sale of 100,000 Easter seals, which will be in April, a contest will be conducted in which a design for the cancer seal will be selected, Mrs. Lorenz said. The contest will be open to all, the requirements being a design three by four inches in not more than three colors and symbolizing hope, cheerfulness, or health. The designs must be sent to the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street, by March 10. Mrs. J. Kibben Ingalls has offered a prize of $100 to the winning design and a cup for the best design by a student of the Chicago Art institute.

"We expect to make the Easter seal sale a yearly effort for funds to carry on the cancer educational work," Mrs. Lorenz explained. "We hope to reach thousands of people, especially in Illinois, to teach them the necessity of a yearly physical examination. Our extension service will have available the Canti cancer moving picture films and others, with experts to explain them. These may be used by clubs, schools, and other interested groups. Talks on cancer also will be broadcast."

The jury which will select the official seal includes Frank G. Logan, president of the Chicago Art institute; John T. McCutcheon, TRIBUNE cartoonist; Mrs. Walter Brewster, president of the Public Schools Art society; Mrs. Henry Hoyt Hilton, president of the Chicago Woman's club; Miss Alice Roullier; Dr. Charles B. Reed, president of the Chicago Medical society, and Mrs. Lorenz. The designs will be exhibited at the Chicago Woman's club following the jury's decision.

An auxiliary of the educational committee of the cancer research committee will be formed at the club on Feb. 28 of women interested in the cancer cause. The educational committee will hold a private showing of the Canti films under the direction of Dr. Gilbert Fitz-Partick of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, at the theater in the club, March 27, at 4 p. m. The board of the Illinois State Federation of Women's Clubs will be honor guests.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Which stimulates you the most, books, observation, or discussion?

The Answers.

Miss Estelle A. Lutz, 1400 Lake Shore drive, office manager—I am an avid reader of fiction, travel, biography, and anything that tends to educate and broaden the mind. There are few real opportunities for discussion; observation depends much on lucky accidents.

Milton B. Cooper, 175 West Washington street, saxophone and clarinet teacher—Discussion In a discussion one is a participant, and thus sharpens one's wits, and has to increase his mental resources. Observation leads to better understanding of books; books tend to sharpen powers of observation; both those help to make discussion valuable.

Miss Vivian G. Skarim, Lyons, Ill., secretary—I prefer observation that stimulates thought. Everything I see seems to reveal a new light on something else. I get much more out of observation than by reading or discussion.

Mrs. W. E. Reynolds, 4716 Drexel boulevard, furrier — I am called a bookworm. By reading, undisturbed, I get far more out of books than by listening to ordinary conversation, and save time, too. There are few persons well versed in more than one subject.

R. P. Robertson, 2218 Fremont street, bookkeeper — Books stimulate me the most. Since reading Abbé Dimet's "The Art of Thinking" I select books more carefully, then not only read, but reread. In this way one gradually accumulates fundamental conclusions. Discussion and observation I find somewhat less useful.

Mountain Kids Rush to Attend Hoover School

Possum Hunter's Kindred Are Delighted.

Dark Hollow, Va., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Book learning came to Dark Hollow today to join mountain lore.

The opening of the community school sponsored by President Hoover brought twenty eager children and many parents trudging up the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia. The youngsters were to begin the magic trail of the printed word, and they came early.

The modern little school is perched high on Stony hill, hard by the summer camp of President Hoover. First to arrive there was 12 year old Ray Burraker, who last summer drew the attention of the chief executive to the need for a school in the section.

Then Ray brushed through the tangled growth about the camp to bring a 'possum to the President. This time Ray came to hoist Old Glory high on the school flagpole before the sun soared over Double Top mountain. The honor of lowering the flag this afternon fell to Ray's 9 year old brother, George Harold.

Ray was the best groomed of the nine boys and eleven girls, whose ages ranged between 5 and 15. George Harold, red sweatered and hair singed from helping burn trash on the ground, did not let his big brother have all the limelight. He was high in his praise of the radio Mr. Hoover had installed in the schoolhouse.

There were twelve Burrakers at the opening, eight of whom were pupils. Grandfather Burraker, 89, a gray bearded patriarch, and Grandma Burraker, 72, wearing a blue bonnet and a black suit, walked two miles to arrive bright and early. Possibility of saying "a few words" with President Hoover brought out grandpa, and grandma said she came because she had eight grandchildren there. Neither had been in a schoolhouse before.

Lloyd Woodward and Mrs. Woodward came with seven young Woodwards, two of whom were twins. The mother also carried a baby in her arms.

All the boys, with the exception of Ray Burraker, wore overalls and heavy shoes. Enthusiasm for school rivaled their enthusiasm over their teacher, Miss Christine Vesta of Yosemite, Ky., a graduate of Berea college.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THIS was a sentimental occasion, of course: the old star, the old character, the old play, grouped by happy circumstance for a leave-taking whose background covers fifty years of the American stage. But it was not sentimental enough to be emotionally silly, for William Gillette in "Sherlock Holmes" [the man in his seventy-fourth, the melodrama in its thirtieth year] still carries an up-to-the-minute thrill. There were none of us at the Erlanger last night who did not believe, when the darbies were clapped on Prof. Moriarty at the end, that the world had been made safer for our favorite detective.

Fifteen years have elapsed since Mr. Gillette's last revival of this thriller adapted from the fiction of Conan Doyle; eight years have passed since his last acting in Chicago, in "The Dream Maker." So one should note, first of all, how those years have treated the eminent veteran. With the kindness he has earned, it seems. There is no marked difference to be found between this Mr. Gillette of "the last bow" and the other who is easily remembered. The stirrup-cup he hands us holds to lees of pathos;—the old gentleman is himself and very much alive.

A stranger to Mr. Gillette's treatment of Sherlock Holmes might say upon his entrance, dress-suited and looking like a somewhat tired saint, that he is a decidedly languid detective, much in need of a rest cure. But that has always been Mr. Gillette's approach to the character. It suited his temperament to introduce Sherlock in one of his "intervals of torpor," upon which Doyle's early stories insist.

From lassitude and light irony to vibrant nerves and an alert pistol was the direction in which he chose to lead his action. That was the Gillette method of play-building—a slow, suave development of character and situation until the excitement came to a boil. So the younger generation, observing Sherlock's early debility, should not be misled about Mr. Gillette's physical condition.

The loyal Gillettians and the Sherlock Holmes "fans" turned out in force for this first-night, of course, and they were all of a glow until the last trick was turned and Moriarty manacled. This statement must not be taken to imply that it was an audience of venerables, for those who believe that Sherlock was a better detective than Philo Vance are still a lively crew, with a virile preference for bulldog pipes over Regie cigarets. Not one of them was heard to complain that the old play "creaks"; if so, he would have heard the tart answer that the contemporary melodramas not only creak but shriek.

The play, like its central character, has been revived in the terms of its first staging. It uses the "black outs" for act endings that were a famous novelty in their day, and it talks of hansoms rather than taxis. But its symptoms of age are not numerous enough to arouse the flippant. It holds its own ably enough; there is no encouragement to the sense of burlesque even in such lines as "When he strikes, it means death!" Sherlock's purple dressing gown looks like part of the original cast. But his pipe—well, maybe it's an anachronism, for it is a first cousin to a Dawes model.

Mr. Gillette's company represents excellent casting all along the line and acts as if bent upon getting every bit of meat out of the plot. This might easily be the best cast "Sherlock Holmes" has ever had. Certainly the Moriarty of John Miltern is a perfect realization of the grim, sardonic diabolism of the character. And for the British gameness and solidity of good old Dr. Watson (did Conan Doyle ever give him a first name?), Wallis Clark is altogether admirable. Roberta Beatty's clean-cut treatment of that handsome blackmailer, Madge Larrabee, is another performance worth noting.

So everything is as it should be, and Mr. Gillette's "Hail and Farewell" should not be missed.

W.C.T.U. Meets; Lauds Leader of Earlier Days

Frances Willard Is Called One of Prophets.

The Chicago central group of the Women's Christian Temperance union met at the Auditorium hotel yesterday. The occasion was the annual session honoring the memory of Frances Willard, a pioneer in the prohibition movement. She was first president of the Chicago Women's Christian Temperance union. About seventy women were on hand to hear Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, Des Moines, tell of the successes of prohibition. Mrs. Smith is national vice president of the W. C. T. U.

First, the women gave their customary salute to a speaker, led by Mrs. Anna L. Fisher, president of the Chicago union. It went something like this:

White ribbon, white ribbon, white ribbon!
Smith, Smith, Smith!
She's all right!
Who's all right?
Smith!

Then Mrs. Smith began telling of the "beautiful history and sentiment of the W. C. T. U., that other organizations don't have." First, however, she paid tribute to Frances Willard as having been the "uncrowned queen of our country."

"She made a marvelous prophecy, in political things, that I think certainly came from God," Mrs. Smith declared. "There were no apparent conditions then to warrant such a prophecy. She came to Central union sacrificing all she had had, for the sake of her duty. We are privileged to live in a day of accomplishment that might have not been but for Frances Willard.

"We are the organization. God has definitely assigned us to a certain place in this generation. The work of the W. C. T. U. is spiritual in its outlook. It is the cause of the Lord, though it has its political, economic, industrial, and health aspects. If we needed anything to prove that the Lord is with us, it is the leaders he sent. God called the work and Frances Willard was the Moses. We see it as plainly as the children of Israel of old. We are called of God for a definite purpose."

Mrs. Smith then chided the women mildly for not wearing little white ribbons. It didn't matter so much she told them, not wearing them to meetings, but they should be worn while in the streets. Above all, she reminded them, the ribbons, right where the cameras would find them, when members had their pictures taken.

Then the speaker returned to a recitation of the W. C. T. U.'s great achievements and responsibilities.

"We were organized for the extinction of the liquor traffic, and the prohibition law is the weapon by which the battle is to be fought," she said. "God has honored us by writing in the constitution the basic principle in the nation's life. We ought to be saying a perpetual prayer, for the Lord has brought us so marvelously on the way toward success."

Quoting scripture: "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free," Mrs. Smith turned to "the things going on in Washington.

"What are the wets having the hearing for? They know they can't get anywhere. Some one told me in Washington they like to get together and play jokes on one another. The drys go to the wets and say: "We rule you fellows out all the time so the rules committee has decided to have a hearing so the question can be put to a vote." But the wets don't want a vote. That would prove things right on the congress record. They want hearings—propaganda, to raise all the objections they can. They haven't had a new idea since the liquor license was formed.

"There never was a time in history when the W. C. T. U. was needed more to herald information than the present time. The wets will be heard two days a week and the drys, two days, then rebuttal. It is unfortunate that for some reason that only the Lord knows, no metropolitan dailies will give the dry side. People will not learn from the ordinary newspapers. It is for you ladies to give the truth.

"The prohibition question is like a war when an enemy is driven back trying to gather every bit of strength. The wets are driven back now and it is live or die with them now. They confess their own defeat by the activities in congress this very minute."

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE.

Thomas A. Edison, Doctor of Science at Rollins College

Winter Park, Fla., Feb. 24.—(AP)—Thomas Alva Edison, 83 year old electrical wizard, was given an honorary doctor of science degree today by Rollins college.

"Rollins college must rest content with honoring itself by conferring upon you the degree of doctor of science and admitting you to all its rights and privileges," Mr. Holt added.

Mr. Edison warmly clasped Dr. Holt's right hand and said "thank you." Mr. Edison is deaf.

Other honorary degrees also were conferred:

Antoinette Dubs This a Beauty Conscious Age

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Do you ever wonder what beauty worries worry women most?

I can tell you, from a pretty wide experience as personal confidante. Weight comes first, and it may surprise you, as it has persons I have told in private conversation, that a great number of women are interested in weight gaining. More worry about fat, of course. Nevertheless, the curved line of beauty is sought by the lean.

Wrinkles—chin, eye, mouth and cheek—claim a wide following wanting to exchange them for the unlined skin of youth.

Complexion blemishes, with blackheads heading the list, pimples and acne following, are among the leading offenses from which women constantly seek release.

Then hair ailments are not far behind, or discontent with hair dressing as it is unbecomingly practiced. Dry hair, oily hair, thinning hair, and falling locks absorb considerable of the mental unrest provoked.

And superfluous hair—I have not been able to decide whether it is a more common complaint of recent years or whether woman's general fastidiousness about her appearance does not make it just seem that way—anyway, it is a prominent source of worry. It and acne appear to cause the most embarrassment and mental suffering.

Fat never seems to reduce a woman to the same state of discouragement as these other two complaints. Women who have let themselves get "hefty" seem to accept their plight with the good natured philosophy with which they ate the poundage on. At least, they know why they are rounded out and who is to blame; also, they know they do not have to stay that way for any longer than they choose. And so they manage a good natured attitude about it.

We certainly are in a beauty conscious age. I doubt if history can report another that has as much fundamentally important interest. There have been periods when bodily beauty was exalted and periods when cosmetic lures were practised outrageously, and periods when coiffures achieved historic fame.

Again?

Men don't understand; and some women are so helpless. Each month they suffer untold pain, though those times could be entirely painless. Midol makes the natural, necessary process an incident; yes, even for those who have always experienced acute and prolonged suffering! Try Midol; anticipate your time and avoid all misery or even discomfort. Or take it when the pain is at its height, and feel at ease in five to seven minutes. Midol is not a narcotic; acts directly on organs affected. Fifty cents, metal case.*

* Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

ociety Girls Practice Polo at Riding Club

sports enthusiasts will welcome prospect of some rousing indoor games next week. The National Polo association [Illinois circuit] is sponsoring a series of tournaments on the evenings of March 5, 6, and 8 at the Chicago Riding club. Teams competing in the Illinois circuit will play for the regional championship, and the winners will go to New York for the national tournament beginning March 22. Proceeds of the games here are to be given to the Chicago Boys' club, the Boy Scouts, the American Legion, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Stuyvesant Peabody is chairman of the committee making the arrangements, and assisting him are Mrs. E. Strawn, George F. Nixon, Mrs. Valentine, and Jevne Haugan.

In making inquiries about the tournament, I discovered that polo is not a game that baffle the fair sex because of its roughness, and that several of the girls who ride at the Riding club have been playing polo games on Saturday afternoons for sometime now. The games are not regularly organized, but change personnel with each game. Among the young women who are regulars at the sport are Frances Lasker, daughter of Albert D. Laskers' daughter; Christine Drake, who will be out of the games now because she has gone to California with her parents, the Edward B. Drakes; Polly Perry, daughter of Mrs. I. Newton Perrys; Helen Hertz, Mrs. John Hertz's daughter; Jane Ripley, daughter of the Allen B. Ripleys; Mrs. Clare Tevander; Nan Reborl, Anne Reborl's daughter; Janet Llewellyn and Martha Warren.

Mrs. Countiss is one of the players, but she has had a little too much substantial whirl this winter to be able to devote much time to anything else.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Wieland of Sheridan road announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred, to Thorne Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Thomas Stewart of 1244 Lake Shore street. No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson of 1550 North State parkway has traveled from Florida to San Diego, Cal., to attend the wedding today of her niece, Walter Hamlin Dupee Jr., son of Mrs. F. Kennett Dupee of Coronado Beach, and Miss Elizabeth Stuyvesant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Smiley. The ceremony is to take place at the Smiley residence on Astor street.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, back from a Florida sojourn, will resume her duties as manager in chief of the Old Elephant Rummage shop's bargain bakemakers' sale on Thursday. Her regular committee will assist her. Among the prizes for sale now is a Packard brown station wagon, suggested as an investment for some one for a visit to the 1933 World's Fair. Mrs. Stanley T. Chase, who also helps with the rummage shop sales, is in Boston, Mass., for a 6 weeks' stay.

Mrs. Charles H. Swift, [Claire Dux] will give a musical for the benefit of the Three Arts club at the club Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Mrs. James C. Ames is chairman of the music committee, and tickets are available at the Three Arts club.

Dramatic little Leslie Thorne is in town staying at the Drake hotel for most of this week. She came on chiefly to see her sister, Mrs. Robert H. Andrews, who left yesterday with her children for Pasadena, Cal., where the Andrews are to live permanently from now on. They have sold their house in Winnetka, and will occupy Mrs. Andrews' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thorne, who have made in Pasadena. Miss Leslie will be living in independent fashion in her own apartment in New York city, where she works away at her dramas and her free lance work. She has not yet embarked into the professional art field, but will doubtless qualify for such in the near future.

Telegram announcements have arrived to tell of the birth of Christiane, daughter, to Mr. and Mrs. Christian Sorensen at Algiers. Mrs. Sorensen was Miss Anita Cameron, daughter of Mrs. M. Cameron of Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Widdifield, Virginia Chance, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold La Chance returned to Chicago yesterday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Widdifield, whose marriage took place at Glendora, Cal., on Feb. 15, will be at the Ambassador East until they move into their apartment on Sheridan road.

Wagner's Women on Canvas Petulent, but Interesting to View

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The exhibit of paintings by Karl Wagner in the Kroch galleries is well worth while. Primarily Karl Wagner is a colorist; secondarily a realist. He deals with every type of subject from lunch to portraits, first, as another opportunity for color. His gay and animated still life of fruits and rye bread, with an antique pitcher to relieve the abundance of food, is a cheerful canvas. Animation and assurance are perceptible in the portraits of women, all of a melancholy cast of countenance it is true, Slavic, a little sullen and more than a little petulant, women one would hate to cross, but interesting.

The portraits of his father are among the artist's best work. A delicate and reserved portrait of his mother is very fine. Gradually one works a path through these major canvases to the comparatively quiet backwater of pastel. Then a rich feast of beauty is spread. The tiny town of "Au," a part of Munich, is responsible for a number of fascinating sketches. It is a painter's paradise. Munich, too, has an inning with the English garden in early spring and ripe summer for subject.

More recent paintings are those done around and about Chicago. Mr. Wagner discovered spring here a few days ago and one of the most delicate and exquisite of his water colors is the view along the lake front looking south, the blue water on one hand, the towers of picturesque Chicago ahead, and the lake walk dotted with brisk figures savoring "Spring in February."

The Nachemsohn of London gallery, 910 North Michigan boulevard, announces the exhibit of paintings by Iwan F. Chultse will be continued to March 1, so popular has it proved. Thousands of visitors have enjoyed those magnificent paintings of sun and snow.

An exhibit of paintings by Grant Wood will open Sunday in the galleries of the National Academy of Art, 230 East Ohio street. The paintings will hang during the month.

In Her Golliwogs.

While touring the country with a company of concert dancers there was one important night when all the critics were out in front and we were anxious to do our best.

For warmth behind the scenes we wore ankle high sheepskin moccasins, ungainly and too large, so that they could quickly be discarded; we had nicknamed these golliwogs.

I was to open the program with an interpretive dance in chiffon draperies and barefoot. When the curtains parted I stood full in the spotlight, but my classic mood was shattered when waves of giggles passed over the audience. I looked down to see, to my utter amazement and chagrin that I had forgotten to take off my golliwogs. R. M.

Folk-Song Classics Are Compiled for Children's Delight

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A booklet by Mrs. Bevans on "Books to Be Read to Children or by Them" will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Sing It Yourself," though it might follow along, in age interest, soon after the song book reviewed yesterday, contains classics of folk music that we grownups love just as much as the children. Any mother who has ever listened in while a Virginia nurse sang "Short'nin' Bread," or "The Frog Went A-Courtin'" to her little boy or girl, got fully as much delight from her eavesdropping as the baby-chile did.

So it is hard to say that the songs in "Sing It Yourself" belong to any age, because they are folk songs.

The songs in this collection were sung by Dorothy Gordon to child audiences. Before each song is printed the introduction as it is given by Miss Gordon at her recitals. These introductions are as entertaining as stories, and they give an authentic background to the songs which enriches them. Of course, they may be omitted if one does not care for that sort of thing in relation to music, or if they do not hold the children's interest.

To give an idea of the character of the songs and the range of interest they cover, here is a brief description of the contents. There are three groups of American songs: Indian, Colonial and plantation. There is a group of English, Scotch and Irish. There are two French songs, two German songs, and one each from Norway and Russia.

Among the American songs are "Grandma Grunts," the "Little Pig," "The Frog Went A-Courtin'." There's also "When Your Potato's Done," "Creation," "Louisiana Lullaby," and "Short'nin' Bread."

Among those from the British Isles are "Come Lasses and Lads," "John Grumlie," "The Leprechaun," "The Old Woman and the Peddler."

The French songs are "La Cigale et Le Fourmi," and "Ma Fille, As-Tu un Bouquet?" The German are "Ratsel," and "Suse, Liebe Suse." The Norwegian is "Paul on the Hillside," and the Rissian is "The Wooing of the Titmouse." The Indian group is from the songs collected by Natalie Curtis, who lived among the Indians for many years.

This is a charming book and worthy of page decorations of more artistic value and of more appeal to children than are employed.

"Sing It Yourself" is published by E. P. Dutton of New York and costs $3.50.

because two-to-one leavening is just the right leavening at just the right time

Actual experience in baking, as well as scientific laboratory tests, shows that best results in baking are obtained when two-thirds of the leavening action takes place in the mixing and one-third takes place in the oven. The Rumford Baking Powder formula is perfected to produce precisely this leavening action in every baking under all conditions. That's why Rumford always gives you superior results. Perfect leavening is a guaranteed certainty when you use Rumford because Rumford leavening action takes place only in this ideal Two-to-One proportion.

HAVANA, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Havana was selected by delegates to the first congress of university deans and rectors as the permanent see of the American Institute of Intellectual Cooperation at its final plenary session here this morning.

It was also announced that the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial foundation has extended Latin-American fellowships of the foundation to citizens of Cuba.

Selection of this city as permanent see of the institute provided for conferences similar to those held here the last four days. They would be held every two years; the next conference to take place at Lima, Peru, in 1932, from that date the conferences will be held in various capitals of nations represented this year in Havana.

The constitution and bylaws of the institute were ratified this morning, providing intellectual coöperation for interchange of professors and scholarships and for adoption of standard textbooks among nations of the new world.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

Black silk crêpe was used for this particularly graceful frock, with a youthful peplum that falls in cascading jabot effect down the left side of the skirt. The fitted bodice suggests a basque, with its narrow belt marking the normal waistline. The jabot treatment of the skirt is repeated in the jabot caught at the left side of the collarless neckline, which is finished with an applied band.

The pattern, 3265, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

Cut-Up Chiffon Frocks for Chic Parisiennes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The vogue for cross word puzzles is gasping its last, but cross cuts speed the Paris frock toward chic. The Paris couturiers react against the long supremacy of the chemise frock by cutting their cloth into dozens of pieces and putting it together again in new and intriguing fashions. This is going to make life hard for the little dressmaker, for the proof of the cutting is in the fitting, and it takes a very sure, masterful hand to fit the pieces of these sartorial puzzles into chic.

But the cross cuts are valuable aids to grace. Flowing, curved, or diagonal lines prove that the hand is quicker than the eye. They make a too rounded figure appear slender, they abolish hips, establish height, and ripple into fullness at the right moment. Cross cuts in satin or wool are smart; in chiffon they are irresistible. Cross cut frocks disdain superimposed trimmings. Their decorative lines supply plenty of chic interest.

When the cut-up frock form's part of an ensemble it is usually accompanied by a simple coat or cape which does not distract the eye from the main center of attraction. The frock is of chiffon or heavy, indestructible tulle, and the wrap is of lustrous satin. Some of the loveliest evening frocks seen along the Riviera this season are of the cross variety, and they are very appropriate for the informal southern life, as they are not overornate and yet are sufficiently dressed for any occasion.

Redfern makes this evening ensemble, with its puzzle frock and graceful double cape, in a beautiful shade of rosy gray. The princess dress is in gray chiffon, cross cut into diagonal empiècements which converge with beautifully slenderizing effect on the right side of the natural waist, where they are caught with a jeweled ornament. The curved cuttings of the ankle length skirt widen into godets as they descend. The pointed back décolleté is naturally lower than the front. The frock is sleeveless and is worn over a rose pink satin slip.

The cape of rosy gray satin has a wrist length pèlerine entirely framed in fluffy baby fox dyed rosy gray to match. It can be worn hanging free from the shoulders or draped tightly round the hips. Silver plated galuchat slippers and grayed rose stockings are worn with this ensemble.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Salt Pork Dainties.

Perhaps if we would use the French name for salt pork, which is petit salé, we would have a more pleasant psychological reaction to this most useful food. Plain solid fat pork is used to lard the finest meats we cook—the beef tenderloin to be roasted, the elegant squab and other small birds—and yet there are people who will actually say that salt pork is "nasty."

The only ugly anonymous letter I have had for a year came to me because I recommended salt pork sandwiches made with browned scraps, which I considered excellent. The writer said it was all right to use salt pork with beans, but she labelled its use for sandwiches with the word just mentioned, and evidently could not see the inconsistency of using the objectionable thing with beans, which are also an exceedingly dainty food when treated in the right way.

Of all the things our grandmothers "put down," or perhaps it was the grandfathers, salt pork was one of the most useful and used in the most ways. A plain vegetable hash heated up in a little salt pork fat had a meaty flavor, also hashed brown potatoes and mush. The ever desirable fish and clam chowders owe a great deal of their quality to the little browned dice of salt pork, added to the layers of potato, onion and fish and cooked in water, with a final addition of milk or cream.

To prepare the pork for a fish chowder, or just for a plain potato and onion stew, get a solid piece of pork, and use only a little, or more if you desire. Be sure that it is as immaculate as possible. Cut off the underside, scrape any cut side that is weathered, and cut off the skin. Cut this into small dice. Put into a heavy bottomed kettle one or two tablespoons of sweet butter, then put in the pork and brown it gently on all sides.

Cook enough to use for other purposes if you have learned to do so, and you can guess what some of the uses might be if you will taste of these nicely browned bits before they are wet with the preparation for the chowder.

Children Find It Hard to Respect Dissipated Parents

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If parents want their children nice, respected and admired beings, the children certainly do return them the compliment. They want their parents to be above reproach. They want them following the most conventional standards, if what I hear is any criterion. And I hear plenty from outraged young sons and daughters.

On father the judgment may not be so puritanical—but when mother fails to uphold the diginity of her position, charity toward her is not one of the virtues current in young circles. Young people have certain hide-bound standards about parents and when mothers fail them, pity toward human weakness is not the common youthful reaction. Contempt, disgust, disrespect consume the offended young soul.

Characteristic is the story of one who signs herself "Unhappy Girl." Her father, whom she adored, died three years ago. Shortly after his death, Mother developed symptoms colloquially known as being "mancrazy."

"It is not one man, one nice man in whom one could see a possible future husband for her," complains her 18 year old daughter. "I would not object to a step-father, for mother is young enough looking to want to marry again. But she acts like the silliest kind of flapper. She wants a crowd of men around her all of the time.

"Her telephone conversations are ridiculous for a woman of her age. The boys who came to see me are not free from her machinations. But don't think it is jealousy. The boys snicker about it and it just made me heartsick when I overheard a remark one of them made to another on the occasion of a party at my house on 'the gay old girl,' meaning my mother.

"And the boy I like best of all does not like her. I suppose it is because she is so unlike his own mother he can't understand any mother being like that."

Recently from a 20 year old son came a heart-sick letter about his mother whom he discovered suddenly one evening, in a dimly lit living room in the embrace of a man who frequents their home and poses as a dear friend of his father.

And not long since, to add another chapter to the tragedy of youth as perpetrated by parents, was a 23 year old's reported revulsion over the drinking habits of both her mother and father.

It is something to ponder over, you parents! Behind the mask of gay and carefree youth there is serious, solemn thinking going on and the well-known admonition to "Honor your parents" has been translated to read "Honor only those parents to whom honor is due."

*Digestible as milk itself!

Let them eat it . . . freely!

A NEW milk food for children! Delightful flavor of finest cheese in healthful, nutritious form.

Kraft-Phenix now give you Velveeta—their crowning achievement. All the elements of milk are in it. Milk-sugar to aid assimilation, protein for building, minerals for bones and teeth, and butterfat for growth. Velveeta is digested without tax. Let your youngsters enjoy it. You can spread it like butter, or chill it and slice. And it's ideal for cooking and toasting. At your grocer's—in the half pound package.

Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation. Makers of famous "PHILADELPHIA" Cream Cheese.
